M'ADOO REMOVES THE PRESIDENTS OF ALL RAILROADS; FRICTION THE CAUSE; TO EMPLOY SOME AT LOWER SALARIES; BRITISH GAIN GROUND AND BEAT OFF COUNTERATTACK

HAIG WINS NEAR MERVILLE

REPULSES COUNTERATTACK

Germans, Despite Artillery Aid, Make No Impression Upon New British Lines.

FRENCH REPULSE TWO RAIDS

Drive Germans Back North of Bailleul—Only Artillery Duels on Petain's Front.

LONDON, May 21.—By a local operation northwest of Merville, on the Lys front, the British troops last night improved their positions and captured thirty prisoners and six machine guns.

This morning, after heavy artillery preparation, the Germans made a strong counterattack, on a front of 1,200 yards, against the new positions, but came to close quarters at only two points, where, says Field Marshal Haig's night bulletin, " they were dealt with effectively," the British line remaining intact.

Hostile artillery has been active at various points on the British front from Albert northward. The gas shelling north of Bethune has been especially heavy.

The day announcement from the British War Office is as follows:

> A successful local operation was carried out by troops of the Surrey Battalion yesterday evening northwest of Merville. A re-entrant in our line in this sector was closed up, and thirty prisoners and six machine guns were captured by us.
> Early this morning a hostile counterattack against the new positions, delivered after a heavy bombardment, was broken up by our artillery and machine-gun fire.
> We carried out a successful raid last night southeast of Arras and brought back a few prisoners and a machine gun from the enemy's trenches.
> During the night the hostile artillery was active in the Albert sector, about Hebuterne between the Forest of Nieppe and Meteren, and more active than usual between the Scarpe River and Hill 70, north of Lens. The gas shelling reported to have taken place yesterday north of Bethune was heavy.

Following is the text of the night bulletin from British Headquarters in France:

> A hostile counterattack launched this morning against our new position northwest of Merville was made in considerable strength upon a front of 1,200 yards. A very heavy bombardment preceded the enemy's advance; but, despite the intensity of his artillery preparations, his infantry only succeeded in reaching our positions at two points, where they were dealt with effectively by our troops in each case. Our whole line is intact.
> Two raids which the enemy attempted last night in the sector north of Bailleul were repulsed by the French troops.
> We secured a few prisoners and a machine gun this morning in a patrol encounter in the neighborhood of Boyelles.

The official statement from the French War Office tonight reads:

> There were no infantry actions. The artillery was intermittently active south of the Somme, along the Meuse and in the Vosges.
> On May 19 our fighting pilots destroyed six German airplanes and nine other enemy machines fell within their lines severely damaged. That day and also on the night of May 19-20 twenty-five thousand kilograms of projectiles were dropped by our bombing machines.

The day statement from the French War Office reads:

> Both artilleries were active last night in the region of Thennes and Hailles and at other points south of the Avre.
> French patrols operating southwest of Lassigny, on the right bank of the River Meuse and in the Lorraine sector, returned with prisoners.

Kerensky Wrongly Reported As Arrived from Russia

A report which reached Washington last night that Alexander Kerensky, the picturesque young chief of the Russian revolution, who was overthrown by the Bolshevist element, had arrived in this city from Europe proved last night to be unfounded.

There was an inclination in Washington to credit the report not only on account of its semi-official origin but because there has been reason to believe that Kerensky was on his way to America from a place in Northern Europe. At the Russian Embassy, however, no advices of his arrival were received, and further investigation proved the report to be incorrect.

RUSSIA'S PLIGHT GROWING WORSE

Famine, Civil War, and Cholera Are Ravaging the Distracted Country.

ALLIED ACTION AGAIN URGED

Civil Commission, with Military Support, to Rally Better Elements in Siberia Proposed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Conditions in Russia are worse than ever. People are starving in several parts of the country. A famine exists in Petrograd. There is cholera in Astrakhan, and in the Caspian Sea region.

Information as to these conditions came to the State Department today. This Government is anxious to afford relief, but it was said at the department that there seemed to be no way to extend assistance, as supplies would fall into the possession of the Germans. It was suggested, however, that as the port of Archangel was open it might be possible for the Red Cross to resume relief work if it could obtain assurances from the Bolshevist authority that the Red Cross agents would be permitted to distribute the supplies.

The whole country appears to be in a state bordering on anarchy. The Bolshevist Government has done nothing to remedy the situation, and the Germans are carrying affairs with a high hand, paying no attention to the obligations into which they entered at Brest-Litovsk with the Bolshevist delegates and the envoys of the Ukraine. Civil was is raging in Siberia and sections of European Russia.

Al this brings advantage to the Germans. As long as they are able to prevent Russia from having a strong central Government and keep various factions fighting among themselves, they will be building up sentiment that will drive the starving and perturbed people to seek the re-establishment of law and order from the Germans themselves. It is conceded that this outcome is possible, even probable, in spite of the fact that the hatred of Germany is growing with the spreading knowledge that the Berlin Government regards the pledges made at Brest-Litovsk as mere scraps of paper.

Cling to Dream of Peace.

The Bolshevist Government and the Government of the Ukraine cling, however, to their dream of peace. This is indicated by a dispatch received at the State Department today from Moscow, dated May 12, saying that a Russian delegation was leaving for Kiev to enter into peace negotiations with the Ukraine. This information would be an encouraging symptom to those who are hoping for a reuniting of the various Russian political and racial segments if it were not for the practical certainty that Germany had assented to the meeting.

In the meantime, while everything that is happening in Russia will ultimately help Germany's plans unless assistance is extended to the better elements in the former dominions of the Czar by the allied nations, nothing has been done to afford promise of allied intervention.

The Allies are apparently divided into three groups of opinion on this important situation. Great Britain and France are anxious to take military action without delay. The United States holds, it is understood, that the situation will tend to adjust itself if there is no interference from outside. Japan, having proposed that she take possession of Vladivostok and other places in Eastern Siberia for the purpose of protecting foreign interests and preventing the spread of German influence and having had her suggestion vetoed by the United States, is credited with being indifferent in that direction. Japan has taken her own course by entering into an agreement with China for the mutual protection of their interests from possible German aggression aided by the Bolshevist forces.

All that can be learned here concerning the position of the Washington Government indicates that it has not been moved by the desire of Great Britain and France for quick action, having the double purpose of saving Russia and bringing her back as a strong nation into the Entente. The officials con-

3 HILLS GERMANS COVET

Scherpenberg, Mont Rouge, and Mont Noir Now Made More Difficult of Approach.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

WAR CORRESPONDENTS' HEADQUARTERS, May 21.—The successful French attack in Flanders yesterday was important defensively because it broadened the grounds between the enemy on Mont Kemmel and the French positions around Scherpenberg, Mont Rouge, and Mont Noir, those three hills upon which the Germans have fixed covetous eyes.

The places regained most gallantly by the French troops include the hospice at Locre, where, as I have written before, the grave of Major Willie Redmond is in the garden, very peaceful in the shade of the trees beyond the old convent where the Flemish nuns used to wait at table on the Irish soldiers before the war swept up to it and around it.

Beyond that are little bits of ruin amid the litter of these new battlefields—a farm and Klein Vierstraat cabaret and the Pompier (fireman) Estaminet—and these are now in French hands, extending their line eastward and giving them more elbow room.

To me and to many of us Scherpenberg, which the enemy made fruitless efforts to take, is a place to which our memories of this war will often go back, because on a fine day, when there was nothing else to do, it was good in the old days to climb up its slope and watch the panorama of the Ypres battlefield which lay outspread before it, with the City of Ypres itself, white and woeful, in the distance, and the tall spire of Poperinghe as a landmark, and the roads from Dickebusch and Vierstraat charging up toward Wytschaete Ridge, where the German trenches were very clearly seen before the battles in Flanders last year made them British until April of this.

Scherpenberg is but a small hill of sandy earth covered with undergrowth, very green in Summer, except on the crest, where the old windmill stood on a bare space of ground with sails creaking in the wind. This windmill may be as famous after the war as that other one in France from which the English King at Crecy watched the scene of battle.

Here in March, 1915, close to the mill house, stood a number of English officers, among whom was Sir Henry Smith-Dorrien. watching the attack upon Wytschaete Ridge, and presently a very young officer came up, saluted the General, and somebody by my side said: " Who is that, Lieutenant? "

It was a royal Prince who had come to watch one of the first assaults upon the enemy's fixed positions and the preliminary bombardment. It was a shrapnel bombardment and the feeblest thing compared with our modern power in artillery, with one old grandmother fifteen-inch howitzer, newly arrived—there were simple souls who thought she would win the war—to add to the noise and smoke.

Needless to say we did not take Wytschaete Ridge that day, nor for two years later, and it was a futile attack which we watched from Scherpenberg in times unlike these.

Many visitors to our front went to that hill, which was a nice safe place for people of importance, and a Flemish woman up there could claim acquaintance—and she was a pleasant, gossipy soul—with distinguished stran-

RED CROSS FUND HERE $8,280,317

Cleveland H. Dodge and Standard Oil Give $500,000 Each, Payne Whitney $250,000.

LEADERS ASK MORE SPEED

Atlantic Division Reports $4,797,607 Already Pledged—Roosevelt Urges Sacrifice.

New York's total in the Second Red Cross War Fund Drive for a minimum of $100,000,000 in the entire country was $8,280,317.39 at noon yesterday, the second day. The largest individual subscription yesterday was $500,000 from Cleveland H. Dodge, in addition to the gift of $250,000 by the Phelps-Dodge Corporation. The largest corporation gift was $500,000 by the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey.

Yesterday contributions here were slightly below those of the day before, when the total was estimated at $4,500,000. The rate at which contributions have been received so far, if continued, would make New York's total about $20,000,000, which would be $4,000,000 above its quota. But if New York City does not go over its quota by more than $4,000,000, the leaders of the drive will be greatly disappointed. Word was sent out yesterday to team leaders and Red Cross workers to increase the speed and aggressiveness of the drive in every possible way.

Committees collecting in the business district and the workers making the house-to-house canvass worked hard all day yesterday in spite of the rain, which spoiled most of the open-air meetings.

Few Individuals to be Overlooked.

The Red Cross organization is so large in numbers and has worked out its plans in such detail that few individuals and firms will be overlooked, and most will be solicited many times, but any one who has been missed may make his contribution by a check payable to the American Red Cross, sent to " The American Red Cross, Woolworth Building."

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt's appeal to investors in Liberty bonds to turn their bonds over to the Red Cross has produced a number of gifts of this kind, and the Red Cross wants all it can get. A ruling from Washington has been received, however, that War Savings Stamps cannot be accepted.

Several large meetings were held successfully indoors yesterday and last night, the greatest being the benefit given by Josef Hofmann, the pianist, at Carnegie Hall, at which Colonel Roosevelt stirred a large audience with an appeal in fervent and dramatic language, in which he rated the man who came out of the war with an increased fortune as second only to the draft dodger on the calendar of infamy.

Missing Captain Suffered Only Fractures—How Germans Hide Air Losses.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 20.—At the funeral this afternoon of Major Lufbery it was announced by the American General that the boche battleplane which brought down the American " ace " yesterday had been downed by the French.

This avenging of Lufbery's death by a Frenchman was a fitting climax to the life story of the American whose career epitomized the sisterhood of the two great Republics. Lufbery's father was an American; his mother was French. He fought in the French Army until his own nation entered the war and then was our foremost " ace."

The boche battleplane that brought down Lufbery was got by the French a few miles away. After one French pilot had been lost, another succeeded in getting a lucky bullet home through the steel armor to the pilot. The Germans in the plane were dead when found. The machine, it was found, carried six machine guns, which were operated by two gunners.

American fliers feel gratitude for the avenging of Lufbery's death, but it is tinged with regret that they had not done it themselves.

Military Honors at Funeral.

Major Lufbery was buried with full military honors on a hillside back of the American lines. His grave was dug in a field of buttercups. On a perfect day, it was a brilliant military spectacle when America and France joined in last honors to the American flier.

It was an imposing ceremony. As the Chaplain was uttering the last prayer, six of Lufbery's fellow-fliers swept low over the field and dropped red roses on his bier. A tender tribute to Lufbery's memory was paid by the French General, who said that Lufbery's work was typical of the union of America and France in the common cause. He closed his eloquent tribute with the simple words, " au revoir."

Starting out this morning to avenge the death of his friend Lufbery, Captain D. M. K. Peterson ran into two boche machines and forced down one. Peterson is the first American to become an " ace " in working with the American air service back of the American lines.

Captain Hall a Prisoner.

I learned today that Captain Norman Hall, who was brought down recently behind the German lines and was believed to have been killed, is in a German hospital with broken arms and an injured foot, but is otherwise well.

A captured German aviator gave interesting information as to the composition of the German official statement as to aerial losses. He said that whenever even a part of a machine in falling was recovered as salvage, the machine was not counted as lost. This course is far different from the Allies' way of keeping count of both the German and their own losses. This German said the boche aviators did not take the official statements of air losses seriously, and that they were larger than Berlin stated.

I saw today at Toul the wreck of the machine brought down yesterday by Lieutenant Douglas Campbell. It was a photographic machine of very heavy construction. The engine was especially heavy, with six cylinders of the stationary type. On the bottom of a piece of the wreckage was the word " Verboten "—just a touch of the pathos of this game called war.

Want the War to Go On to Victory

In letters from home received by American soldiers there has been of late considerable talk of the war's ending this year and the expression of fond hopes of the boys being back by next Christmas. This is not doing

Director General McAdoo's Announcement Of New Plan for Operation of Railroads

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Director General McAdoo's announcement of the new policy of railroad control, dictated from his sickroom at home tonight, was as follows:

> In view of the direct responsibility for the operation of the railroads of the country placed upon Director General McAdoo by the act of Congress and by the proclamations of the President, he has been unable to escape the conclusion that it will be advisable to place in direct charge of each property for operating purposes a representative, to be known as the Federal Manager, who will report to the Regional Director. As far as practicable, this Federal Manager will be chosen from the operating officers of the particular property, who are therefore entirely familiar with its employes and with its conditions.
> Except so far as may be necessary to meet the emergency conditions which compel the Government to take control of the railroads, the Federal Manager of each railroad will endeavor to avail himself to the fullest extent of the advantages incident to the operation of the particular railroad as a unit and the preservation of its identity. This is believed to be of essential importance, not only to secure the best results during the period of Government control, but also to give the greatest degree of reassurance to the officers and employes that the railroad careers upon which they have entered will not be narrowed, but, if anything, will be broadened, and to give the greatest possible reassurance to the stockholders that their just interests in the properties will be respected and that nothing will be needlessly done to have even the appearance of impairing their just rights.
> While in this way the responsibility for the operation of the property will be directly to the Regional Directors, and not to the Boards of Directors, it is the purpose of the Director General to accord to the Boards of Directors and their representatives the fullest opportunity to keep advised as to the operation and improvement of the properties and to maintain with the Director General and the Regional Directors the fullest interchange of views as to what is in the best interest of the Government and of the stockholders.
> In the development of this policy the Regional Directors, and also the Federal Managers, will be required to sever their official relations with the particular companies and to become exclusive representatives of the United States Railroad Administration.
> The first moves in the inauguration of this policy will be through the creation of two new regions, to be known as the " Allegheny region " and the " Pocahontas region."
> The Allegheny region will consist, broadly, of the Pennsylvania lines east of and including Pittsburgh and Erie; Baltimore & Ohio, east of Pittsburgh and the Ohio River, including Pittsburgh terminals; Bessemer & Lake Erie Railroad, Cumberland Valley Railroad, Central Railroad of New Jersey, Coal & Coke Railroad, Philadelphia & Reading Railway, Western Maryland Railway, Cumberland & Pennsylvania, and Pittsburgh & Lake Erie. This region will be placed in charge of C. H. Markham as Regional Director, (who has resigned his connections with the Illinois Central and other companies,) who will have offices in Philadelphia.
> The Pocahontas region will consist of the Chesapeake & Ohio Railway east of Columbus, Cincinnati, and Louisville; the Norfolk & Western Railway, and the Virginian Railway, including the terminals of all lines at Hampton Roads. With the exception of the Allegheny and the Pocahontas regions, the Eastern region will remain as originally defined, with A. H. Smith as Regional Director, and District Directors under Regional Director Smith will be appointed for New England and for that portion of the Eastern region west of Pittsburgh and the Ohio River and south of the Erie main line. The selection of the Regional Directors for the Pocahontas region and for the Southern region, succeeding Mr. Markham, as well as of the two new District Directors under Regional Director Smith, will be announced later.
> The same policy will be applied from time to time, as rapidly as may be convenient, in other parts of the country, always with the greatest possible regard for all the interests affected and with a view to preserving intact, as far as reasonably practicable, the operating organizations of the companies.

CARDINAL FARLEY ACTS ON SINN FEIN

MEETS WOMEN'S PROTEST

Action Taken After Mrs. Francis C. Barlow Had Written Denouncing Priest's Activities.

Mrs. Francis C. Barlow of 47 East Sixty-fourth Street and the other patriotic women who sent a letter to Cardinal Farley protesting against Catholic priests taking part in Sinn Fein meetings in this country received a reply from the Cardinal, through Mgr. Thomas G. Carroll, his secretary, yesterday. The specific protest was against the activity of the Rev. Peter E. Magennis, who presided at Irish meetings in Madison Square Garden and in Carnegie Hall. Mrs. Barlow sent her protest to the Cardinal on May 10, and, failing to get a reply, she made the letter public. The letter from Mgr. Carroll follows:

> The Cardinal's Residence,
> Dear Madame: His Eminence Cardinal Farley, Archbishop of New York, has received the protest signed by a number of ladies and gentlemen of this city regarding the meeting held in Madison Square Garden on the evening of May 4. His Eminence desires me to state that this meeting was not held under the auspices of the Catholic Church and that he did not believe the notices published that the Rev. Peter E. Magennis would preside.
> The fact that Father Magennis did act as Chairman of the meeting surprised his Eminence, who has since informed the father that he will not be permitted to remain in the Archdiocese of New York if he attempts to preside at such meetings.
> Father Magennis is a member of the Carmelite Order, and does not belong to the diocesan clergy of New York. His Eminence, however, as the local Bishop, has control of his public activities. Very sincerely yours,
> THOMAS G. CARROLL, Secretary.

At the Cardinal's residence it was learned that the Cardinal had taken up the matter of the protest, and that he had ordered Father Magennis, because of his official character as a member of

IRISH RISING PART OF BIG PLOT HERE

Attempts Also Made by Germans to Incite Negroes, Finns, Lithuanians.

REVEALED BY WASHINGTON

British Search for More Evidence in Ireland—Anti-Draft Manifesto Issued.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Disclosure today that the Government has gathered evidence in this country of conspiracies between Sinn Fein leaders and German agents to precipitate a rebellion in Ireland was followed by the announcement that Government agents had uncovered similar German intrigues with other nationalistic groups in the United States.

German money, it was said, had been used to finance agitation among negroes and also among Finns, Lithuanians, and others of the so-called " oppressed nationalities " which for years have had nationalist grievances against Russia. In most cases, this propaganda has been carried on by Americans affiliated with these groups, paid from some mysterious source believed to be the German Government. Except among the radical Irish agitators, the propaganda did not appear to make much headway.

For many months, it is now revealed, United States Government agents have been inside the councils of the Irish in this country, who plotted armed insurrection against British rule, and have discovered conclusive evidence that German money and promises of aid stimulated the conspiracies as a means of diverting the British Government from its war task in France.

Evidence Given to British.

Direct action to stop the intrigue was not considered advisable, as the Government did not wish to meddle in domestic problems of the British Empire, but the information gathered was turned over in some cases to British representatives, and it is understood that the recent arrest of a number of Sinn Feiners was prompted partly by evidence of German-Irish plots discovered in this country.

Full details of the evidence were not made public, it was explained, because a number of persons are still under surveillance. Some announcement of the reasons for the arrest of the Irish

NEW PLAN OF RAIL CONTROL

SALARY LIMIT IS $20,000

HUNTINGTON FIRST TO GO

Virginian Railway Head Removed for Alleged Disobedience—Young Is Successor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—A sweeping order was issued tonight by William G. McAdoo, Director General of Railroads, providing for the removal of all railroad Presidents from active participation in the conduct of the various systems and the selection, as operating heads of the lines, of experts to be named by the Railroad Administration.

It is understood here that the step was taken because of the lack of cooperation on the part of some of the railroad executives who are involved in the wholesale shake-up. At the same time it was intimated that the majority of the deposed railroad Presidents would be named by Mr. McAdoo as Federal Managers.

The new régime will have the effect of placing in charge of each individual system Government agents who must sever all relations with the companies with which they are at present connected, and make themselves, as Government employes, answerable only to the Railroad Administration, through the various Regional Directors.

These men, it is said, will be expected to accept salaries to be fixed by the Administration, and it is reported that no salary of this kind will be in excess of $20,000 a year. No official confirmation of this could be obtained, however.

The railroad Presidents who are stripped of their powers and not named later as the Federal Managers of their roads, it is understood, are not to receive remuneration out of the operating revenues of the railroads for whatever services they may hereafter perform, but must look to the owners of the roads to pay them out of the moneys received from the Government.

Many Rumors of Antagonism.

There have been rumors for some time of an impending shake-up, based largely on reports that Mr. McAdoo believed the Executive heads of some of the railroad systems were not co-operating fully with the Railroad Administration. In fact, it has been stated that in some quarters a spirit of antagonism has existed ever since the Railroads War Board was deposed by Mr. McAdoo.

This condition, it was said, was not widespread, but presented a condition which some of the officials of the Railroad Administration believed required drastic action. It also was argued that placing a Federal manager in charge of each of the systems would be a step toward complete Government control which would prove most effective in obtaining the highest efficiency in carrying out Government policies.

It has been asserted further that the lack of complete co-operation in all directions had hindered the Government program of routing all freight by the shortest way, despite the best efforts of the Government officials in charge here. It is believed that the greatest efficiency in this connection could be obtained by placing the Government in full control of the lines as individual systems as well as a whole, and selecting as the head of each system a man who would be answerable to Mr. McAdoo and who could be dealt with as a Goverment agent and not as an employe of a corporation.

It was said tonight that where the railroad Presidents were not re-named as Federal Managers, it was probable that one of the Vice Presidents in charge of operations, who met with the approval of the Railroad Administration would be chosen. A careful study of the situation, and of the men who have been directing the operation of individual lines under Government control, has been in progress for some time, and carefully prepared reports have been obtained.

C. W. Huntington Removed.

The first direct intimation that there was trouble in store for some of the high-salaried railroad executives and that the Railroad Administration was preparing to enter upon a new system of operation came this morning with the removal of Charles W. Huntington, President and General Manager of the Virginian Railway, by order of Mr. McAdoo. It was stated that the power of Mr. Huntington had been curtailed because of disobedience of orders concerning the improvement of the road and maintenance of roadbed and equipment.

J. H. Young, a Director of the Virginian Railway, was designated as Federal Manager of the road. Mr. Huntington, it was said, would remain as President of the corporation, and it is probable that similar action will be followed in regard to the Presidents of other railroads who are stripped of their powers in connection with the operating end of the systems. They must not, however, look to the Government for their salaries, or expect to have powers over the physical properties involved.

In the case of Mr. Huntington, it was said that he would, so far as the Railroad Administration was concerned, continue to draw his salary, which is to be paid, if the Directors see fit, out of the funds supplied to the corporation by the United States Government, in compensation for the use of its property.

The Virginian Railway, built by the late H. H. Rogers of the Standard Oil Company, is a coal road running from Norfolk to Deepwater, W. Va. The principal complaint against Mr. Huntington, as far as could be learned at the offices of the Railroad Administration, was that he had failed to be prompt in complying with orders in regard to the conduct of his road and of its maintenance.

In this regard the case is said to be typical of others which prompted the decision for a general shake-up. It was intimated, for instance, that Mr. Huntington insisted upon supporting methods differing from those adopted by the Railroad Administration, and this course, it was held, was not the one desired now that the Government had taken control and was responsible to the people for the maximum of efficiency.

In connection with Mr. Huntington's road—and it is said that the same experience has been had with others—opposition was raised on technical questions. The Railroad Administration was not in a mood to discuss the merits of such points and asked simply that instructions be carried out.

It is understood that the Federal Manager of each road will have complete authority to remove any operating officials of the road whose services are unsatisfactory.

RAILWAY PRESIDENTS SURPRISED BY SHAKEUP

Move Also Unexpected in Banking Circles—Salary Question a Vital One.

The news of Director General McAdoo's action in removing the railroad Presidents was received with decidedly mixed feelings in railway and banking circles last night. While railroad officers who had been working in close touch with Washington since the Government took charge were expecting a number of changes, few if any looked for a clean sweep to be made in a single order. The Presidents of several large roads who were reached by telephone said the Director General's action was entirely unexpected.

"While there had been rumors that some such development was possible," said E. E. Loomis, President of the Lehigh Valley, "nothing definite had been heard. The decision by the Director General is a surprise."

A. H. Smith, President of the New York Central and Regional Director for the territory around New York, desired to learn the details of Mr. McAdoo's announcement, but had no comment to make. Frederick W. Underwood, President of the Erie Railroad, declined to discuss the Director General's action.

The railroad men were reluctant to offer conjectures about the result of so revolutionary a change of existing executive management for the reason that they did not know the personnel of the appointments to be made to the vacant offices. In banking and business circles it was the general opinion that most of the Presidents would find themselves returned to their tasks as Federal Directors. Many persons, however, doubted whether the average high-salaried railroad executive would be willing to continue his work as a Government officer at a substantial reduction of income. While railroad men who were directly affected by the new ruling were naturally unwilling to discuss the matter of salaries, the prediction was made in business circles that as a war service the Presidents would submerge the consideration of income in the purpose of keeping the carriers in shape to handle their quotas of the war-brought traffic.

"Except it be put on the ground of patriotism and war service," said Francis H. Sisson, Vice President of the Guaranty Trust Company, who has devoted much time to the study of the railroad situation since the United States entered the war, "a sharp reduction of salaries in railroad executive positions would be a step backward. The danger of Government ownership in all countries where it has been effected is that men of initiative and brains are impelled to seek places in other fields where the remuneration is greater."

Eugenius H. Outerbridge, former President of the Chamber of Commerce, said he did not believe a wholesale change in the personnel of railroad officers was indicated by the order.

"It must be a method for making the executive officers more directly responsible to the Government," he stated. "Any wholesale alteration of the personnel in charge of railroad systems could hardly help causing disorganization at a time when the most efficient organization is needed. Most of the railroad heads are men who have grown up with their roads, know them thoroughly and could not be replaced. I should look on the order as merely a matter of form rather than as indicating any radical changes. It is a way of getting more direct responsibility by having the railroad executives hold office by appointment of the Federal Government rather than by the stockholders of the roads."

Hustis Withholds Comment.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, May 21.—James H. Hustis, President of the Boston & Maine Railroad, who is also receiver of the railroad, had not received official notice from Director General McAdoo tonight that he had been relieved from active duty.

"As I do not appreciate the significance of such an order, I rather hesitate to comment upon it," said Mr. Hustis. "The Boston & Maine is under Federal control, and sweeping and sudden action as this appears to be is perfectly proper during war, and we have to expect such steps from time to time. I am at a loss to say just what it means, but I judge that it is simply to bring the railroads under direct control of the Government.

"Like all the railroad heads, I want to do all I can to help the Government, and can only repeat in effect what I have said before, that our whole organization is doing its best to comply with the wishes of the Director General and facilitate the movement of freight and practice economy and efficiency in every department."

The order from the Director General in no way affects Mr. Hustis's appointment as receiver of the railroad.

Ripley Expected It.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 21.—With one exception, railroad Presidents residing in Chicago expressed surprise over the new order of Director General McAdoo relieving all railroad Presidents from active duty. The exception was E. P. Ripley of the Santa Fé Railroad.

"It's no surprise to me," he said. "I had not heard of the explicit order until now, but I have expected it."

"Had such a contingency been discussed in railroad circles?" he was asked.

"Not that I know of," he said. "I haven't talked to any one about the likelihood of such a move, but it comes as no surprise."

Asked if he thought that the present organizations of the various railroads would be affected by the new order, he said there were "a good many other things that affect the organizations more.

"But I don't care to comment on the order," he added. "Wait until I'm out."

Harry E. Byram, President of the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, said: "This is news to me. I had no intimation of it. I do not think it will make any difference. After all, employing the same men for the same purposes is merely a change in title, not in duties. The railroad executives have been doing their best, and when employed by the Government directly will continue to do so. I have no idea that this is a step toward permanent Government ownership, but merely something which Mr. McAdoo deems best for the present time."

Other Presidents said they had no intimation that such an order was on the way, and none was found who had learned of its existence through official channels.

W. G. Bierd, President of the Chicago and Alton, said: "I expected that about June 1 the Government would take some step to divorce the corporate and operating interests of the roads, but I had no intimation what it would be, and Mr. McAdoo's order is a distinct surprise to me. On the whole, I think it fair. It will make no real difference in the operation of the roads, so far as efficiency is concerned, for they would be in about the same hands as before apparently.

However, I think it is the Government's purpose to see to it that its interests shall be the sole consideration. Therefore sole direction by the Government and the divorcing entirely of corporate interests from operating must lend itself to the success of Government operation. I do not think this a step toward continuous Government operation after the war."

Hale Holden, President of the Burlington road, said he had heard nothing of the new plan.

"It had not reached us this afternoon," he said after listening to the reading of the Washington dispatch. "As to its effect, I don't think I can comment on that at this time."

R. H. Aishton, President of the Northwestern Railroad, said:

"It is all news to me. I had not heard of any move in that direction—no talk whatever. I don't want to say anything about it at this time."

Without putting it in that many words, James E. Gorman, President of the Rock Island Railroad, indicated hearty approval of the action taken by Director General McAdoo.

"It seems to be the logic of the situation," he said.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 21.—"No official or unofficial notification of my removal has been received in connection with the plan for Federal control of the railroads," said W. P. Kenney, President of the Great Northern, tonight. "So far as I know no other St. Paul Presidents have received any notification. It would be unwise for me to predict what the immediate effect of the change will be on the various roads."

Other railroad officials refused to discuss the issue.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—Comment on the part of the Pennsylvania, and Reading Railroad officials regarding Director General McAdoo's action was withheld tonight in the absence from the city of Samuel Rea, President of the Pennsylvania, and Agnew T. Dice, President of the Reading. It is understood, however, that the chief executives of both roads knew of the change before the news was made public.

The creation of the Allegheny region is interesting here because of the fact that Mr. Rea was Chairman of a committee directing the affairs of four of the roads in this new group. Besides Mr. Rea, the committee known as the Philadelphia-Baltimore-Pittsburgh District Conference Committee, Eastern railroads, was composed of Mr. Dice and A. W. Thompson, Vice President of the Baltimore & Ohio.

DENIAL BY HUNTINGTON.

Charge of Disobedience False, Deposed Official Asserts.

Soon after the news of his removal from the Presidency of the Virginian Railway reached this city, C. W. Huntington issued a prepared statement from his office at 60 Wall Street. The statement, which he refused to supplement, was:

"President Huntington, when seen at the office of the Virginian Railway Company, said that he had been 'retired as the chief operating officer' of the Virginian Railway Company by a telegram sent from Washington at 9:55 P. M. Saturday, May 18, and received by his secretary Sunday morning, which read as follows:

C. W. Huntington, President, Virginian R. R. Co., 60 Wall Street, New York.

It is hereby ordered, effective at 12:01 A. M., Tuesday, May 21, 1918, that C. W. Huntington, President of the Virginian Railway Company, be retired as the chief operating officer of the railroad of that company, and that thereafter his compensation be paid by the corporation so long as the corporation desires to utilize his services, and that Joseph H. Young be and he is hereby appointed Federal Manager of the Virginian Railway and placed in charge of operations thereof, with office at the Norfolk Terminal Station Building, Norfolk, Va., with full power to do and perform any and all acts which may be necessary or appropriate in the efficient operation of said railroad, and in the making of all improvements and betterments which may be necessary or appropriate to enable said railroad adequately to serve the public needs.

All officials, agents, and employes of said road are required to obey orders issued by or under the authority of said Federal Manager.

W. G. McADOO,
Director General of Railroads.

"Mr. Huntington said that no reason had been assigned for the action of the Director General and that he had no information on the subject except a news report that his retirement as chief operating officer of the Virginian Railway was because of his failure to obey an order of the Director General to make certain improvements on the railway. He added that the statement about failure to make ordered improvements was false, as no such order had ever been issued."

While Mr. Huntington himself was reticent, his retirement was discussed widely in Wall Street. It was pointed out that H. H. Rogers and his brother-in-law, U. R. Broughton; Samuel McRoberts, Vice President of the National City Bank; Edwin S. Marsten of Blair & Co., and many other big men of finance were members of the Virginian's Board of Directors. For a long time the retiring President has been regarded as the spokesman of the Rogers-National City interests in the control of the railway.

Mr. Huntington began his railway career in 1876, when he entered the employ of the Chicago, Rock Island & Pacific Railroad as a freight brakeman. He served that road for sixteen years in various capacities, and for a year was Superintendent of the Des Moines Northern & Western Railroad. From 1894 to 1902 he was General Superintendent of the Iowa Central Railroad, going over to the Central Railroad of New Jersey as General Superintendent. Later he became connected with the Virginian.

Joseph H. Young, who succeeds Mr. Huntington, is a native of Salt Lake City, and, like his predecessor, started at the bottom. In 1882 Mr. Young was office boy and warehouseman for the Utah Central at Sandy Station. He advanced rapidly, however, and a year later was ticket agent for the Union Pacific at Ogden. Eight years later he went back to the Utah Central as General Superintendent. In 1910 he was made General Superintendent of the Southern Pacific Company, and from 1910 to 1912 was President of the Alaska Steamship Company, the Northwestern Steamship Company, and the North Coast Lighterage Company. At the same time he held the post of Vice President of the Copper River & Northwestern Railroad. In later years he was elected President of the Spokane & Inland Empire Railway, the Oregon Electric Railway, the United Railways, and the Dalles, Portland & Astoria Navigation Company.

FRANCE EXPELS BRITISH WRITER

No Time Even to Get His Luggage Allowed to Manchester Guardian Correspondent.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—Robert Dell, the Paris correspondent of The Manchester Guardian, has been expelled from France. Writing in this morning's issue of his paper, he says that on Saturday morning he was notified that a decree of expulsion had been signed by the Minister of the Interior on May 11, and that he must leave Paris that afternoon. The customary three days' notice was not allowed him; neither was he permitted to return home from the Police Commissary's office to lunch. He was even told he could not take any luggage but must leave Paris for an indefinite period with nothing but a handbag.

But on his protesting vigorously the Commissary consented to let him go home in the company of two inspectors and fetch his baggage. Two inspecters accompanied him to Havre, whence he left for England on Saturday night.

"The reason why the decree was not notified to me until Saturday morning, although it had been signed a week before," says Dell, "probably was that two influential persons who would certainly have protested against my expulsion had both left Paris on Friday and it was probably known they intended to do so. There was an evident desire in particular to prevent me from communicating with the British Embassy, which M. Le Grand [Special Police Commissary] categorically declared had not been consulted about the matter.

"The French police officials impressed upon me that mine was not a case of expulsion recommended by the police to the Minister of the Interior, but was purely a political expulsion on the initiative of the Prime Minister, decided upon at a Cabinet Council."

The Paris correspondence of The Manchester Guardian has of late dealt with the circumstances attending the discussion of the letters of the Austrian Emperor to Prince Sixtus of Bourbon, with the implication that these documents had not received sufficient consideration from the allied statesmen. One complaint expressed in the newspaper was that knowledge of the first letter had not been imparted to President Wilson at the time. In reply to this, however, it has been explained that the letter was delivered in confidence on condition that it should not be shown to any one other than the British Prime Minister and the King.

BRITISH IN GAIN BEAT OFF ATTACK

by the British in their local attack last night just northwest of Merville, where they carried out a successful operation which advanced their positions along a front of 600 yards. The effect was to reduce a salient which bulged into their territory. Some prisoners were taken in the engagement, which of course falls in the category of minor attacks.

The enemy counterattacked, but his effort was broken up by artillery fire.

The opposing forces northeast of Aveluy Wood, north of Albert, have continued to exchange blows in contention for desirable positions. Yesterday morning the Germans rushed some posts there and obtained a footing at a few places. They have been driven out again entirely.

The latest reports concerning the fighting in the Locre sector show that 500 unwounded prisoners were taken, and that the casualties of the attackers were slight. In this drive the French retook Bruloose and the now famous crossroads near by, as well as several fortified farms which have been the scene of desperate fighting recently. They also pushed forward their line east of Hill 44, which the poilus retook a few days ago after a fierce encounter.

Importance of Ville-sur-Ancre.

BRITISH HEADQUARTERS IN FRANCE, May 21, (via Ottawa.)—Australasian captures on Sunday at Ville-sur-Ancre exceed 400. Several prisoners say that when they learned that they had to face the Anzacs they felt considerable foreboding. The casualties inflicted during the attack were very heavy.

The successful little operation has greatly improved the British position. The British now hold the entire village. The Germans have been forced back from the awkward little salient they had created and are now probably back upon the railway. More than thirty machine guns were taken from the enemy between Ribemont and Dernancourt.

The French yesterday attacked on a front of 3,000 to 4,000 yards, apparently pivoting on Locre Hospice and extending eastward. It is reported that the operation succeeded, and that more than 300 prisoners have already been collected. Every yard of ground the Allies take in this locality represents an important gain, inasmuch as it pushes the enemy from important hills running west of Mont Kemmel.

BERLIN CLAIMS VICTORY IN KEMMEL FIGHTING

Says French Attacks East of Locre Broke Down with Bloody Losses.

BERLIN, May 21, (via London.)—Savage fighting on the northern side of the Lys salient in the Flanders battlefield is reported in the official statement issued by the War Office today, which says that strong allied attacks were repulsed with heavy losses at various points.

The text of the statement reads:

Kemmel was again the objective of strong enemy attacks yesterday. The attacks by the enemy broke down with sanguinary losses, and the defenders of Mont Kemmel have gained a complete victory. On the front from Voormezeele to west of Dranoutre the infantry attacks were preceded by the most violent artillery fire, the main thrust being directed against Mont Kemmel and its western slope. The French troops which had been brought up to the front line advanced in several waves. Infantry and artillery fire broke down their assaults and forced them to retreat with the heaviest losses.

Counterattacks threw the enemy out of our crater zone at points where he had penetrated. There is still a French nest east of Locre. According to the statements of prisoners, British divisions were in readiness in the third line.

In the evening and during the night the artillery fire often increased to the greatest violence. Renewed enemy attacks from Locre in the evening and local advances northeast of Locre during the night were repulsed.

An intense fire was directed on our battery positions and rear areas on both sides of the Lys. The firing increased intermittently in the evening in the neighborhood of Bucquoy and Hebuterne, south of Villers-Bretonneux and the Avre.

During the last three days fifty-nine enemy machines and three captive balloons have been brought down.

1,000 GERMAN PLANES DOWNED IN 2 MONTHS

British Official Statement Also Records Dropping of 1,000 Tons of Bombs.

LONDON, May 21.—An official statement on aerial operations issued tonight says:

During Monday night airdromes in the neighborhood of Ghent, Tournai, and St. Quentin used by the enemy's night bombing machines were heavily attacked. Thirteen tons of bombs were dropped on these, and four and a half tons were dropped on the railway stations at Thionville, Metz, and Coblenz.

At 8 o'clock in the morning of May 21 twenty-two heavy bombs were dropped on the railway stations at Namur and Charleroi. One of the machines has not returned.

Since the beginning of the German offensive, exactly two months ago, 1,000 German airplanes have been brought down or driven down out of control, and more than a thousand tons of bombs have been dropped over the enemy's lines.

TELLS AMERICA TO HASTEN.

By CHARLES N. WHEELER.

Copyright, 1918, by The Chicago Tribune Company.

DUBLIN, May 21.—Ernest O. McCormick, Vice President in charge of the traffic of the Southern Pacific Railroad, upon taking a boat for Holyhead tonight, said:

"The biggest impression I shall carry back to America from war-stricken Europe is the immediate need of America knowing the whole truth over here. I shall recommend that our Government request that a European commission of able men be sent to America at once to tell our people just what the conditions are and what we face in order that America may get down to bedrock and have less claptrap. I shall go home an optimist, but full of the realization of the herculean task before us. I shall go home and tell America that the trouble is not in the trenches nor on the field of battle, but in the homelands not appreciating what our brave soldiers are facing and doing.

"I have been on the British, French, and American fronts, and close up to the German line, and nowhere in the whole line is there a pessimistic note. The most encouraging aspect in the allied trenches is the belief that Germany can be defeated. Our men who are doing the fighting have the most superb courage the world ever saw; they are not afraid of anything that Germany can bring on.

"The only big thing we have to fear is lack of co-operation behind the fighting men back home. If we back them up as we should, Germany is doomed, and the day is sure to come when the Prussian reign of terror will end. Our people at home cannot understand the terrible sacrifices our allies are making here, and when they do and respond, militarism will quickly get its death thrust.

"My message home, after having seen the sacrifices the European nations are making, is to put everything else to one side, whatever the sacrifice, and bring to Europe as quickly as the boats can come the whole resources of the United States. Tell the United States to get rid of the claptrap and hurry men, food, guns, and airplanes. Germany must be crushed, and we can do it, if we work quickly."

BRITISH CASUALTIES LOWER.

36,677 Reported Last Week, Against Preceding Week's 41,612.

LONDON, May 21.—British casualties to the number of 36,677 have been reported in the week ending today, divided as follows:

Killed or died of wounds: Officers, 313; men, 3,815.

Wounded or missing: Officers, 1,241; men, 31,308.

The British casualty reports are still reflecting the recent heavy fighting, although the totals are beginning to decrease. The figure last week was 41,612, the largest of any week since the German offensive began.

PLANS FOUR NEW SHIPS.

Schwab Begins Expansion of Sparrow's Point Shipbuilding Plant.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, Md., May 21.—Two million dollars will be spent immediately by the Bethlehem Steel Corporation for building four new slips at the Sparrow's Point shipbuilding plant.

Fully 4,000 new workmen will be aded to the force. Officials are casting about for housing facilities for them.

Plans have been made for the new slips to accommodate ships as large as 15,000 tons. Charles M. Schwab recently said he intended to expand the plant to be the largest in the country.

cerned are said to believe that it would be a grave error for any of the allied nations to send troops into Russian territory. This, they contend, would drive the Russian people against the Allies and probably cause them to join with the Germans. Officials are understood to be of the opinion that the German aggressions, with the anger they have caused among the Russian people, together with the conditions of famine prevailing, will do more to bring the various Russian elements together than any other means.

A compromise between the two views, one held by the United States and the other by Great Britain and France, is urged by men who are in accord with the belief voiced in allied countries that something should be done, and done at once, if Russia is to again become a national factor in the great war. It is admitted by some of these that military intervention with the object of assisting the Bolshevist Government would be a mistake. Nothing could be accomplished, it is insisted, and the Germans would soon overcome any such resistance. This, the argument proceeds, would cause hopeful Russians, those of the better class and the great army of small farmers and tradesmen, who dislike the Bolshevist rule, to lose faith in allied statesmanship and would compel them to turn to the Germans for relief from intolerable conditions.

But it is insisted that the middle ground that may be taken with almost certain results favorable to both Russia and the allied cause, is that suggested recently to send a civilian commission to Siberia. All the allied nations would be represented by distinguished men, with the leader of the commission preferably an American. The commission would be protected by a large military force, in which the predominating nationality necessarily would be Japanese, but with Great Britain, France, and the United States also represented by troops.

It would be the object of the commission to obtain the confidence of the Russian people by assurances of unselfish intentions and by furnishing protection for local governments established by the best classes of people in the communities visited by the commission. If the Bolshevist forces attempted to interfere with the operation of the local governments the allied troops would give protection. The commission would proceed westward in Siberia, encouraging the best elements to form local governments, assured of stability by the allied forces.

News of this course of the Allies would spread through Russia, and it is claimed that it would cause the Russian people generally to organize with a view to establishing a central Government that would take means to combat the German advance.

It is conceded that to carry out this policy would take a long time, a year or more; but the helpful results would be apparent soon enough to prevent the Germans from accomplishing their aggressive objects toward the great territory formerly ruled by the Czar, and the future of Russia as a nation would be assured. In these circumstances some surprise is expressed over the apparent indifference of the United States Government toward the effort to do something of an active character that will help save Russia from becoming a German vassal State.

ARREST MEMBERS OF SOVIET EXECUTIVE

Convention Acts Against Extreme Rightists Who Favor Intervention by Japan.

LONDON, May 21.—Several members of the Extreme Right wing of the Soviet Executive, who supported Japanese intervention in Siberia, have been arrested, according to an Exchange Telegraph dispatch from Moscow, dated May 18. The arrests were made after a sitting of a convention of the Bolshevist Party.

The Extreme Right held the view that it was necessary for Russia to lean upon the Allies, especially Japan, in the struggle against Germany in Siberia. This wing was outvoted.

MUST AID RUSSIA QUICKLY.

Chance to Do It Would Be Welcomed by Allies, London Paper Says.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—The Times, commenting upon the signature of the Chino-Japanese defensive alliance against Germany, after pointing out that its purpose is to defeat the German scheme of penetration of Asia, says:

"Long before the advent of the Bolsheviki to power Japan foresaw that the less ambitious projects then entertained in Berlin were fraught with danger to the peace of the Far East. The width of vision which marks many of President Wilson's judgments led him to discern the bearing of these earlier German designs upon world politics nearly a year ago. Even then he perceived that Germany intended to extend her military power and her political control into the heart of Asia.

"The sagacity of this forecast has been singularly confirmed by all that has since happened. Before Brest-Litovsk, he saw that Germany would have won the war could she keep what she had acquired in the East; and the Brest-Litovsk treaty reduced 485,000 square miles of Russian territory under her vassalage. He has always put defense of a liberated and orderly Russia in the forefront of his policy. Only on Saturday he stated that her helplessness and friendlessness gave her fresh claim to sympathy and to succor, and he affirmed once more that he intended to stand by her as well as by France.

"It would be surprising, in the present circumstances, if so intelligent an observer remained indifferent to the manifest trend of German activities in the East, or blind to the many indications that a change is passing over Russian opinion.

"Our Washington correspondent gives us to understand that, while the attitude of Washington toward intervention by Japan in Siberia is unaltered, the rapidity with which events are moving in Russia is realized, and the possibility that they may permit the adoption of a policy which would lead to allied action is contemplated.

"American reports, we are assured, agree that the Soviet leaders are thoroughly alarmed by the German infiltration into the whole of Russia and by the progress of German propaganda in Siberia. It is added that the Soviet Government have but to indicate a desire for help in resisting the German invasion in order to obtain it. Washington, it is declared, 'would welcome the opportunity to serve Russia in co-operation with Japan, China, and the other allies.'

"We are sure all the Allies would welcome such an opportunity, for all of them have refused to hold the Russian people as a whole answerable for the calamities which the folly of the Bolsheviki have brought upon Russia and upon her friends. The invitation has only to come from some body of men qualified to speak for the real Russia, for the millions who are necessarily themselves inarticulate, to be gladly and effectively met.

"But every hour that the practical help of the Allies is delayed strengthens the German grip on Russian territory and enlarges the area of German penetration. Unless it is given soon, the opportunity of giving it at all may be lost forever."

JAPANESE TO OFFICER CHINESE EXPEDITION

Military Co-operation to be Confined to the Northeastern Frontier Zone.

PEKING, May 17, (Associated Press.)—China and Japan have signed the treaty, concluded after negotiations lasting several days, concerning the military operations to be conducted jointly by these two countries in Siberia. The treaty also contains clauses dealing with other matters, the details of which are not made public.

The treaty is said to concern joint defensive operations against the enemy on the Northeastern frontiers. Three conditions were insisted upon by China and were conceded by Japan. The first was that the convention would not be enforced unless the situation required Chino-Japanese co-operation in Siberia and Manchuria; second, the convention would be null and void after the termination of the war, and third, the scope of military co-operation would be confined to the Northeastern frontiers.

After the treaty had been signed by the Cabinet, General Yin Yung-pung, Vice Chief of the War Department Participation Bureau, signed it in the presence of a Japanese Military Commission headed by General Saito. Baron Gonsuke Hayashi, the Japanese Minister to China, is absent on a trip to the south.

It is reported unofficially that the treaty contains twelve articles providing for placing the troops concerned under Japanese officers and the interchangeability of arms, war maps, and other materials. The railway zones will be under Japanese control and Japan will give financial assistance where it is required for military purposes. Japan may establish fortifications and military police within the zone affected.

DICTATOR URGES MONARCHY.

Only Form of Government for Finland, Judge Svinhufvud Says.

STOCKHOLM, May 21.—A constitutional monarchy is the only form of government for Finland, in the opinion of Judge Svinhufvud, who has just been declared temporary Dictator by the Finnish Diet. He says he is convinced that the only way for Finland to secure independence and freedom and a Government above party passions is to choose a constitutional monarch.

Judge Svinhufvud said he would refuse categorically to become a candidate for the Presidency if asked to do so. He believed that most of the members of the Landtag would resign if a republic were declared.

He added that 16,000,000 marks were subscribed during the first week to the Finnish Liberty Loan.

ASSERT HERTLING REJECTS ALLIANCE

Kuehlmann Backs Chancellor in Clash with Ludendorff, Hague Reports Say.

LONDON, May 21.—Strong opposition to the recently arranged alliance between Germany and Austria-Hungary is voiced by Chancellor von Hertling and Foreign Secretary von Kühlmann, according to reports received in The Hague and transmitted by the correspondent of The Daily Mail. The Chancellor and the Foreign Secretary are reported to have said that they washed their hands of the entire matter, as they objected to the methods by which the military part of the convention was devised over their heads by the German higher command.

General Ludendorff is said to be insisting that the agreement be passed and signed at once.

The military sections bind each party to aid the other with all its forces against any and every enemy, thus compelling Austria to place all her forces at the disposal of Germany.

REVIVE HINDENBURG RUMOR.

German Civilians Circulate the Report of Marshal's Death.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 21, (Associated Press.)—The rumor that Field Marshal von Hindenburg died recently has become current very generally among the enemy in the back areas, as well as among civilians. What basis, if any, there is for this rumor, is not known here.

According to a London dispatch on May 13 German prisoners captured in France declared that von Hindenburg was dead. This rumor gained some support by the fact that General von Mackensen, the conqueror of Rumania, was either to be shifted to the western front or had already arrived there to take part in the renewed offensive against the Allies. Later dispatches reported Hindenburg at the conference of the Kaiser and Emperor Charles at German Headquarters.

PATROL ACTIONS IN ITALY.

Vienna Admits the Loss of an Advanced Post on the Piave.

VIENNA, (via London,) May 21.—Reporting on operations on the Italian front an official statement today from Austro-Hungarian General Headquarters says:

Reconnoitring activity on both sides led to frequent fighting actions. Southeast of Mori Hungarian infantry detachments penetrated on the night of the 20th into enemy positions. At Lake Loppeo, near Asiago, and on Sasso Rosso Italian patrols were repulsed. Near Kener strong enemy reconnoitring detachments were driven back by counterattacks.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The registration of German alien women will begin June 17. In all cities of 5,000 population and over by the census of 1910 the registration will be conducted by the police, and in all towns of less population by Postmasters.

All women of German birth who are alien in their political status will be expected to go to Police Headquarters or to police stations and register, and in the smaller towns they must go to the Post Office. Every woman will be required to register her finger prints.

Efficiency Engineer and Analytical Accountant.

We are ready to add two men to our staff. First, a well seasoned efficiency engineer able to analyze factory operations and to devise and install improved methods of performing these operations both from the mechanical and manual standpoint. Should have much experience in time study work and rate setting on both piece work and bonus basis. Second, an expert cost and statistical accountant able to devise and install methods of gathering and presenting in the clearest and simplest way possible cost and statistical data. Must be familiar with the latest and best office and accounting practice.

We wish to meet in connection with these openings men now employed who wish to secure greater immediate and future returns for their ability than their present connection affords. Appointments may be made by personal call or by letter.

FEAR OF FAMINE APPALS AUSTRIA

PEOPLE JEER AT THE WAR

German Promises of Victory Flouted —Soldiers Beg for Bread and Long for Peace.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, May 21.—A dispatch to The Daily Mail from Annemasse, on the Franco-Swiss frontier, says:

"I have just received from sources I must not reveal, but for the honesty and authentic nature of which I can personally vouch, a series of oral statements direct from Vienna and Styria recording observations made in Austria up to almost the end of April. My informant said:

"'The great masses of the Austrian people are more than war-sick. No longer do they talk of their success or nonsuccess. They talk and think of nothing but bread. They want peace because it will give them bread. Their morale is so low that the Government is afraid of Bolshevism. I cannot tell you what we in Austria have suffered this last year, and of deeds done through hunger that are whispered about.

"'One whole issue of the Arbeiter Zeitung was confiscated last March lest it should speak of events abominable to hear. It demanded an investigation in two horrible cases of murder of prisoners of war by their fellow-workmen in gas works in the Sixteenth Municipal District of Vienna, and accused the workmen of eating part of the bodies. I do not think this is sensation mongering or the fantastic invention of the mob. I knew a member of the Town Council appointed to inquire into the matter, and it was clear, he maintained, that at least two such instances of cannibalism occurred at the gas works, one at the end of December and the other last March. It was referred to in Parliament, but was hushed up in the press in Vienna itself.

Quarantine Against Bolshevism.

"'The Austrian Government fears nothing more than the spread of Bolshevist ideas among these people, and it is a matter of common knowledge in Austria that all the Austrian prisoners returning from Russia are quarantined for three weeks at the frontier to make sure that they are politically clean and unlikely to infect their comrades at home with the leprosy of Bolshevism.

"'I was present at Graz five weeks ago, on a journey through Styria, when food riots broke out there. The workmen in munition factories struck. They marched to the Town Hall and flung their loaves at the windows as a protest against the bad stuff that was in the bread, which was made of maize plentifully mixed with flour got from the bark of trees and ground into powder. Other workmen marched through the town, and with loaves smashed the windows of all cafés and shops and often plundered buildings and scattered their contents in the street. Similar outbreaks had taken place in other towns, and not a word of it do they dare put in the papers.

"'The police afterward gathered up the loaves lying in the mud, and they were served out as an extra ration to the population.

"'In Vienna there were whole weeks when the people got nothing but sauerkraut for the principal meal of the day, followed by other weeks when we had only pickled cucumbers and gherkins, and others again when we had nothing for dinner but those nauseous mangelwurzels, things they usually give only to cattle, together with a little maize bread. Sometimes, but at the cost of hours and hours of standing in queues, one would get a couple of pounds of potatoes in a week.

"'My family and I have lived for weeks on hardly anything but some mushrooms which we gathered in a forest near the town.

Real Famine in the Country.

"'People often faint in the streets from inanition. I tell you there is not only hunger, there is famine in Austria. The health of many of the people is so sunk that they can hardly stand, let alone work, and things are getting worse and worse every day.

"'Even soldiers get insufficient food. They, too, are not only sick of the war, but also thoroughly apathetic. It is a common sight to see troops begging for bread and food from the inhabitants; and on railway journeys during the last six weeks I have seen soldiers, at stations where we stopped, imploring the people in the train to give them even peelings and remnants of food.

"'Austria is shuddering at the prospect of the next three months. The people, as far as they dare whisper, jeer at Hindenburg's promise of smashing the English and French with a big offensive and getting a German peace.

"'"You have humbugged us too often already," they say, "with your U-boat promises, your Brest-Litovsk, and all the rest of it, and the only result of your beautiful U-boat war is that you brought America in as a new enemy."

"'At first everybody in Austria made fun of President Wilson as a mere Don Quixote and pedant, but now they are changing their tune and are afraid America means business.'"

Saxons Eat Camels and Dogs.

Camel meat, dog meat, and horse meat are being eaten in Saxony by the poorer classes, according to the Berliner Tageblatt of April 7, a copy of which has been received here.

The camel meat is being sold in Zwickau and comes from the mohair camels of the Hagenback menagerie, which gave a show at Zwickau in March. The camels were sold to a butcher because of lack of fodder. The larger camels yielded from 300 to 400 pounds of meat.

Consumption of dog meat and horse meat has increased greatly and the price also has gone up. Dog meat sells for 2 marks 75 pfennigs a pound and horse meat at 1 mark 80 pfennigs.

MASSING TO ATTACK ITALY.

Austrians Withdrawing Troops from Their Eastern Front.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Further evidence that another great Austrian drive against Italy is impending came today in an official dispatch from Switzerland, which said information from Vienna showed that Austria had planned to suppress all military operations in the East on May 20 to concentrate forces for the Italian front.

Austrian newspapers are quoted as saying that this step marks the restoration of civil administration in Bukowina and in Galicia, and that similar measures are to be taken in Hungary toward Transylvania.

The military importance of the decision is emphasized, because it enables the withdrawal of a considerable military force from Galicia and Bukowina, while the Austrian General Staff will be able to turn all its attention to the operations against Italy.

PHILIP GIBBS'S STORY FROM BATTLEFRONT

Shelled With Broken Glass.

Then one day out of a blue sky the hill was shelled, and the shells were the queerest things that were ever fired by German guns, for they were filled with broken glass and bits of brass candlesticks. Not for a long time after that did Scherpenberg get 'strafed'—not until a few weeks ago, when the enemy's artillery closed up around Mont Kemmel and made a target of that other hill. Some Scottish officers in whose mess I luncheoned, not far off, said: "This place is 'no bon,'" and pointed to a hole in the roof of the hut which then existed and listened a little anxiously to some crashes on the slopes outside.

Nothing happened when I was there, but they told me afterward that next day a good deal happened, and it was of the most unpleasant kind, for the enemy indulged in his special hate of this place where we used to find the view of war so safe before going closer to the country beyond Ypres, where every track was marked down by German guns and every ruin sinister with the menace of death.

Now the French are defending Scherpenberg and its neighboring hillocks, and the attack they made yesterday was to drive the enemy further away from them.

Many Aerial Combats.

Apart from some raids in which our men took a few prisoners, there was no infantry movement on our side yesterday, and the greatest fighting was in the air again. The enemy sent some of his scouts to reconnoitre our back areas and made a very fierce endeavor to keep our flying men from crossing his lines, as though more than usually anxious to prevent observation of his movements behind the lines. So there were many combats in the clear sky, but, curiously, in spite of clear moonlight later, and a wonderfully still night, there was no general bombing activity by German raiders, and on one part of the front, at least, which had been noisy of late with night-flying enemies, there was unusual quiet.

PARIS LEARNS OUR MEN ARE ON BRITISH FRONT

Censorship Lifted and the News Causes a Thrill—Men Highly Praised.

By CHARLES H. GRASTY.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.

PARIS, May 21.—The ban of censorship has been partly lifted and today's Paris newspapers publish the fact, known and discussed privately for several weeks, that the new American armies have arrived in the zone of the British forces in Northern France and are now completing their training in the area occupied by the troops blocking the way to the Channel ports.

These accounts give details of the brotherly welcome extended to the Americans by the British. Americans here, who have known of the location of these troops through officers visiting Paris, are glad to see the facts printed. Nearly everybody here has friends among the officers of the new army, many of whom are Plattsburg graduates and representative of the finest young manhood in America.

These units are the early arrivals under the new plan for brigading Americans with the English. Their presence behind the Nieuport-Ypres-Kemmel front and the probability of their use by General Foch in the actual fighting after their training is completed brings home vividly the nearness of America to the Flanders battlefront and the prompt working of the arrangements for sending American infantry direct to the Franco-British commands.

The rushing of great bodies of American youth, freshly gathered from professional and business life and from the farm and workshop, straight to Armageddon is a romance which thrills war-worn Europe. All reports from the freshly arrived troops are of a kind to gratify the pride of families and friends at home. They are worthy of association with the French and English and fit champions of the great cause of human freedom.

ORVILLE WRIGHT DOUBTFUL.

Thinks Armored Plane, if Used, Would Be Cumbersome.

Special to The New York Times.

DAYTON, Ohio, May 21.—Orville Wright said today of the report from the American front in France, describing the new type of German armored airplane responsible for the death of Major Lufbery:

"It would not cause me to become panicky if the report were true. It would not be possible to use as heavy an armor as that without at the same time making the machine hard to manoeuvre, thus taking from it one of the most vital and best features of a successful fighting plane. The usual armor of the machines that are armored at all is one-sixteenth of an inch, so you can readily see what weight this new machine, if the Germans really have one, is required to carry.

"The armor might not lessen its speed on a straightaway course, but it could not be turned quickly, dart about or be used nearly as effectualy as the single and stationary gun machines that are stripped of all protection. The best experience in actual fighting has been that the machines that can shoot and then quickly get away give their operators a much better chance of life than the cumbersome ones that must necessarily take whatever shots come their way.

"In the earlier stages of building fighting machines the United States Government tried using armor, but in the newer models much of this has been discarded. There is nothing to prevent the United States, or any other of the allied nations, armoring their own machines to the same extent as the reported new machine of the Germans. If it is thought effective, this would be one solution of the problem, but, as I said in the beginning, I do not think such a type, because of the weight it would be required to carry, can ever be made sufficiently effective to cause a great deal of damage or to become a great source of worry."

The War Situation

BY THE MILITARY EXPERT OF THE NEW YORK TIMES

In two minor actions in two days of this week the Allies have succeeded in harassing the Germans considerably, while at the same time improving somewhat local positions on both the Flanders and the Amiens fronts. The first of these actions in order of time was that of the British along the Ancre River, which resulted in the capture of Ville with about 350 men and twenty machine guns. Mention of the number of machine guns captured gives some idea of the large number of these weapons used in the German field army. Germany was the first power to appreciate the part that these weapons were to play in war and in her preparations for the present war she organized special troops to handle this arm. This was the beginning of the machine gun companies, which have now become a part of every army.

The village of Ville, which the British retook two days ago, is on the Ancre, a few miles south of Albert and about a mile north of Morlancourt. The general lay of the land in the angle between the Somme and the Ancre is generally well known by now, its essential features being a plateau, the longer axis of which corresponds to the centre of the angle, the sides of the plateau sloping rapidly to the Ancre on the north and the Somme on the south.

Ville is in the northern valley just where the Ancre turns westward before joining the Somme. It is without any particular importance except that every yard the British gain in this part of the line strengthens their hold on the territory just behind Albert.

The Germans have launched several attacks near Albert as one of the pivotal points of the British stand. As long as the line about Albert holds the passage of the Ancre, which the Germans accomplished when they first took the town, is of little value. The town fell in the first rush of the German offensive, but just beyond the British held the heights and prevented a further advance. As things stand, the Germans have not sufficient room between their lines and the river to manoeuvre or concentrate, so that they have not been able to take advantage of the situation which their early successes created.

The German situation in this angle has never appeared very comfortable. The Australians, who hold this part of the line, are continually causing trouble by making attacks under cover of darkness without artillery preparation. Morlancourt has been their particular objective ever since their first offensive at Villers-Bretonneux. They have now brought their lines up close to the edge of the town, and this movement up the valley is the first step toward surrounding it from the north. Its principal value is in relation to the plateau mentioned, the town commanding a large part of it north and south.

The other action was one by the French near Locre, the front attack being over two miles. Every gain here materially benefits the situation. The positions about Locre make up the main defense of the low saddle of ground between Scherpenberg and Mont Rouge. It was on this ground that the back of the last German offensive was broken. Step by step the French have been recovering the important ground about Locre, driving the Germans little by little back along the road which runs north and south through the village.

It is a question whether these two successes of the Allies give any clue to the point of attack of the next German effort. There may be significance in the relative ease with which these attacks were pushed forward. The fact that they were made at such widely separated points on the line may well have been with the purpose of finding out just where the Germans were in greatest force.

These actions furnish indications, not positive, it is true, that wherever the next German attack is launched, it will not be in the Somme-Ancre angle or northward against Ypres. The concentrations for the attack are already well under way, of that we may be sure. We may be further certain that in so far as it is possible with safety, all sections of the front which are not to be involved have been drawn upon so that the maximum strength may be present at the vital section of the line.

The fact that the line was sufficiently weak to permit these attacks to succeed without expenditure of effort may well indicate that these points are to remain immune and that the attack will fall in another quarter. Altogether these two minor efforts have cost the Germans about a thousand men in prisoners, killed, and wounded. It is somewhat expensive even for a local operation.

The only other interesting news from the war theatres comes to us from Macedonia. The French and Italians have made a material advance in a wild and mountainous country, with no roads and no communications of any kind except mountain trails. They were opposed, presumably by Austrians, though it is possible that the Bulgarians were also involved. With matters in their present state, an advance from this region would have to be made for many miles before its effect would be felt.

LUFBERY'S DEATH QUICKLY AVENGED

any good. It is not helping to win the war. The United States fighter himself does not want the war to end this year, because he wants the Kaiser well beaten and knows there is small chance of that being done this year.

While a healthy spirit generally pervades our army, the boys in the trenches have difficulty in understanding the evidently spreading belief that the war will end very soon. The American soldier does not want the war to end very soon. Not only does he want the Kaiser defeated, but he wants to see America have a big share in doing it. He knows America will not be in a position to do its best this year, but that it can do much more next year. He no more wants to quit now than would he at a baseball game in the fifth inning with the other side one run ahead.

In reality, no mother of an American soldier wants her boy to come home before he has completed the job he came here to do. Now the boys always read their mothers' letters many times and remember what is in them. Therefore only harm can be done by oft-repeated longings for early peace.

I feel confident in making the statement that an announcement of peace today would bring a strong wave of bitter regret throughout the American forces. Every American fighter is possessed of an innate confidence in the great power of his country and confidence that the Allies will completely beat the boche. He wants the folks back home to understand that this is the only way the war can end; and, most of all, he asks for a chance to carry the Stars and Stripes across the Rhine.

CONFIRMS TIMES DISPATCHES.

By FLOYD GIBBONS.

Copyright, 1918, by The Chicago Tribune Company.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 21.—The avenging of the death of Major Raoul Lufbery has begun. Since the American Ace of Aces was brought down, his flying partners have succeeded in bringing to earth two German planes, one of them containing two enemy airmen. At the same time their French comrades of the air engaged the armored enemy plane responsible for Lufbery's death and shot it down.

The American Major General, speaking at the burial of Lufbery in the Valley Cemetery on the front, announced the death of the enemy fliers who killed the aviator.

The French aviator who brought down the plane which had downed Lufbery followed his quarry forty kilometers through the air and only succeeded in winging him after making numerous attacks.

LUFBERY'S FUNERAL A TOUCHING TRIBUTE

French Join Americans at Military Rites, While Planes Soar Above, Dropping Red Roses.

WITH THE AMERICAN ARMY IN FRANCE, May 20, (Associated Press.)—Before the body of Major Raoul Lufbery was placed in a grave near a certain French village it lay in state in a room of a small frame building. Around it were hundreds of wreaths of flowers sent by American comrades, by French aviators who had known him in the French Army, and by a French army corps.

Atop all the handsome wreaths was a little bunch of wild roses and daisies to which was attached a piece of paper saying that it came from Major Lufbery's orderly and mentioning many kindnesses. With tears in his eyes the orderly came up to the coffin and reverently placed the flowers upon it.

The funeral of Major Lufbery was most impressive. The pallbearers, three American and three French aviators, carried the flag-draped coffin from the building to a motor car for the trip to the grave. The procession was led by an American band, a company of American infantry just from the trenches, and a company of French infantry. Following the coffin were 200 American and French officers, including all of Major Lufbery's companions in the air service, the American General commanding the sector northwest of Toul, and a French General commanding an army corps.

The party drew up at the grave, and while the service was being read one American aviator after another planed down from the sky, his motor shut off, until he was just overhead. Each threw out great bunches of red roses, which floated down upon the coffin and the bared heads of the officers and caps of the soldiers, who were drawn up at attention.

At the conclusion of the services the French General stepped forward and said:

"On behalf of my comrades of the French Army, I wish to pay respectful fraternal tribute to one of the heroes of the air, who was victorious eighteen times—a son of the noble and generous republic which came to our assistance to save the liberties of the world.

"Rest peacefully, Major Lufbery, close by the martyrs to our great cause. Your glorious example will inspire in us the spirit of sacrifice, till the day when humanity's enemy shall be finally vanquished. Good-bye."

The American General, under whom Major Lufbery once served as a private soldier, and the chief of the aerial service also paid honors to the dead aviator. The firing squad fired three times across the grave, a bugler sounded taps and another bugler, hidden in a nearby wood, echoed it. As the sound of the bugles died away all was silence except for the droning of the machines of Major Lufbery's comrades, patroling the line high in the air, and occasionally the dull booming of distant guns.

Tuckahoe Delivers Coal Cargo 43 Days After Keel Was Laid

AN ATLANTIC PORT, May 21.—Exactly forty-three days after her keel was laid at Camden, N. J., the steamer Tuckahoe, a record ship, arrived here today with a cargo of coal taken aboard at a South Atlantic port. No attempt at speed was made on the maiden voyage, although officers reported that the vessel came through in fine style, with her machinery working to perfection.

As the Tuckahoe steamed up the harbor other craft recognized her and gave her a noisy greeting. She turned and swung easily into her berth, and the work of discharging the cargo was carried on at a clip that would have brought cheers from the builders who turned her out in thirty-seven days. The Tuckahoe probably will remain in the coastwise trade for some time.

The Tuckahoe cleared this port tonight to take on another cargo of coal. Her cargo of 5,200 tons was discharged here in six hours and fifteen minutes.

REPORTS LUFBERY'S FIGHT.

Pershing's Communique Gives Few Details of the Combat.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Reports that a new type of German airplane, armored sufficiently to protect its engines and crew from machine gun fire, was responsible for the death of Major Lufbery, the flying ace of the American Army, aroused wide interest here, although no official advices confirming the statement had been received today. General Pershing's communiqué of last night, received here today, besides reporting only artillery activity, added it had been determined Major Lufbery was shot down within the American lines in combat with a German two-seater airplane. The communiqué said nothing more.

It is regarded as probable that other aviators got close enough to the German machine to establish definitely whether it carried armor. There have been many attempts to give at least partial protection to the airmen in all services, but always economy of weight has prevented. It has been the accepted practice among the allied air fleets to equip big planes with additional guns rather than armor, relying on increased offensive power as the best defense.

Officials here familiar with the development of air fighting have contended for many months that the day of the one-man machine and the air duels of the aces is passing. Two-seated or larger planes, it is held, with increased machine gun batteries and gunners to handle them exclusively, while a pilot handles the machine itself, will make them almost invulnerable to attack by one-man craft.

NEW ATTACK BY BORGLUM.

Sculptor Attributes Lufbery's Fate to Our Aerial Deficiencies.

Special to The New York Times.

STAMFORD, Conn., May 21.—Gutzon Borglum, critic of America's aircraft program, tonight referred to the death of Major Raoul Lufbery as "unnecessary" and declared the United States War Department allowed a foreign country to take from under its very nose inventions that would have made the Lufbery tragedy impossible. He said:

"Major Lufbery's unnecessary death brings us sharply to the statement a great British aviator recently made to me: 'We have no right to send our men over the German lines in any but the best machines.' Months ago we knew of the German armored planes. On Feb. 24 I notified the authorities, 'armored German planes have appeared, and one of these will handle a dozen of ours.' This was suggested to the Board six months ago.

"Within the month I brought to the attention of the War Department, American inventions a foreign country had secured by cable from under their very noses, which would make the Lufbery tragedy impossible and even protect a small single-seater against the accident he met with under similar conditions. The Department looked, nodded, and the inventions left the following morning for Europe. These inventions would give the holder the mastery of the air.

"The puncturable tank and inflammable machine must disappear and immediately. We must, without waiting upon interminable investigations, get on with our program, a program that will mean the best fliers in Europe. Until such a plane, that involves the best genius and the aeronautic ability in plane construction and production is formed and under way, we shall not even begin to save our Lufberys, nor shall we even keep pace with the enterprising Hun."

FLIER, DOWNED, ESCAPES.

Philadelphia, Supposedly Biddle, Has a Thrilling Accident.

WITH THE BRITISH ARMY IN FRANCE, May 21, (The Associated Press.)—An American aviation Captain who has been flying on the British front had a remarkable escape from death recently. This flyer belongs to a Philadelphia family.

Accompanied by another machine, the Philadelphian was flying along the lines north of Ypres when a big German plane was sighted. The Captain went into attack and the German began pumping machine gun bullets into the attacking machine from above. The other American flyer was too far away to render any assistance.

The Philadelphian was shot through the leg and another shot wrecked a part of the machinery of his plane so badly that the machine went down. He crashed in No Man's Land and by chance was not killed by the fall.

The Captain had just crawled away when a German shell struck the disabled machine and blew it to tinder. He was brought in safely from the shell holes, where he was sheltering himself from the German bombardment.

The foregoing probably refers to Captain Charles J. Biddle, who was reported in a Paris dispatch received yesterday to have been found near his wrecked machine by scouts in No Man's Land with a bullet through his leg. He had previously been reported lost after a fight with a German.

WILLIAMS STUDENT KILLED.

NEWTON, Mass., May 21.—Richard Blodgett, an American aviator who left his studies at Williams College last year to enter the service, has been killed on a flight in France, according to a cablegram received by his parents here today. Only last Friday he cabled his father, Edward E. Blodgett, that he had brought down his first German machine.

Blodgett, who was 20 years old, went to France as a volunteer ambulance driver, was transferred to the ammunition train, and recently entered the aviation service.

NAVAL AVIATOR SHOT DOWN.

Ensign Stephen Potter Missing After North Sea Combat.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Vice Admiral Sims today notified the Navy Department that Ensign Stephen Potter of the United States Naval Reserve Force was officially regarded as "missing" from the Royal Naval Air Station at Felixstowe, England, since April 25. The Vice Admiral's message said that a report from the commanding officer at Felixstowe stated that the Ensign's machine was attacked and shot down by an enemy seaplane in the North Sea.

Ensign Potter was a brother of Major John Potter, who is attached to the headquarters of the 170th Infantry Brigade, Camp Custer, Michigan. Ensign Potter was born at Saginaw in 1896, and after serving as a seaman in the Naval Reserve Force was detailed for flying on Sept. 26, 1917, when on duty with the naval aviation detachment, Curtiss Aeroplane Company, Buffalo. He was appointed an Ensign last November and ordered to aviation duty in France. On his arrival there he proceeded to Moutchic-Lacapau, Gironde, for assignment in December, and in January he was ordered to report to the Royal Naval Air Station at Felixstowe.

AMERICAN AVIATOR KILLED.

Mortimer Crane of Philadelphia Dies on Flight in England.

LONDON, May 21.—Second Lieutenant Mortimer Crane of the British Flying Corps has been killed on a flight in Great Britain and was buried Monday. He was a son of T. J. Crane of Philadelphia.

Lieutenant Crane joined the American Army when the United States entered the war, but wishing to get into active service he obtained a discharge and joined the British Army.

RAIDING AIRPLANES FIRED.

LONDON, May 21.—Details are being learned of the destruction of the five Gotha machines which were brought down in the raid on London Sunday night, in which twenty to thirty German airplanes took part.

One of the raiders was engaged by a British airman who fired at close range until the German machine disappeared in a cloud. Shortly afterward the machine burst into flames at a height of 7,000 feet, and fell a blazing wreck. Another machine was brought down by anti-aircraft guns in London. Two others were brought down while attempting to escape, one being destroyed by British airmen. The fifth was set afire and fell into the sea.

Two German airplanes of a new and large type which had been forced to land in the North Sea were rescued by Swedish steamers, telegraphs the correspondent at Copenhagen of the Exchange Telegraph Company. These presumably are the machines mentioned in the British official air report as having been driven down into the sea after the raid on London, although their destruction was not officially asserted.

Grand Rapids Airman Killed.

GRAND RAPIDS, Mich., May 21.—J. Alexander Bayne of Grand Rapids, a young aviator with the Lafayette Escadrille on the fighting front in France, has been killed in action, according to word received here today by his parents. He was studying art in Paris when war was declared, and joined the French Aviation Corps.

HARD NIGHT HIKES FOR OUR ARTILLERY

THROUGH EDEN OF BEAUTY

By FLOYD P. GIBBONS.

WITH THE AMERICANS UNDER GENERAL FOCH, May 20.—Midnight passed and we were still wheeling our way through the sleepy villages, consulting maps under the rays of flashlights, gathering directions some of the time from mile posts and wall signs and at other times gaining knowledge of roads and turns and hills from sleepy heads in curl papers that protruded from bedroom windows and were overgenerous in advice.

The animals were tired. Rain soaked the cigarettes and made them draw badly. Above was drizzle and below was mud. There were a few grumblers, but no man in our column would have traded places with a brother back home if a farm to boot had been offered.

It was after three in the morning when we parked the guns in front of a château, brought forward some lagging combat wagons and discovered the rolling kitchen had gone astray. In another hour the animals had been unhitched but not unharnessed, fed and watered in the darkness, and the men, in utter weariness, prepared to lie down and sleep anywhere. At this juncture word was passed through the section that the battery would get ready to move immediately.

Orders were to clear the village by 6 o'clock. Neither men nor horses were rested, but we moved out on time and breakfasted on the road. The way seemed long, the roads bad and the guns heavy. But we were passing through an Eden of beauty—green fields, rolling hills, and ancient châteaux. At times the road would wind down through hillside orchards, white and pink with apple blossoms. Fatigue was heavy on man and beast, but I heard one walking cannoneer singing, "When It's Apple Blossom Time in Normandy."

Another rider in the column recalled the time when his father used to give him 10 cents for standing on the bottom of an upturned tin basin and reciting, "Over the mountains, winding down, horse and foot into Fredericktown."

Jar of the Guns.

"The jar of the guns as they grind over the gravel is enough to grind the heart out of you," said a sweating cannoneer who was pressing a helping shoulder to one of the heavies as we negotiated a steep hill.

"What 'n 'ell you kickin' about?" said a man opposite. "Suppose you was traveling with one of them guns the Germans are using on Paris—I mean, that old John J. Long Distance? You'd know what heavy guns were then. They say that gun's so big and takes so many horses to haul it that the man who drives the lead pair has never spent a night in the same town with the fellow who rides the wheel swing."

A young reserve Lieutenant, with mind intensely on his work, combined his impressions of the scenery with a lesson in artillery location for my benefit. His characterization of the landscape was as technical as it was unpoetical.

"Great howitzer country," was the tenor of his remarks. "Look at the bottom of that slide. Fine position for a 155. Take that gully over there: that's a beaut of a place. No use talking. Great howitzer country."

In the afternoon the veterinarian turned over two horses to the French peasants. One was exhausted and unable to proceed; the other suffered from an exceedingly bad hoof, which would require weeks to heal. The news that the animals were not going to be shot was received with joy by the two men who had ridden them. I saw them patting the disabled mounts affectionately on the neck and heard one of them say:

"'S' all right, old timer; 's' all right. Frenchy here is going to take care of you all right, and Uncle Sam is paying the bill, and I'm coming back and get you soon's we give Fritz his."

An hour later a young cannoneer gave in to fatigue, reclining on the gun trail and falling asleep. A rut in the road, a few stiff jolts, and he rolled off, one ponderous wheel of the gun carriage passing over him. One leg, one arm, two ribs broken and a crushed foot was the doctor's verdict as the victim was carried away in an ambulance.

"He'll get better, all right," said the doctor, "but he's finished his bit in the army."

The column halted for lunch outside of a small town, and I climbed on foot to the hilltop castle where mediaeval and modern were mixed in mute mélange. A drawbridge crossed a long dry moat to cracked walls of rock covered with ivy. For all its well preserved signs of artistic ruin, it was occupied and well fitted up within. From the topmost parapet of one ricketylooking tower a wire stretched through the air to a ruined old mill surmounted by a modern wind motor, whose tail incongruously advertised the words "Ideal Power" with the typical conspicuity of American salesmanship.

Heard via Wireless.

Near the base of the old mill was another jumble of moss-covered rocks, now the roof of a Summer house, but open on all sides. At a table in the centre of this open structure sat a blonde-haired young American soldier with black receivers clamped to either ear. I approached and watched him jotting down words on the paper pad before him. After several minutes of intent silence he removed the harness from his head and told me that he belonged to the wireless outfit with our artillery, and that this station had been in operation since the day before.

"Seems peaceful here with the sun streaming down over these old walls," he said.

"What do you hear out of the air?" I asked.

"Oh, we pick up a lot of junk," he replied. "I'm waiting for the German communiqué, too. Here's some Spanish stuff I just picked up and some more junk in French. The English stations haven't started this afternoon. A few minutes ago I heard a German airplane signaling by wireless to a German battery and directing its fire. I could tell every time a gun was ordered to fire and every time the aviator said the shot was short or over. It's kinder funny to sit back here in the quiet and listen on the wire, isn't it?"

I agreed it was weird, and it was.

In darkness again at the end of a hard day, we parked the guns that night in a little village which is the headquarters for our regiment and where I am writing these lines tonight by an old oil lamp in the Mayor's office. A former Chicago bell-hop, who speaks better Italian than English, and naturally should, is sleeping on a blanket roll on the floor nearby. On the walls are posted numerous flag-decked proclamations, some now yellow with the time that has passed over them since their issue back in 1914. They pertain to the mobilization of the men of the village, many of whose names remain now only as a memory.

But in their stead is now a khaki-clad Chicago bell-hop snoring there on the floor, and a thousand more as sturdy and ready as he, all billeted within a stone's throw of this room. They are here to finish the fight begun by those village peasants who marched away four years ago when the Mayor of that town posted the bulletin. These Americans stand ready to go down to honored graves beside them.

agitators is expected soon, either in London or Washington. Officials today declined to indicate whether any statement might be expected from the State Department concerning the Irish developments.

The story of how the intrigue in this country was discovered, it was said, if published fully, would tell of many communications brought surreptitiously into the United States in violation of regulations. Many of these were written with invisible ink and in code, and when deciphered furnished clues leading to the detection of many ramifications of the plot. The men responsible for the agitation were supplied with funds from deposits in banks where German representatives formerly kept their accounts, or from other mysterious sources.

The Irish radicals in their correspondence referred frequently to the promise of German aid in an uprising, which was to be called for this month or next, when the Germans had expected to reach the Channel ports in their big drive. The Germans then were to send arms and ammunition, and possibly troops, to the Irish coast to participate in the rebellion.

Irish Plans Melodramatic.

Many of the Irish plans were melodramatic in the extreme, it is stated, and involved all the elements of dramatic fiction. They were so radical that Government agents felt safe for a long while in permitting the scheming to continue in the hope of detecting others involved. The series of sudden arrests of Irish by the British Government may have been made when it finally became evident that the rebellion actually was about to be started.

The secret system of negotiations by Sinn Feiners had been in progress for several months, it is understood. This tends to confirm the statement from London that the series of arrests several days ago had no direct connection with plans to conscript the Irish. Some information was obtained from Germans now held in internment camps in this country. There is indication also that the seat of the German-Irish negotiations was transferred at times to other American republics.

It was made plain here that the United States Government's interest in the Irish plots is solely to prevent Germany from attacking by this method co-belligerents of the United States, and that this Government is not seeking to meddle in the Irish situation except for this reason.

BRITISH SEARCHING SUSPECTS IN IRELAND

Dillon Deplores Financing of Sinn Fein Here—Manifesto by Anti-Draft Conference.

DUBLIN, May 21.—The Government net is still spread in hope of arresting other persons believed to be connected with the alleged German plot. A number of suspected persons are being searched, some vehicles in the vicinity of the city are being stopped, and the occupants are subjected to examination.

John Dillon, the Nationalist leader, in an interview with The Associated Press correspondent today, emphasized the divergence between his party and the Sinn Fein, whose policy he declared to be "wrong and foolish and bound to end in disaster."

Mr. Dillon said that he still believed in a friendly settlement with Great Britain. He adhered to the declaration of the late John E. Redmond, made at the outbreak of the war, that the "cause of the Allies is the cause of freedom."

In an appeal to the American people Mr. Dillon said that the Sinn Fein had been supplied with unlimited financial resources from New York, and he urgently asked all those of Irish blood in the United States to support his party as against the Sinn Feins.

Irish Leaders Issue Manifesto.

A resolution denouncing the Sinn Fein deportations as an attempt to discredit and disrupt Ireland's united resistance to conscription and to prejudice Ireland's case in the eyes of friendly countries was passed by the anti-conscription conference, which met at the Mansion House Monday. An official statement, signed, among others, by John Dillon and Joseph Devlin, the Irish Nationalist leaders, was issued after the meeting. It insists on the right of Irishmen to be arraigned in their own country and declares that an attempt is being made to poison the minds of the English people against the prisoners.

In addition to Messrs. Dillon and Devlin, those who signed the protest were William O'Brien and Timothy Healy, representing the O'Brienite party; John MacNeill and Alderman Kelley, representing the Sinn Feiners in the places of de Valera and Arthur Griffith, and Messrs. Johnston, Egan, and O'Brien, representing the Labor Party.

The text of the protest follows:

"A conference speaking on behalf of every section of the Irish nation condemns the deportations to England of our colleagues, Professor de Valera and Arthur Griffith, and their fellow-prisoners. We charge it as an attempt to discredit and disrupt Ireland's united resistance to conscription, and this on a charge or allegation calculated to make a fair trial impossible for them in England and to prejudice the cause of the Irish nation in friendly countries abroad.

"We assert the ancient constitutional right of Irishmen to be arraigned in their own country and tried by their own countrymen. We charge that denial of this right is in violation of the first principles of justice and liberty, for the defense of which England claims to be a member of an alliance of democratic nations.

French's Proclamation Assailed.

"We deplore the attempt in the proclamation of Field Marshal French to poison the English mind against the Irish prisoners by a sensational allegation of 'a conspiracy in Ireland to enter into treasonable communication with the German enemy.' When Lord French calls on the Irish people to 'assist the Government in every way to crush this conspiracy' all Nationalists must recall that it is the habit of the British Government to blacken and assail Irish leaders in order to effectuate their own objects, and that charges of assassination were made against Parnell by means of a forged letter published on the day when the perpetual coercion act for Ireland was passed through its second reading in 1887, and this forgery was availed of by important members of the present Ministry to justify such legislation to the world.

"Circumstances at the present moment are trying, but we are strong in the confidence that our countrymen will continue to observe imperturbable calmness coupled with an unshakable determination to be faithful at all hazards to the sacred pledge of national resistance to conscription which virtually the entire nation has now taken.

"While standing steadfastly on our own good right, we shall not cease to appeal to all friends of human freedom throughout the convulsed world and to inquire for ourselves whether the present attempt to force civil war upon the Irish people by a transparent and false pretext of military expediency does not really cover a wicked plot of English politicians to relieve themselves from their broken pledges to Ireland, in view of their profession that they have entered the world war with the object of securing the right of self-determination for every other small nation in Europe."

Await Government's Evidence.

The press comment on the manifesto of protest indicates an all-around reluctance to take a definite stand in the present situation until more is known of the Government's evidence regarding the alleged German plot. All parties are marking time, awaiting developments.

The Unionists presume that the Government's evidence must be very strong, while the Nationalist press shows some skepticism as to the reality of a plot. The Sinn Fein has no daily newspaper. Its half dozen little papers, known in Dublin as "the mosquito press," appear weekly on Thursday. At the Sinn Fein headquarters there were emphatic denials of the existence of any German plot.

The Unionist organ, The Irish Times, commenting on the Mansiou House manifesto, condemns "the scandalous suggestion that a great Irish soldier and an English Minister have conspired to blacken Ireland's character in friendly countries." It describes the manifesto as "in effect a vote of confidence in the Sinn Fein, an appeal to the worst prejudice of the most intolerant Irishman and the repudiation of Ireland's duty in the war. If this is the best that Nationalist statesmanship can do in Ireland's gravest hour, if this is its true message to the peoples who are now in death grips with Germany, decent Irishmen of all parties must hang their heads for shame."

"The country is perfectly calm," a representative of the Sinn Fein at the organization's headquarters said today to The Associated Press. "Up to the present time we have received particulars of eighty-four arrests. We expect there will be others.

"'Business as usual' is the motto at our headquarters. Some of the English newspapers are suggesting that the Sinn Fein has been stunned by the Government's action. That is not correct. The arrests were expected, and substitute leaders were appointed some time ago to carry on our affairs whenever the need should arise."

An Order in Council makes it a criminal offense under the Defense of the Realm act to hoard silver in Ireland or to exchange or offer in exchange current coins for an amount exceeding their face value.

41 Casualties Reported in Overseas Army; 7 Commissioned Officers on Day's List

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The War Department today gave out a list of 41 casualties in the American army abroad, bringing the grand total to 6,061. The department announced today that the total number of deaths previously reported from disease should be reduced by two on account of repetition. The day's list contained the names of 3 killed in action, 2 died of disease, 1 died of wounds, 7 died of accidents, 18 severely wounded, 8 slightly wounded, and 2 missing in action.

Seven commissioned officers are included. Captain James N. Hall of the Aviation Corps and Lieutenant Philip W. Hunter are reported missing in action. Lieutenants Cyril M. Angell and William K. B. Emerson were killed in action. Lieutenants Harry C. Colburn, Alfred R. Metzger, and Philip Robertson were killed by accident.

DUBLIN'S CALM ASTONISHES.

Some Observers Say That Ireland Is Relieved by the Arrests.

LONDON, May 21.—A total absence of excitement in Dublin is reported in all the dispatches to the morning newspapers from the Irish capital, and, as far as is known, there have been no untoward incidents in connection with the Sinn Fein arrests anywhere in the country. There are no outward indications that anything has happened, is happening, or is about to happen outside of Ireland's ordinary daily routine.

The Whitmonday holiday passed in the customary manner. The horse racing at Ballydoyle and other sporting events were attended by the usual ligely crowds. Seaside resorts were thronged, as were the golf courses at Crosden. Nobody seemed to care about probable new arrests or the old ones.

One of the correspondents of The Daily Mail says that the calm is sensational and that the people appear to be utterly unperturbed by the recent dramatic developments. He adds:

"But appearances are deceptive. Dublin is not Ireland. The constitutional Nationalists one generally meets here are not representative of the wild hotbloods who have given strength to the Sinn Fein. Moreover, the whole country evidently is staggered by the suddenness of the Government's action, and the people hesitate to commit themselves to any opinion until the evidence against those under arrest is produced."

On the other hand, some correspondents say that the country is generally relieved over the arrests. A dispatch to The Daily Express from Dublin says:

"If Lord French had won a great victory on the western front he could not have received more congratulations from the Irish than have been accorded him for the suppression of the seditious Sinn Fein. The country has recovered its normal temperature."

In the meantime every one in Ireland and Great Britain is awaiting production of the proof of a German plot, and in many quarters it is believed that there ought not to be any delay in making it public. It is reported from several sources that the Government has no present intention of publicly arraigning those under arrest, who will be merely interned.

The question of Irish conscription continues to hold attention. It is asserted that conscription has not been abandoned, but that it is held in abeyance pending edvelopments. Voluntary recruiting plans, according to the Dublin correspondent of The Daily Express, are being pushed forward in the belief that thousands of young Irishmen are tired of their noncombatant position. The recruiting scheme will receive a thorough trial and upon its progress depends the eventual decision regarding conscription.

Eva Gore Booth, sister of Countess Markievicz, who was arrested in Dublin last week, informs The Daily Express that she saw the Countess arrive in London on Sunday. The Countess, she says, was taken to Holloway Prison, where she remains, and no one is permitted to visit her.

LORD DECIES HOST OF LABOR ENVOYS

Americans Express Hope That Ireland Will Give Wholehearted Help to the Allies.

By CHARLES N. WHEELER.

Copyright, 1918, by The Chicago Tribune Co.

DUBLIN, May 21.—Lord Decies, husband of the former Miss Vivien Gould, gave a dinner today to the American Labor Commission. The dinner was attended by leading Dublin and British Government officials.

The Americans spoke sympathetically of Ireland and expressed the hope that the troubles now besetting the island would be adjusted speedily on a basis of justice and brotherhood, and not only that peace might come to Ireland, but that Ireland might voluntarily take her place wholeheartedly beside the Allies in the fight for world freedom.

Miss Joy Higgins of Omaha brought down the house with a toast of a few words:

"It has been said that England is our mother, France our inspiration, but Ireland our sweetheart," she said. "Being Irish is not nationality; it is a state of being. It was in this beautiful isle that my ancestors lived. I ask my lords and gentlemen to lift their glasses to Ireland, the world's sweetheart, the gem of the ocean, and loved of God."

After receiving reports from all the provinces today the Nationalist leaders are of the opinion that their forces will give no trouble, as it has been determined that the military shall not have justification for stern action.

Information from a high official source indicates that Sinn Fein leaders now in English jails will be treated as kindly as prison regulations will permit. What course the prosecution may take has not been definitely decided. It is reported that the men will be imprisoned until after the war, but that there will be no executions.

Mrs. Darrell Figgis secured permission today to go to England in search of her husband. If court-martial trials are held she wants to be beside her husband and help all she can in his defense.

On the Whitmonday holiday the parks and streets were thronged with great crowds, but there was no trouble. Throngs attended the running races at Ballydoyle, many going on foot, as it is against military regulations to use an automobile to race meetings.

Factions Join in Greeting Envoys.

DUBLIN, May 20.—The three days' visit to Ireland of seven members of the American Labor Mission closed today with a luncheon given by Lord Decies. A great effort was made to obtain the attendance of representatives of all the Irish parties in order to show that, however much local issues separate Irish citizens, they are united in their friendship for America.

Unionists and Nationalists were both well represented at the gathering, and official Dublin attended in a body, those present including Edward Shortt, the new Chief Secretary for Ireland, and Major Gen. Shaw, the new commander of the British forces in Ireland. It was obviously impossible that any members of the real revolutionary school of the Sinn Fein could be present at the same table with Secretary Shortt and General Shaw, but the more moderate wing of the Sinn Fein was to have been represented by Laurence O'Neill, the Lord Mayor of Dublin. Unfortunately, Mayor O'Neill, who had been out of the city, found it impossible at the last moment to get back to Dublin until mid-afternoon and sent a message of regret with a request that the delegation meet him at his office immediately after the luncheon.

The principal speakers of the occasion were the two highest legal dignitaries in Ireland, Sir Ignatius O'Brien, the Lord Chancellor, who is a leading Nationalist, and Sir James Campbell, the Lord Chief Justice, a close friend and supporter of Sir Edward Carson, the Unionist leader. Both the speakers eulogized the great part which the United States was taking in the war and expressed the hope that there would also soon be greater co-operation from Ireland in the work of defeating the Germans.

"The American delegation," said the Lord Chief Justice, who has lost two sons in the war, "has come among us at a time when we are unhappily distracted and divided. The sky of Ireland is dark with heavy and lowering clouds of anger and suspicion, and these clouds have for the time obscured the vision of peace and reconciliation which a few months ago seemed so near, and for which many of us so earnestly waited and zealously labored.

"But I do not despair, nor have I abandoned the belief that the common sufferings and sacrifices and heroism of the many gallant Irishmen who have fallen in the great war will bear the fruit of peace and good will in Ireland.

"The situation here today is critical. One thing alone can save it, and that is the co-operation of every sane and patriotic Irishman in a final appeal to our young manhood to take its place in this world struggle and fill the places of the gallant Irishmen who have fallen in the defense of freedom and liberty. If we get an adequate response to this final appeal, we will succeed in vindicating the fair name of Ireland before the world and will save our country from tragedy and despair."

In the course of the day the members of the American mission conferred with John Dillon, the Nationalist leader, and later went to the bedside of Sir Horace Plunkett, who was the Chairman of the Irish Convention, for a few words with him. He is recovering from a severe breakdown which has kept him to his bed since the convention finished its work.

One of the incidents of the day was a conference between the American women delegates and a deputation from the Sinn Fein women's organization, headed by Mrs. Wyse Power, who is one of the members of the new Sinn Fein Executive Committee. According to a statement issued later from the Sinn Fein headquarters, Mrs. Wyse Power "laid before the American visitors the Irish Republican point of view."

Among the first Sinn Fein figures whom the Americans of the labor mission encountered in the lobby of their hotel, the Shelbourne, here on Sunday was Maude Gonne McBride, widow of Major John McBride, one of the men put to death in the Spring of 1916 for his part in the Easter uprising. She lives within a stone's throw of the hotel, and was a constant visitor there after the arrival of the Americans. She was arrested last night while she was returning to her home.

Maude Gonne is a striking figure, nearly six feet tall, dressed in black, and she attracted the attention of the Americans by the fact that she was always accompanied by her dachshund. Her arrest appears virtually to have completed the list of Sinn Fein leaders whom the Government has decided to render inactive for the time being.

As the widow of one of the noted Sinn Fein figures, Maude Gonne has been regarded as an important leader of the Sinn Fein women's movement. She had been in Ireland only for a few weeks, and had been able to get back from England with the greatest difficulty. The British Government had prohibited her entrance at any Irish port. She made repeated attempts to reach Ireland, but was unsuccessful until she finally eluded the Government's vigilance by dressing herself in the clothes of an old peasant market woman and crossing thus from Holyhead.

the Catholic clergy, not to preside at political meetings.

The protest was formulated by Mrs. William Jay and her Loyal Committee, and the women are willing to take the matter to the Apostolic Delegate unless something is done to prevent priests from taking part in meetings which, they assert, are jeopardizing the cause of the country and putting our men in France in peril.

Dr. Frances Kellor, who was put out of one Sinn Fein meeting for protesting that the speeches were seditious, said last night that she had received many scurrilous anonymous letters, and that in some of these her life had been covertly threatened. She has also received hundreds of letters praising her action.

NEW JERSEY MEN ON LIST.

Lieut. A. J. Metzger of Newark, Killed, Was an Aviator.

Lieutenant Alfred R. Metzger, whose death by accident in France, is reported in yesterday's casualty list from General Pershing, was a son of the late Alfred R. Metzger of Newark, and was a flier with the American Aviation Section in France. He entered the army in March of last year, a few weeks before Congress declared war on Germany, and was with the first American contingent which followed General Pershing overseas. Lieutenant Metzger was 24 years old, and before entering the army was an engineer in the employ of the Crucible Steel Company. His father died last November. He is survived by his mother, one sister, and one brother, all of whom live at 16 Camp Street, Newark.

Lieutenant Frank A. Fritz, reported severely wounded, is a son of Mr. and Mrs. George J. Fritz of Butler, N. J. He is a graduate of the second Plattsburg Officers' Training Camp, and before entering the army was with the law firm of Platt & Field at 120 Broadway. He is a graduate of Manhattan College, and the Fordham Law School. A telegram to his parents yesterday announced that he was wounded in action on May 11. Lieutenant Fritz is of German stock, both his father and mother having been born in Germany.

Private Roland Bigelow, reported dead of wounds, was in the Engineers of the regular army. A telegram to his family announced that death was hastened by shell shock. He was 29 years old, and went to France last November. His family lives in Asbury Park.

Before Sailing for Europe

TO OFFICERS of the AMERICAN EXPEDITIONARY FORCE, the Military Banking House of Cox & Company cordially extends the valuable financial facilities of which Officers of the British and Colonial Forces have availed themselves since the beginning of the war, and which no other Bank is in a position to provide.

At the commencement of the present war, Cox & Company's Bank established a subsidiary in France under the name of Cox & Co. (France), Ltd., through which Officers in uniform can cash checks on Cox & Company, up to the equivalent of £5 (about $25) at any one time, without the formality of establishing identity and signature—a convenience which obviates the necessity of carrying ready money or easily-lost letters of credit in the war zone.

To cover the whole of France, a special arrangement was made with the Bank of France, whereby the same privileges were extended to Officers in uniform by all the many hundred branches of that Bank in places where no branch of Cox & Co. (France), Ltd., existed. The same facilities are also provided throughout Italy at all branches of the Banca Italiana di Sconto.

Founded more than 30 years before George Washington was first President of the United States, Cox & Company's Bank has held the appointment of Bankers and Official Agents to the majority of British Regiments almost uninterruptedly ever since.

BEFORE SAILING FOR EUROPE, instruct your Banker in your home city to send a draft for your credit with Cox & Company, London, when the above important facilities will become available to you.

MRS. STOKES DENIES ASSAILING RED CROSS

Testifies That She Did Not Allude to It as "Profiteering Camouflage."

RECITES EARLY HARDSHIPS

Contrasts Them with Her Leisure Since Marriage, Explaining Her Socialistic Views.

Special to The New York Times.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—Mrs. Rose Pastor Stokes, on trial in the Federal Court charged with violating the Espionage act, took the stand in her own behalf late today. With certain preliminary abridgements, demanded by the court, she delivered in the courtroom substantially the same speech she gave before the Woman's Dining Club here which aroused such protest.

Mrs. Stokes testified that she was born in Russia in 1879 and left that country when 3 years old. She lived in London until 11 years old, she said, and sewed ribbons on slippers to contribute to the support of her family. Then she came to America and worked as a cigarmaker in Cleveland twelve years. When 23 years old she removed to New York and became editor of The Jewish Daily News. In 1905 she was married, she testified. Her husband never was a millionaire, she said, although his family was wealthy.

Mrs. Stokes said that she had been a member of the Socialist Party until the United States entered the war, when she resigned, but rejoined it later. She denied that she had alluded to the Red Cross as a "profiteering camouflage." She said she had given $50 to the Red Cross last year and had purchased Liberty bonds of the first and second issues. She did not invest in the third issue, she said, fearing that the impression would obtain that she was seeking public favor. The witness at this point launched into a dissertation on Socialism, tracing the alleged cause for persons being thrown out of employment.

It was in telling of conditions under which she lived in girlhood that Mrs. Stokes made her greatest emotional appeal. Her attorney asked her to explain how she came to be a Socialist.

"For twelve years I was a cigarmaker in Cleveland," she said. "I was ill-nourished and poorly clad. I worked at night as well as day to help piece out my family's existence. I never had anything I wanted. But the moment I left the working class and got into the leisure class"—referring to her marriage to J. G. Phelps Stokes—"I had all the money, all the clothes, in a word, everything I wanted. I realized conditions then were unjust and not above criticism."

The prosecution sprang a sensation in the cross-examination of Mrs. Florence Kelley of New York, Vice President of the National Conference of Social Workers, a character witness for Mrs. Stokes. After she had testified that Mrs. Stokes enjoyed a good reputation, E. B. Silver, Assistant United States District Attorney, demanded:

"Are you aware that Mrs. Stokes attended a meeting in New York in April, 1915, to attack the birth control law, when Mrs. Stokes said: 'I have come here to do what Emma Goldman did. I am honoring the law by breaking it'?"

Mrs. Kelley said that she did not know about the incident.

"Then," returned Mr. Silver, "your knowledge as whether Mrs. Stokes is a law-abiding citizen is pretty incomplete, isn't it?"

Arthur Kellogg of New York, advertising manager of The Survey, also testified as to the good reputation of Mrs. Stokes.

Mr. Stedman, the prisoner's counsel, said that members of the Woman's Dining Club, before whom she spoke in March, would be introduced to refute the testimony of the Government's witnesses.

The patriotic poem "America," written by Mrs. Stokes and published in the Century Magazine of December, 1917, was read to the jury by Mr. Silver.

A. H. Little, a live stock commission man of the Kansas side, a Government witness, testified that Mrs. Stokes read the poem in her speech here. She remarked, he said, that she was sorry she had written it.

"And that was the sentiment Mrs. Stokes then repudiated?" asked Mr. Silver of Mr. Little, turning quickly after reading the poem to the jury. Mr. Stedman objected. The witness was permitted to answer, and he replied, "Yes."

Mr. Stedman intimated today that there were "certain influences" attempting to make a "goat" of Mrs. Stokes, and said that "they had found her to be a lamb."

As yet he has made no effort to explain away the letter written to The Kansas City Star March 20, which formed the basis of Mrs. Stokes's indictment. In that letter she said she was against the Government and this was a war of profiteers.

Robert L. Dawson made an admission which was seized upon by the defense. Mr. Dawson testified that Mrs. Stokes said there were two elements in the war—one for the profiteers and one for democracy—and for her part she was for democracy.

Mr. Stedman has attempted to obtain this admission from a number of other witnesses.

Lieutenant Ralph B. Campbell, in charge of the Navy Recruiting Office, who left the meeting while Mrs. Stokes was speaking, was a witness for the Government.

"Mrs. Stokes said she no longer favored this capitalistic Government keeping us in the war," Lieutenant Campbell testified. "She said we did not enter the war to protect our democracy, but to protect our dollars."

Mr. Silver asked Lieutenant Campbell the effect Mrs. Stokes's statements had exerted upon recruiting. His reply that recruiting was lower the following week than before was ordered stricken out of the record by Judge Van Valkenburgh.

F. P. Marlowe, Clerk of the Circuit Court, Neosho, Mo., was a witness to establish the character of Mrs. Stokes's remarks in that town. He testified Mrs. Stokes said she had stopped knitting and doing Red Cross work when she was reminded that Austrian and German boys were being killed in this war.

MILLIONS IN PROPERTY DESTROYED BY I. W. W.

Government Introduces Letters Telling of Havoc Wrought in California for Years.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Inside history of the ruin wrought by the I. W. W. in the hop fields and fruit orchards of California by the practice of sabotage several years ago in an effort to obtain the release from prison of Richard Ford and Herman Suhr, members of the organization convicted on charges of murder and sentenced to life imprisonment, was revealed today at the trial of 112 I. W. W. leaders. The Government attorneys read a number of letters written by Charles L. Lambert of Sacramento, Cal., who was Secretary of the Hop Pickers' Defense Committee in 1914, and later elected a member of the General Executive Board of the I. W. W. He was one of the leaders who directed the unsuccessful fight conducted by the organization in California in the hope that the Governor might be influenced to pardon Ford and Suhr from prison.

According to Lambert the I. W. W. campaign of sabotage resulted in the destruction of property valued at $10,000,000 annually for several years.

In a letter to George Childs, Treasurer of the Joe Hill defense fund, Lambert, under date of Aug. 4, 1915, said:

"There is so little justice toward our class that we will have to change our tactics, and in the future when one of our class is murdered in the interest of capitalism two of theirs should be murdered in the interest of labor, and then the authorities will have more respect for us. We will have to use more direct action."

Lambert declared: "Our only hope lies in sabotage and direct action," in a letter addressed to Dick Highfield at Oatman, Ariz.

In a letter written to G. J. Bourg, another defendant in the present trial, Lambert told of property in California valued at $2,000,000 being destroyed by fire, and added:

"This does not seem to have waked them up yet, but if they get enough of it they will wake up and get a move on."

He concludes this letter by telling of the killing of Sheriff Meadows of Imperial Valley.

"They finally got our old friend Sheriff Meadows of Imperial Valley," wrote Lambert. "This rat has dodged everything successfully for the last five years from poison to bullets, but finally he fell and died after four hours of terrible agony from poisoning of some kind. He lived five years too long."

In a signed article published in the Industrial World in May, 1917, Lambert described the sabotage practiced to compel the release of Ford and Shur from prison.

"True the boss has felt quite a gnawing at his pocketbook. It has cost the boss on an average of $10,000,000 a year to keep Ford and Suhr in the pen."

Lambert in a letter written to Richard Ford, who was in prison, in June, 1915, said:

"Big Bill (Haywood) was up before the Industrial Relations Commission in the East lately and he handed them a package they will not forget in a hurry. The Chairman of the commission is sure a dandy, too. He is doing more to bring about a state of unrest among the workers than all the soap boxers and other reformers could do in twenty years."

Other letters told of acts of sabotage which did great damage on which the writer placed an aggregate loss of approximately $100,000.

RIVETING PRIZE FOR NEGRO.

Hurley Forwards Northcliffe Purse and Challenges British Workmen.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The first international prize for riveting was transmitted today by Chairman Hurley of the Shipping Board to Charles Knight, a negro, at the request of Lord Northcliffe, owner of London newspapers, who offered £25 for the best score above previous records. Knight is employed at the Bethlehem shipbuilding plant at Sparrow's Point, Md.

At the same time Mr. Hurley cabled Lord Northcliffe a new challenge for British workmen, and called on American shipbuilders to beat Knight's record. An increase of five rivets per gang per hour would mean the building of a steel freighter of 10,000 tons every ten weeks, he said. Mr. Hurley wrote Knight:

"Your world's record feat of driving 4,875 rivets on May 16 has set for American shipbuilders the fast pace that is so necessary for carrying on the war successfully. Such an achievement as yours carries across the seas an inspiring message of American determination and ability. The Shipping Board is justly proud of what you have done, and it is a pleasure for me to send you an appreciation."

The Soldier—the Sailor—and the Red Cross

The health, comfort and peace of mind of our fighting men is a national obligation. In its thorough care of our men the Government reflects the country's determination that ours shall be the best-cared-for soldiers and sailors in the world.

The whole nation stands pledged to every sacrifice that will add to the happiness or effectiveness of our men.

The Red Cross is the people's agent in this, as it is authorized by Congress to be the "medium of communication between the people of the United States and its Army and Navy."

The Red Cross supplements, in every practical way, the excellent care which is taken of each boy by the Army and Navy. There is the closest co-operation between the Government and the Red Cross; the two Surgeon-Generals are members of the Red Cross Executive Committee; Army and Navy officers are assigned to Red Cross headquarters; a Red Cross Field-Director with necessary assistants is stationed at every cantonment or naval station.

Canteen Service

A troop train rolls in at four o'clock, three hours late. No one has had dinner. It isn't any one's fault. There has been a freight wreck or something has delayed it.

Everyone is tired; everyone is hungry. A soldier in the first coach passes along the word, Here they are! Down the yard come the Red Cross women; the coffee is ready and hot, trays of sandwiches, a portion for every man, for Red Cross knew they were coming and is ready for them.

Best of all there is a word of cheer. In five minutes all hands are in good spirits. The post-cards are ready for the men to write home, the Red Cross Motor Corps stands beside to take the one sick soldier to the hospital, and there will be Red Cross women to see that he is not forgotten there. All is conducted in an orderly way in full co-operation with the Army authorities and railway management.

Camp Service

The great army cantonment or naval station is a new kind of city. Here are 40,000 young men, in a new environment, living a new kind of life. There is every problem of the city of 40,000, always with some novel phase. The Red Cross has filled a real place in these new cities, helping the Army and Navy in keeping the men healthy, comfortable and happy.

In the camp the young soldier finds that elaborate preparation had been made for his arrival. The site has been made healthy and comfortable by the Army or Navy. The area surrounding the camp has been in charge of the United States Sanitary Service, the Red Cross Sanitary Service, and the local health authorities.

If an epidemic threatens the camp, as during the recent winter, and the hard-worked Army Medical Staff is baffled, they may call for a Red Cross laboratory car to be rushed to the scene with its expert bacteriologists and scientific equipment to study the situation and help protect the men.

In every camp there are the Red Cross Storehouses filled with emergency medical and surgical supplies. Then there are the knitted goods made by the devoted women of America, and there were few of our men who were not thankful to those women for additional comfort during the trying winter months.

If the soldier falls ill in the cantonment he is put in an ambulance, perhaps the gift of a Red Cross chapter, its driver quite possibly a member of a Red Cross ambulance unit which has been given to the Army; he is taken to the base hospital, operated by the Army Medical Corps; possibly the doctor attending him is an officer of a Hospital Unit organized and equipped by the Red Cross; his nurse in all probability is one of the thousands of Red Cross nurses recruited by the Red Cross for service in the Army and Navy.

When he begins to recover, he has the Red Cross Convalescent Houses. Here are reading and lounging rooms, an entertainment auditorium, a place to meet his friends and hasten his recovery. Then there are sleeping accommodations for his mother who may have been summoned in the critical stage of his illness.

In every camp there are Red Cross Home Service representatives to keep the man in touch with his home folks, to advise them of the details of his sickness, to counsel him about family or financial complications, to take home worries from his shoulders, and through the Red Cross Chapter in his home town to remove the cause of those worries.

Home Service

The care of the soldier's family is as necessary as the care of the soldier himself if the spirit so necessary to his effectiveness as a fighting man is to be maintained. If he is harassed by anxiety about those dearest to him at home he cannot be on fighting edge.

Red Cross Home Service meets this problem. It is a new condition that such a large percentage of its young men should be removed from a town with all they have meant in moral and financial support. Their absence creates new problems, in the aggregate so large they must be coped with in a large way. Red Cross Home Service makes the sympathy, interest and help of the whole community available to the family in a practical manner. It is playing the part of the old neighbor in a new way.

To see that the family is not disorganized while he is absent; to give temporary financial aid when necessary; to care for those who, though they are related to him, have no legal claim upon the Government; to give information about pay-allotments, terms of enlistment, war risk insurance; to co-operate with the Government in the after-care of the disabled soldier and his readjustment to life; to act as the good neighbor and friend of the family in troubles large and small when the soldier is absent — these are the aims of Red Cross Home Service, established in every section of the country, and already serving one hundred thousand dependent families of soldiers and sailors.

Home Service is not a charity; it is as much the soldier's right as any protection which the people give him.

Foreign Service

American troops are now in France in great numbers — greater numbers will follow day by day — and America's task abroad will become sterner.

The need for the Red Cross abroad is but greater for the distance. Red Cross preparation for the reception of our troops in France has been going on since the first month of the war. The Red Cross Commission in France has built a great, extensive organization in people and material, to assure that our men will have every care the Red Cross can give them. Through all the months since war began, Red Cross supplies have occupied a part of many ships; piling up in the great Red Cross warehouses in France against the arrival of our men. The great Red Cross motor fleet has been organized to transport Red Cross supplies.

All through these months, the organization has been studying and training, so that it would be able to cope effectively with the problems created by the arrival of our men. Red Cross in France is supporting our Army and is ready for any further task that may, within reason, fall to it.

On the way to his camp in France, the American soldier gets food and rest at the Red Cross canteens. On the way from the trenches to his camp, he meets the great Red Cross canteens on the lines of communication. Here the tired, nerve-worn soldier, covered with vermin, gets food, a bath, rest, and clean clothes. The great canteen at Chalons is typical. As he goes into the front line trenches, and as he comes out, he is met by the Red Cross rolling canteens operating right behind the front line, giving him hot or cold drinks.

If the soldier is wounded, a Red Cross bandage, made by Red Cross women at home, binds the wound. The Red Cross man follows him to the hospital, sees to his welfare, and supplements the prompt cable advice of the Government to his folks at home, by the full story of his condition and progress.

Abroad, it is a great comfort to him to know that Red Cross Home Service is seeing to it that his family is not in want.

Red Cross is anticipating the soldier's possible permanent disablement, by an institution already established where the best methods of rehabilitation work are being studied, the results of the experiments to be put at the disposal of the Government, which is making adequate plans for the care of mutilated men.

If the worst befalls him, the Red Cross representative talks with the men who fought beside him in the battle, and, supplementing the Government's cable advice, sends his people the story of his final heroic sacrifice.

Prisoners' Service

If the soldier is taken prisoner he still finds the Red Cross caring for him. The Red Cross, in co-operation with the Quartermaster General of the Army, furnishes all American prisoners in Germany with food, clothing and tobacco. These supplies are shipped to the Red Cross warehouses in Berne, Switzerland, and from there twenty pounds of food are sent to each prisoner every week. The prisoners receipt for the packages, so that delivery is almost certain. The notations on the receipts, "With all my heart I thank you," "There is an American touch to that parcel," are the best evidence of the importance of this work.

Then, too, the Red Cross is able to correspond with the prisoners' families, keeping them informed of their condition and whereabouts. Letters are sent back and forth, gifts of money and individual packages from friends and relatives are forwarded. The Red Cross alone has permission from both the United States Government and Germany to conduct this service.

SECRETARY BAKER, in making a recent inspection tour of Red Cross activities in France, said:

"When one is in the zone of the armies or in the supply areas, words of appreciation or praise for the American Red Cross seem superfluous. The foresight that has characterized its present and prospective operations has been a source of pride to the commanding officer of the American forces and should be a source of comfort to the people of the United States, who, I know, enabled it to carry on its work and to expand."

PERSHING FILM GIVES VAST VIEW OF WAR

$25,000 FOR THE RED CROSS

Throng of Notables Buy Auctioned Boxes for Metropolitan and Applaud Government's First Picture.

"Pershing's Crusaders," the first of the United States Government war films to be released serially under the general title "Following the Flag to France," was exhibited at the Lyric Theatre last night before an audience which, in social and military distinction, surpassed any that ever assembled for moving pictures. Between the two parts of the film E. H. Sothern and James W. Gerard made addresses, the latter acting as auctioneer of the Metropolitan Opera House boxes for the Red Cross concert next Monday night. All of the boxes were sold for a total of more than $25,000, the first choice going to Clarence H. Mackay for $2,000.

But the film's the thing. "Pershing's Crusaders" is far and away the best compilation of war pictures exhibited here since the beginning of the European struggle. Through them one gets a birdseye view of the war, as it were, which includes not only scenes of fighting, but glimpses of all of the activity connected with the beginning and carrying on of the war by America. And, in the aggregate, the pictures, more perhaps than any other medium yet presented, give a profound impression of the magnitude of the nation's war making, the size of the job that the country has tackled, and how the great task is being accomplished in every department of endeavor.

The pictures begin with a representation in drawings and photographs of Germany's aggression and character, the mailed fist rising from the land of the Kaiser to grasp the heart of France appearing dramatically, and a view of the Deutschland in American waters serving to show the length of the German arm.

Farming and food are dealt with next to show one of the prime departments of American preparation, and scenes incident to the raising and training of the draft army follow. Secretary Baker is pictured drawing the first number of the draft; cantonments are seen rising almost over night, the men as civilians are presented leaving their homes for the camps, the same men as soldiers are observed at their training. The housing and clothing of the national army are graphically illustrated. There are interiors of Uncle Sam's tailor shops, where electrically driven knives cut sixty thicknesses of khaki at once; there are pictures of the manufacture of tens of thousands of pairs of shoes; hundreds of women whose sons are in the army are seen making the things that they and their brothers in arms will wear.

Ships come next. Great yards that reach for miles over land where no keels were a few months ago are seen; workmen are pictured putting wood and steel together; big steamers slide easily down the ways to make the bridge for which General Pershing called.

The manufacture of munitions is illustrated. There are views of men working on huge guns, and of other men preparing smaller ones for deadly use. Pictures taken at aviation camps show what the fliers are doing and how they do it, and there are glimpses of the navy in action—guns firing, smoke screens rising, ships manoeuvring.

And then comes America actually at war—scenes of the men on the other side. The American soldiers in camp, training behind the lines, constructing bridges and lines of communication, marching through a French village "somewhere in France" on their way to the front, and, finally, in the front-line trenches.

The scene of the men on the first day in the front-line trenches caused one of the most pronounced thrills felt by the spectators.

Many incidents of Secretary Baker's visit to France were shown, from his reception by General Pershing to his appearance on the friendly border of No Man's Land. There were pictures next of the first group of German prisoners captured by Americans, including twenty-one men and two officers. It was noticed here that the men were very haggard looking, apparently having endured the maximum of physical and moral deteriorating influences. The two officers refused to face the camera squarely, only occasionally looking around to scowl.

The spectators united in loud hissing when a pre-war picture of the Kaiser reviewing his troops was shown, and they came even closer together to cheer a few minutes later when they saw President Wilson at work at his desk.

The exhibition closed with a symbolical representation of ultimate victory by the United States and her allies.

In his address during the intermission, Mr. Gerard took up specially the Irish agitation and denounced as traitors to America those in this country who attacked England in emphasizing Irish allegiance. He invited Mrs. Sheehy Skeffington to go back to Ireland and the Lord Mayor of Dublin to stay there.

In the auction of the Metropolitan some of those who bid $1,000 each for preferred choice were George M. Cohan, Elbert H. Gary, Mr. Wilson, Mrs. Daniel Guggenheim, John McGee, Mrs. Merle Smith, and Harry Payne Whitney. After a number of the boxes had been sold for $1,000 each, the remainder were disposed of at $500.

A collection for the Red Cross was also taken up following an appeal by United States Marshal McCarthy.

The seats and boxes occupied last night had been sold for between $3,500 and $4,000. The box holders were Mrs. Cornelius Vanderbilt, Mrs. Newbold LeRoy Edgar, Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney, Clarence Mackay, Mrs. Felix T. Rosen, Mrs. George Pope, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. James Speyer, Mortimer L. Schiff, Mrs. E. H. Harriman, Mrs. Charles B. Alexander, Mrs. Robert Bacon, Mrs. E. H Gary, Mrs. E. N. Breitung, and others.

Messages from Secretary Baker and Joseph P. Tumulty, the latter accepting for President and Mrs. Wilson designation as honorary patronesses of the exhibition, were read.

The "Four-Minute Song Men," some seventy voices strong, sang patriotic and popular selections between the parts of the pictures.

"Pershing's Crusaders" will be shown twice daily, beginning this afternoon, under the direction of the Liberty Film Committee, of which Mrs. Edgar is Chairman. The French Army Band, brought to this country by the French High Commission and now assigned to the Y. M. C. A., will play at this evening's performance.

THREATEN TO SUE PERKINS.

Farmers Assert Potato Contracts Were Not Carried Out.

Special to The New York Times.

BINGHAMTON, N. Y., May 21.—Because George W. Perkins failed to take over stocks of potatoes for which his representatives contracted from farmers of the Southern Tier, James T. Moody of Hornell, an attorney representing the farmers of Steuben County and other regions, is preparing an action to recover the amount of the contracts.

It was announced last Spring that Mr. Perkins, through his representatives, would make contracts with farmers to plant large acreages of potatoes, agreeing to take the entire crop at $1 a bushel if the market price was below or to pay pro rata if the price was above.

It is asserted that many farmers in the Southern Tier made contracts with Mr. Perkins's representatives and harvested large crops, which they have since been holding for his disposal.

Representatives of Mr. Perkins say that the agreement has been violated by the farmers, and this is the reason for the present difficulty.

Wilson Poses for Cuban Artist.

WANT BARLEY FOR BREAD.

Baptist Convention Urges Wilson to Seize Brewers' Supplies.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., May 21.—Resolutions demanding nation-wide prohibition, the commandeering of the barley crop, pledging its 1,500,000 members to the fullest support of the Government in the war and its members to a strict observance of the food law, were adopted by the Northern Baptists' Convention today. The war resolution read:

> Freedom and truth are Baptist watchwords, and hence we will sustain the Government in the war for liberty and righteousness with all the resources of our men and money. We stand by America and her noble allies for the rescue of weaker nations from tyranny.
> We heartily commend the varied work of our War Commission, deeply appreciate the co-operation of pastors and churches in the Northern Baptist Convention, and unite with all citizens in the heartiest approval of the services rendered by the different associations—Y. M. C. A., Y. M. C. U., Hebrew bodies, Knights of Columbus, and Boy and Girl Scouts—in their determination to win the war. We would especially commend the Scout movement for its worth to churches in character building.

The resolution demanding prohibition instructed the churches to get men into politics and to push the Federal amendment "over the top" by the election of members to the Legislatures who would support it.

The assembly asked President Wilson to commander the barley crop in the following resolution:

> In view of the conservation of food practiced by the people, in view of the statement of the Food Administration that the supply of barley is exhausted, and in view of the uncontradicted fact that brewers have a six months' supply of barley on hand, we petition the President to commandeer the barley now in the brewers' control in order that it may be made into bread instead of beer. We approve the Barley bill, and urge upon Congress its immediate adoption.

President Signs Sedition Bill.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—President Wilson today signed the Sedition bill, giving the Government wide powers to punish disloyal acts and utterances.

INVESTIGATE BOYS' SOCIETY

Swann Calls Officers of "Seventh Regiment of Boy Scouts."

District Attorney Swann announced yesterday that he had begun an investigation into subscriptions solicited by the "Seventh Regiment of United States Boy Scouts." He said he expected to receive visits today from "Colonel" Ralph H. Korn, commander of the regiment, and "Major" Bernard H. Fry. The organization has headquarters in the Candler Building, 220 West Forty-second Street.

The District Attorney said he had received a letter from the firm of Habicht, Braun & Co., importers, of 161 Hudson Street, saying that they had contributed $25 to the organization and asking if it was a legitimate enterprise. Thereupon, said Mr. Swann, he telephoned the office in the Candler Building and was told by Fry that the organization had collected $1,200, which they had expended on bugles and fifes.

"My understanding is," said Mr. Swann, "that they telephone to German firms and ask them to prove their patriotism by subscribing to the organization."

"Everything that this organization has done has been legitimate," asserted Korn last night. "We do not have a single paid employe or officer. It is true, as Mr. Swann says, that we paid John D. Gluck $300. The transaction was legitimate, and Mr. Swann will have a complete statement of fact from me when I see him. Not only did we purchase fifes and bugles, as Mr. Swann said, but I told him that we bought 100 rifles. This is all the result of a Boy Scout feud, and I am sure that I can explain everything to Mr. Swann's or any one else's satisfaction. I can show a receipted bill for every item of expense of the organization. We teach poor boys military training and we supply them equipment that they cannot afford to buy."

Generals on Priorities Board.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Major Gen. Goethals and Brig. Gen. Hugh S. Johnson were designated today by Secretary Baker as the War Department's representatives on the Priorities Board. General Goethals succeeds Lieut. Col. F. S. Young and General Johnson takes the place of Brig. Gen. Pierce. Mr. Baker said the new work would not interfere with the other duties of Generals Goethals and Johnson.

WASHINGTON PLAYERS FAIL.

Their Assignment an Amicable Arrangement with Creditors.

An assignment for the benefit of creditors was made yesterday by the Washington Square Players, following repeated reports that the financial difficulties in which the organization has found itself as a result of a rigorous season, might compel at least a temporary abandonment of their enterprise. The loss of many of their actors by draft, coupled with the other hardships brought upon the theatre by war conditions this season, made the Players' second year at the Comedy a losing venture. Announcement was made last week that the director of the enterprise, Edward Goodman, had been called to the colors, and the chances of another season were then said to depend upon the ability of the organization to obtain a satisfactory leader.

Yesterday's assignment was made to Hugo Gerber of 1,476 Broadway and Bernard Bernbaum of 320 Broadway. The Players were incorporated in 1915 with a capital stock of $1,000, and Mr. Goodman has been their President since that time. Mr. Goodman declared yesterday that the assignment was an entirely amicable arrangement, having been entered into in the interests of both the Players and their creditors. If reorganization could be satisfactorily effected, he said, the Players would resume producing next season under new leaders.

The possibility of a continuance of the Players' activities is said to rest largely upon the success or failure of a Western trip which the organization is about to undertake. A season of four or five weeks will be played this Summer at the Columbia Theatre, in San Francisco, and should this prove successful it is probable that a brief tour of the Western cities will be undertaken.

The Washington Square Players, whose inception marked the beginning of the little theatre movement in New York, have been in existence a little more than three years. During the first year and a half of their life they produced plays at Bandbox Theatre, in East Fifty-seventh Street, and have been for two seasons at the Comedy.

WILL RESENTENCE MOONEY.

Judge Griffin Denies All Motions for Arrest of Judgment.

SAN FRANCISCO, May 21.—Thomas J. Mooney on May 28 will be resentenced to hang by Judge Franklin A. Griffin as a result of his conviction on a first degree murder charge growing out of the preparedness parade bomb explosion which killed ten persons and injured forty here in 1916.

Motions asking the removal of the death sentence, the setting aside of all previous court proceedings in the case, and the granting of a new trial on the ground of wilful fraud, malfeasance, and nonfeasance in the office of the District Attorney were denied by Judge Griffin.

It has been stated by counsel for the defense that an appeal would be carried to the United States Supreme Court.

Why Dr. Lyon's Sales Are Increasing

DR. LYON'S is a safe dentifrice—it cleans the teeth thoroughly, without drugs—thus protecting the user from any possible misapplication of drugs.

Cleanliness is the first rule of refinement and safety is the second; Dr. Lyon was the first to apply both to a dentifrice.

Careful, thinking people today do not trust the propaganda of the drugged dentifrice. If they have any tooth trouble they go to one who knows what the treatment should be—the dentist; which is proper. Dr. Lyon's does all that a dentifrice can do safely—keeps the teeth clean and white.

GRAND JURY TAKES UP O'LEARY'S CASE

RELATIVES AID IN SEARCH

They Are Hunting for Him in Adirondacks, While Canadian Authorities Are Watching Border.

The Federal Grand Jury for the Southern District of New York began an investigation yesterday of the disappearance of Jeremiah A. O'Leary, the Sinn Fein agitator and pro-German propagandist, who was to have gone on trial in the Federal Court last Monday on an indictment charging him with having entered into a conspiracy to obstruct the operation of the military laws of the United States. The Federal officers in charge of the O'Leary case said they would make every possible effort to ascertain the circumstances of O'Leary's going away. The Grand Jury investigation will be continued today.

Among the witnesses called before the Grand Jury yesterday were Supreme Court Justice Daniel F. Cohalan, John Jerome Rooney, a member of the committee appointed to go to Washington this week and seek to obtain President Wilson's intervention in the Irish situation; Grover Whalen, secretary to Mayor Hylan, who is a brother-in-law of O'Leary; the mother and father of the fugitive, Alexis O'Leary, a brother, and John Devoy, editor of the Sinn Fein weekly known as the Gaelic American. It was reported that no witness examined yesterday was able to throw any light on the matter. None of them, it was said, has heard a word, directly or indirectly, from the fugitive since May 8, the day of his disappearance. Justice Cohalan and the other witnesses all refused to talk after they emerged from the juryroom.

A high Federal official said yesterday that it has been definitely established that O'Leary had not been misinformed as to the date of his trial. On May 7, the day before he left New York, O'Leary is known to have left with a relative a list of questions which he desired to be asked when he came to trial. This was the day after Judge Foster set the case for trial on May 20.

The report is general that the Government is now making a thorough investigation of the whole Sinn Fein situation in New York. This city is the headquarters of the organization in this country, and among the most active members of the organization are several persons who are British subjects and who on various occasions recently have not only agitated for open rebellion against England, but have also advised drastic action in this country unless the Government can be made to interfere in the internal affairs of Great Britain on the side of the Sinn Fein agitators in Ireland.

The trial of O'Leary will begin at 10 o'clock tomorrow morning, provided O'Leary can be located by that time. Assistant U. S. Attorney Earl B. Barnes, who is in charge of the case for the Government, was asked if he thought there was any chance of O'Leary being found in time to be placed on trial tomorrow morning. He replied that he had hopes that the fugitive would be on hand when the case is called.

Several relatives of O'Leary, among them his brother John, it was said yesterday, have gone to Northern New York in an effort to locate Jeremiah. They are searching in the Adirondacks for him. The entire Secret Service machinery of the Government is also looking for him in every part of the United States, while the Canadian authorities have been asked to look for him on the other side of the border.

SPROUL WINS NOMINATION.

Keystone Republicans' Choice for Governor—Democrats Beat Guffey.

PHILADELPHIA, May 21.—State Senator William C. Sproul of Chester was today nominated for Governor on the Republican ticket in the Statewide primary election. His nearest opponent was J. Denny O'Neil of Pittsburgh, State Highway Commissioner. Returns indicate that Sproul will have a large plurality. Both candidates made pre-election pledges to support the national prohibition amendment and woman suffrage.

Mr. Sproul has been a leader in the State Senate for twenty years. In addition, he is identified with many large business enterprises in this and other States, notably the Sun Shipbuilding Company at Chester.

Eugene C. Bonniwell, Judge of the Municipal Court of Philadelphia, running on a "wet" platform, defeated Joseph F. Guffey of Pittsburgh for the Democratic nomination for Governor. Guffey was pledged to prohibition.

The Fires of Enthusiasm

An Editorial by A. W.

The fires of our enthusiasm on the subject of the Great War have not yet burst into flame. Wait until American airmen outdo the records of the great French flyers, or until an American battleship makes a spectacular bagging of submarines, or until an American regiment smashes through the stolid Hun defense, at a given point, and delivers the death thrust whose bloody trail leads to Berlin!

Then will the fires of our enthusiasm leap skyward illumining the firmament. But that isn't when enthusiasm is needed. It's needed now—now when men are going through the drudgery of war without reaping any of its spectacular rewards. Now when women are putting in days that are heartsick and anguished. Now, when children who were born to love and laughter are living in sickness and starvation.

A cross has meant divinity to us for centuries. Our denomination in the world of religion has determined the shape of the cross before which we worshipped—but, in the big, abstract sense, the cross has meant God.

There is a cross today before which we all must bow the knee. A cross whose niche is not found in any particular church—but in all churches. A cross which means God more surely than any other cross we have ever known. It is THE RED CROSS—a consecrated emblem which stands for the religion of Humanity.

You are asked to light the fires of your enthusiasm for THE RED CROSS. Let them kindle first in your heart. Sit down, alone, and think a picture. A picture of an American boy, hit by a jagged piece of shrapnel, lying on a blood-soaked spot in No Man's Land, writhing in an agony which defeats human endurance. All about him is desolation. The air is rent by the groans and shrieks of his wounded comrades.

The stench of No Man's Land fills his nostrils. The delirium of mortal agony is upon him, when suddenly two pairs of compassionate hands lift him from the ground and place him gently on a stretcher.

From that time on everything that happens to him is designed to relieve his misery, alleviate his pain and bring his body back to soundness. From that time on he is in the hands of the Red Cross. It is his emblem of happiness—the thing to which he will owe his future existence. That boy may be your boy, or the boy of the man across the road—but he is a boy fighting for you, remember that.

Surely you will not be able to sleep at night if you go to your bed without having given toward the fund which sends angels of mercy to those suffering boys. Surely you realize that just giving of your surplus is not sufficient.

Give ALL your surplus and then, when that is given, slash luxuries from your daily living and give what they would cost. And then, if you are really a human creature, instead of a human machine, think up a few things which have been necessaries. Cut them out and give their value. Then and then only will you really have GIVEN. Then and then only will you have earned the right to sleep at night.

Light the fires of your enthusiasm for the glorious RED CROSS! Have the flames cremate all there is in you of thoughtlessness, indifference and parsimony. Let there rise from the blaze a purified spirit and the sublime desire to give, give, GIVE, your money, the service of your hands, even your heart's blood, to help ease the agony over there.

Earn the right to sleep at night!

What Is Rotary

A Rotary Club is an organization of business men bound together by understanding to better the life and conditions in the community. Primarily the idea was to stimulate interchange of business among members, but this proved provincial and has long been discontinued. Today Rotary stands for the highest ideals in business and social life, with benefits to all, and favoritism to none.

There are 388 clubs in as many cities of the United States, Canada, Great Britain, and Cuba. The movement started in 1905, and today there are 36,300 Rotarians, each pledged to fulfill an unselfish duty.

The Rotary Club of New York has 512 members, each representing a different line of business or profession. By virtue of its membership principles, Rotary cannot be dominated in a single selfish direction, but must serve the greatest number fearlessly and justly. These leaders of industry offer this page to the public as an expression of sincerity in business and community betterment.

Rotarians are in business to serve. If you go to one of the advertisers on this page, or purchase his merchandise, you are assured of full value, courtesy and no misrepresentation.

Outdistances New York.

At the weekly lunch meeting of the Club at the Hotel McAlpin, visiting Rotarian Coupland of Toronto gave the figures of war charity and government loan subscriptions of his city. Figuring population on a percentage basis, Toronto outdistanced New York from every point of view.

Sergeant Davis, a wounded Pershing man, limped in and was given the ovation of the day. Francis M. Hugo, Secretary, State of New York, was the speaking guest.

Great Work for Rotary.

At a meeting the Club unanimously approved of plans to start a gigantic movement in which Rotary will act as a co-ordinating influence between all organizations in the city, and urge them to get behind war movements and carry them through collectively instead of independently. A Rotary committee, consisting of important business men in and out of Rotary, is being formed to direct the work. It is planned to invite all organizations from a small Sunday School to a Chamber of Commerce to do their share.

LA FOLLETTE LAWYER DEFENDS SENATOR

No Disloyalty in St. Paul Speech and Statements Made Are All True, Says Roe.

SAYS HE CAN PROVE THEM

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—In a two-hour argument Gilbert E. Roe, a former law partner of Senator La Follette of Wisconsin, urged the Senate Committee on Privileges and Elections today to dismiss the charges of disloyalty against Senator La Follette founded upon his speech before the Non-Partisan League at St. Paul last September. As Senator La Follette's lawyer he offered a brief of some 20,000 words, in which he contended that the Wisconsin Senator had violated no law, either of ethics or of statute, in his St. Paul utterances.

"There never was a more baseless attack made upon the character and reputation of a public man than that made upon Senator La Follette in these charges," exclaimed Mr. Roe. "Under any construction possible to put upon it, his remarks do not even approach an improper discussion of the war."

Mr. Roe contended that the Senator's comment as to the Lusitania being a legitimate prey of war in carrying munitions was logically sound. He challenged W. J. Bryan, ex-Secretary of State, to deny that he had advised President Wilson that Americans ought to avoid the Lusitania. Mr. Bryan has denied it.

In his argument, Mr. Roe, insisting upon the right of free speech, quoted Charles Sumner, Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, and various other Americans in the earlier, as well as later, days of the republic, as having indulged in unrestrained criticism of Administration policies. He denounced newspapers as having printed false reports of La Follette's St. Paul speech. The Associated Press, he said, had put out a report saying that La Follette had declared that the United States had "suffered no grievances at the hands of Germany," while, in fact, the Senator had said that America "had suffered grievances."

Blames War Profiteers.

"In many other respects, also, the speech was glaringly misrepresented," said Mr. Roe. "The attack which Senator La Follette frankly made in the speech upon those who were profiteering largely from the war and escaping just taxation at the same time aroused great bitterness, and, I have no doubt, led to the filing of the charges against him."

The lawyer remarked that the sentiments expressed in the Senator's speech were "no doubt displeasing to many persons and many interests, but the charge that it contains anything disloyal, or seditious, or anything that a Senator of the United States, or, for that matter, any citizen, might not properly say, is grotesquely absurd."

Mr. Roe declared that the Wisconsin Senator was ready to prove all the allegations he made in his speech. Taking up La Follette's reference to the Lusitania, he said:

"Carrying ammunition was as much a part of the business of the Lusitania at that time and of the other great English vessels as was the carrying of passengers. The people of this country, the Congress, and the Administration in power not only knew the practice, but were divided upon the policy of permitting it. Secretary Bryan, as is well known, resigned from the Cabinet and gave publicly as one of the reasons for resigning the fact that the President would not warn passengers not to travel upon munition-laden ships.

"One has but to recall the history of the sinking of the Lusitania and interviews given by the United States Senators and others at the time, published generally in the press, and the controversy which raged throughout the country over the wisdom or unwisdom of the President's policy in refusing to warn passengers not to travel on munition-carrying ships, to be aware that the substance of everything that Senator La Follette said on the subject was at that time common knowledge. If anyone disputes the accuracy of the specific statements made by Senator La Follette in this matter, and the committee thinks it important to take up the investigation, Senator La Follette will be pleased to submit the detailed proof of the facts, which proof will, I feel sure, satisfy the committee that every statement made by him was correct."

Senator La Follette in his St. Paul speech had no idea to embarrass the Administration, Mr. Roe said.

"Had he desired to embarrass the Administration or to raise a doubt concerning the wisdom of declaring war, he would have referred to the part played by Great Britain, as well as Germany, in drawing us into the war," he argued "The protests of our Secretary of State against the unlawful acts of Great Britain are a matter of record as much as are the protests against the unlawful acts of Germany."

In concluding his argument, Mr. Roe adverted to what he called the "long record of devoted service to the public interest" of Senator La Follette. He mentioned the Wisconsin Senator as having worked "in public as well as private life in behalf of democratic Government and just laws."

Press Reports of the Speech.

"It is true that all the newspapers of the country served by The Associated Press the day after the speech, entirely misquoted Senator La Follette, as proved by the record, and made him say the very opposite of what he really said concerning our grievances against Germany which led to the war," said Mr. Roe.

"It is true that this falsehood has been repeated and multiplied during all the months that have since elapsed and has been cunningly used to procure votes of condemnation from various individuals and bodies throughout the country. Through all this Senator La Follette has remained silent. He has felt that this proceeding was at least quasi judicial in character and that a decision should be arrived at uninfluenced by anything except the facts and the law, as presented to this committee.

"Even if Senator La Follette had said the things he is charged with saying, he would have been entirely within his rights, but when what he actually said is considered, it is seen how wholly unsupported is the charge of 'disloyalty.' It is only by distorting the impromptu retorts of Senator La Follette to the interruptions from the audience into a complete discussion of the intricate causes of the war that anything can be found in the speech to which the most zealous partisans of the Administration can object. But, under any construction possible to put upon it, it does not even approach an improper discussion of the war."

Senator La Follette did not attend the hearing, owing to the illness of his son. The committee will hear Mr. Roe further tomorrow.

WASHINGTON, May 21, (Associated Press.)—The record of the Senate Committee shows that the La Follette case has been under consideration eight months and that The Associated Press account of the St. Paul speech, so far as the record shows, has never been challenged before.

New Steamship Loads for Chile.

A new passenger and freight steamship arrived yesterday at an Atlantic port from Cramp's Shipyard, Philadelphia, to load for South American ports. She is 4,292 gross tonnage, 370 feet long, 51 feet beam, and has accommodation for 100 passengers. On her maiden voyage the vessel will carry a general cargo to Valparaiso, Chile, and then load with nitrate at Antofogasta for an American port.

Montreal Solely a Freight Port.

MONTREAL, May 21.—The port of Montreal this season is to be devoted solely to freight traffic. All ocean passenger liners formerly using the St. Lawrence will be diverted to other ports.

No time for the timid or the sluggard

THESE are days when the readjustment of business offers remarkable rewards to the resourceful. Many concerns, many individuals, faced with overwhelming difficulties, have turned those very obstacles to profitable advantage.

One New York town, on a branch line, was threatened by extinction by freight congestion. It could not get supplies and deliver products. An enterprising man organized a truck fleet, carried supplies from a nearby railroad, delivered factory outputs via the Erie Canal, and turned disaster into prosperity.

There is opportunity everywhere for the alert man who is far-seeing enough to recognize it and has the nerve to grasp it. This is no time for the timid or the sluggard. If you see an opportunity, ask us to help you grasp it. The success of the Pierce-Arrow is knowing how.

PIERCE-ARROW

Motor Trucks

No other company is equipped with service facilities like the Pierce-Arrow to insure the success of our trucks.

SINCLAIR OILS

FOR INSTANCE:

Sinclair Refining Company bought 100 trucks, choosing the Pierce-Arrow. Sinclair depends on its trucks to maintain its service to its customers. So Sinclair had to have a truck that would not fail them in any circumstances.

Through subsidiary companies, they had had experience with cheap equipment. They found it depreciated too fast, was too often and too long out of commission.

They examined Pierce-Arrow records in actual service and chose on performance solely.

Then they required service facilities in principal cities of New York, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Pennsylvania, Illinois, Minnesota, South Dakota, Iowa, Nebraska, Missouri, Kansas, Oklahoma and Colorado. Pierce-Arrow afforded it.

Pierce-Arrow had had experience in the oil business and could supply complete equipment, including tank trucks, suitable for every purpose.

So they bought Pierce-Arrows which are serving them satisfactorily in all of those states.

Similar considerations influenced many nationally known companies to equip with Pierce-Arrows. Among those operating fleets in various cities are:

- Armour & Company
- The Texas Company
- Arbuckle Bros. Co.
- Standard Oil Company
- Carnegie Steel Co.
- Cudahy Packing Co.
- American Express Co.
- General Chemical Co.
- Linde Air Products Co.
- The Barrett Company
- Liggett & Myers
- Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

These concerns know what they are about. So do the local users who are operating Pierce-Arrow trucks. Ask us to tell you about them.

Who Discovered RICORO?

"An angel of a Red Cross nurse discovered Ricoro" said a boy of the 69th, invalided home.

"I was to have my first smoke and she brought me a smooth, beautifully made Panetela.

"Its mild fragrance went right to the spot. I never dreamed a smoke could be so good.

"'Did 'John D.' donate these?' I inquired. The nurse laughed. 'That's just part of our regular 'welcome home'— they're Ricoros at 7c apiece.'

"'No wonder everybody's glad to boost the Red Cross,' I said. 'You not only make a fellow comfortable but discover the one cigar to make him perfectly happy, too.'"

Sooner or later you'll discover—

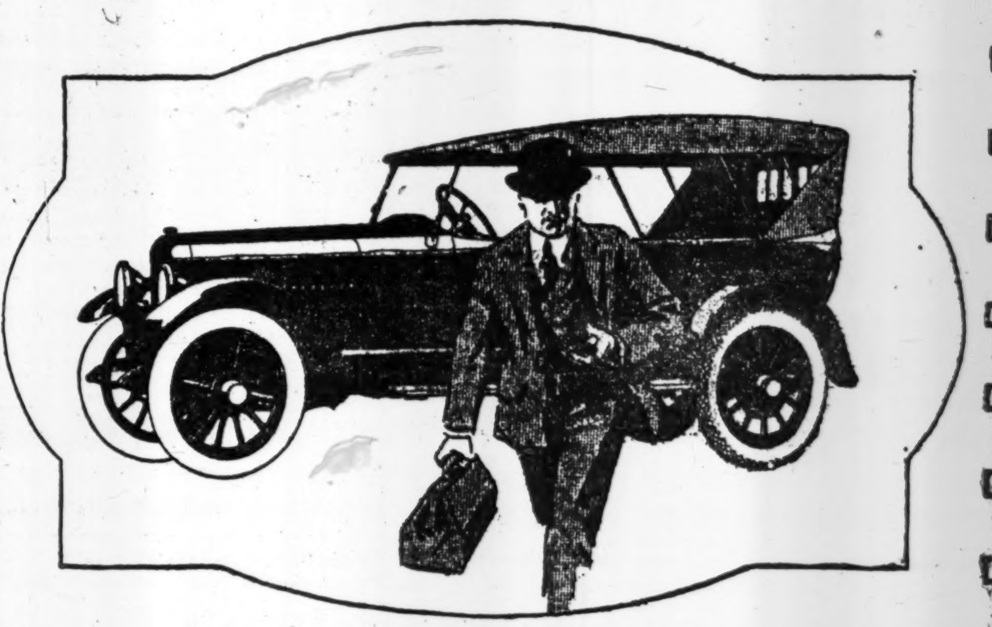
PAIGE

The Most Beautiful Car in America



Always On Time!

Men of action refuse to be dependent upon slow moving, congested trolley cars. They realize that their time is worth money. And, quite naturally, they find the solution of this time problem in a dependable motor car—the most efficient form of transportation that has ever been developed.

A little reflection should convince you that any man can do a better day's work with a Paige. In the entire field of automobiles there is no car with a more firmly established reputation for dependability. Because the Paige performs its work unfailingly, it has been adopted by those men who are best equipped to judge the efficiency of any mechanical product.

JESS BARNES SETS STAGE FOR A VICTORY BY THE GIANTS WITH AIRTIGHT PITCHING

GIANTS SHOW SIGNS OF WINNING STRIDE

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, May 21.—The Giants took a decided brace behind the airtight pitching of Jess Barnes today and won from the Cardinals, 2 to 0. Barnes was in fine form. He allowed seven hits, and the Cardinals had men on the bases in five of the nine innings. But the slim pitcher was most effective at these times.

Once, in the sixth inning, Hendricks's men had a chance to score, but, were thwarted by a fine throw to the plate by Benny Kauff. The Giants won by bunching four of the eight hits they made off the veteran Red Ames in the fifth inning.

Holke opened the fifth with a single to left, the hit being in reality a bunt that went over Baird's head, as the Cardinal's third-sacker dashed in, anticipating a bunt. McCarty flied to Cruise; and Rodriguez banged the ball to left centre.

Ordinarily the hit would have been good for only one base, but Cruise and Smith each waited for the other to field the drive, with the result that the ball rolled to the fence, Holke scoring and Rodriguez reaching third before it was retrieved. Barnes poked a single to left, and Rodriguez jogged over the plate.

The Cards had Barnes in a number of tight situations, but Jess managed to pull through by putting on a little extra steam every time he was threatened. In the second inning Cruise and Paulette singled with none out, but Barnes tossed out Wallace, Cruise being held at third. Snyder hit to Holke, and Cruise was thrown out at the plate, while Gonzales was an easy victim on a grounder to Fletcher.

The best opportunity they had to score was in the sixth. Smith and Baird beat out infield hits. Cruise essayed a sacrifice, but McCarty fielded his bunt and pegged it to Zimmerman in time to force Smith at third. Paulette flied to Burns and Wallace singled to centre, and Baird attempted to score on the hit, but was cut down a yard from the plate on Kauff's splendid throw to McCarty.

Bert Niehoff, who sustained a painful bruise on the index finger of his right hand in yesterday's game, was forced to lay off today, and Rodriguez again filled in at second base for the Giants.

REDS HAVE A BUSY INNING.

Bunch All Their Runs in Second and Down Boston, 7 to 4.

CINCINNATI, May 21.—Every man on the Cincinnati team got a hit off Nehf today, and six of them were bunched in the second inning, when the locals put over seven runs, assisted by a costly error by Rawlings. The score was 7 to 4.

Bressler was hit freely, but kept Boston's drives fairly well scattered. Sherwood Magee, after being called out at the plate by Umpire Moran in the fifth inning, engaged in an argument with that official, and was ejected from the field.

YALE TEAM TO PLAY HERE.

Tennis Men Will Compete Against West Side Club Saturday.

Yale's tennis team, headed by Charles S. Garland of Pittsburgh, the national junior champion, will play a team representing the West Side Tennis Club, at Forest Hills, L. I., Saturday afternoon, for the benefit of the Red Cross. Both singles and doubles are on the schedule. Play will begin at 1:30 o'clock, when Garland will play Frederick B. Alexander.

As a special feature, an exhibition match of women's doubles has been arranged, in which Mrs. De Forest Candee and Miss Eleanor Goss will play Mrs. Rawson Wood and Mrs. Spencer Fullerton Weaver.

DRIVERS TO PICK REFEREE.

Chief Official for Harkness Cup Race Will Be Chosen Today.

The referee for the Harkness Handicap, the feature of the gala automobile racing meet, which will be held at the Sheepshead Bay Speedway on Decoration Day, will be selected at a meeting of the drivers today. Among those mentioned for the honor are Jefferson De Mont Thompson, the veteran official, and William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., who has held this post at numerous Vanderbilt Cup races.

Among the speed pilots who will vote upon the important question will be Barney Oldfield, Ralph De Palma, Dario Resta, Louis Chevrolet, Ralph Mulford, Ira Vail, and fully a dozen more who are already entered for the $30,000 race, which will be at 100 miles, and for the Futurity Handicap. Borough President Edward Reigelman of Brooklyn has been named as honorary referee.

College Tennis Title for Bates.

WATERVILLE, Me., May 21.—In the final matches of the Maine intercollegiate tennis tournament today Bates made a clean sweep of both singles and doubles. Purinton of Bates defeated Stearns of Bowdoin, 6—2, 6—2, 6—0 in the singles, while in the doubles Purinton and Powers defeated Chin and Stearns of Bowdoin, 6—3, 6—3, 6—1.

TO AID BAT AND BALL FUND.

Yankees Will Donate One-Quarter of Today's Gate Receipts.

The Yankees and White Sox had an off day yesterday on account of the wet weather. The clubs will observe Clark Griffith Bat and Ball Day at the Polo Grounds this afternoon when 25 per cent. of the gate receipts will be given toward a fund for buying baseball equipment for the soldiers in France.

President Jacob Ruppert of the New York Club has invited large detachments of soldiers from the neighboring camps, and it is expected that there will be 5,000 soldiers at the game today. Before the game the officers of the various commands will be presented with baseball paraphernalia for their men. The soldiers will come from Governors Island, Camp Merritt, Fort Hamilton, Fort Slocum, Camp Mills, and Camp Upton.

The fund, which was started by Clark Griffith, manager of the Washington Club, has been a great success, and by his efforts the troops have been able to enjoy the American game in France. Both the American and National Leagues have set aside days when 25 per cent. of the receipts will be given to the fund. The Eastern section of the American League will celebrate the occasion today.

INDIANS HALT RED SOX.

Break Tie in Eighth and Win by a Score of 6 to 5.

BOSTON, May 21.—Boston's winning streak was stopped today, when Cleveland defeated the Red Sox, 6 to 5. The winning run was scored in the eighth on Miller's triple to left and Chapman's sacrifice fly to Strunk in deep centre.

Enzmann held Boston to one hit until the fifth, when four hits and two bases on balls yielded five runs.

Coumbe pitched the last four innings and shut out Boston. Leonard was hard hit and in difficulties throughout the contest.

Betzel Goes to Indianapolis.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., May 21.—Bruno Betzel, utility player with the St. Louis Nationals, has been released to the Indianapolis club of the American Association, it was announced today. He goes to the minors in part payment for Steve Yerkes, second baseman, who has signed a contract, although he has not played this season. Yerkes is expected to report June 1.

Tufts Nine Loses Captain O'Marra.

MEDFORD, Mass., May 21.—Fritz O'Marra, Captain, acting coach, and star pitcher of the Tufts College baseball team, left here today for Philadelphia where he will train for a commission in an engineering unit. Horace Ford, shortstop, will lead the team in the remainder of the games.

Evans to Lead Crimson Nine.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., May 21.—Lee Evans, left fielder of the Harvard baseball team, has been selected Captain for the remainder of the season, and will lead the Crimson Saturday in the game with Princeton at Princeton. He succeeds "Bobby" Gross, who left college last week to attend the Reserve Officers' Training Camp at Camp Devens.

CIPHERS ALL CUBS GET FROM COOMBS

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Jack Coombs gave another one of his remarkable demonstrations of a "come-back" athlete today at the Cubs Park when he hooked up in a gallant pitching duel with Jim Vaughn and won his fight.

Brooklyn took the game, 1 to 0, and a lot of the credit must go to the veteran Mr. Coombs, whose right arm seems as strong as ever and whose wits and skill were even keener than in the good days of his former career.

He had little trouble with the Mitchell athletes today and was in the toughest kind of a fight, a fight to make one run win a game. It was a battle that called for cunning as much as arm power, and Jack had both. He wasn't in many tight places, but when he was in danger he was master.

Vaughn was the equal of the Brooklyn star as far as actual pitching counted. But he allowed the Robins to scrape one run over the plate in the sixth inning and that one beat him.

There were six hits on each side, the Cubs making two doubles, while Brooklyn made one. Coombs, however, permitted two batsmen to walk, while Vaughn was perfect in control. Coombs fanned only three men and Vaughn fanned five, but Coombs allowed no one to score and one counted against Vaughn.

Eleven Contests for Red Cross Carnival on Friday Already Arranged.

Raymond Hitchcock, Will Rogers, and about twelve actresses, with Charles J. Harvey and Joe Humphries, directors of the boxing bouts which will be held Friday night in Madison Square Garden as part of the Red Cross drive, will invade Wall Street during the luncheon hour today for the purpose of selling tickets for the coming show. Messrs. Hitchcock, Harvey, and Humphries will dispose of the tickets from noon until 2 o'clock.

According to present plans the doors of Madison Square Garden will be thrown open Friday night at 6 o'clock. This early opening has been decided upon in anticipation of a record crowd. The prices of the tickets run from $2 to $10, and it is expected that at least $50,000 will be taken in for the Red Cross. Starting at 7 o'clock, there will be a concert by the band of the land battleship U. S. S. Recruit, consisting of sixty pieces, and in addition there will be singing by well-known actors and actresses.

Eleven contests have been arranged to date, as follows:

FORDHAM ENTERS MEET.

Murray, Fitzpatrick, and Takasch Will Compete in Intercollegiates.

The Fordham University track management has decided to enter a limited team in the intercollegiate championships at Philadelphia. Bernie Wefers, coach of the Fordham squad, has selected the athletes who will carry the Maroon silks at Franklin Field on Friday and Saturday. Jack Murray, the track Captain, will enter the hurdles, and Sylvester Fitzpatrick and Joe Takasch will toe the mark in the 220-yard dash.

Unless a dual meet is arranged with some local college, the Bronx collegians will wind up their collegiate competition on Saturday. The metropolitan collegiates have fallen through, and the dual meet with City College did not take place, so Bernie Wefers has been unable to test his material against any one college.

PLAY CHESS FOR RED CROSS

Frank Marshall, Blindfolded, Beats Two Opponents at Forest Hills Inn.

Combining chess and checkers and a blindfold game of chess against consulting opponents in an exhibition arranged for the benefit of the Red Cross and for the purpose of starting a local organization devoted to these games, at The Inn, Forest Hills, L. I., yesterday, Frank J. Marshall, United States chess champion, made a clean sweep on twenty-one board, defeating nineteen at chess and two at checkers.

In addition, he also won a hard-fought blindfold game in which he, without sight of boards or pieces, was pitted against two players in consultation. This evening, at Marshall's Chess Divan, 118 West Forty-ninth Street, the American champion will meet all comers in a simultaneous performance.

The Manhattan Chess Club has arranged for a simultaneous exhibition to be given by D. Janowski of Paris against a team of its members and representatives of the other clubs and the colleges, on Wednesday evening of next week at the Hotel Sherman Square.

DRAFT BOARD OVERRULED.

Joe Jackson of White Sox Claimed by Emergency Fleet Corporation.

GREENVILLE, S. C., May 21.—Joe Jackson, former star outfielder of the Chicago Americans, has been certified to the local draft exemption board, which had ordered him to report for military duty, as being in the employ of the Emergency Fleet Corporation.

This certificate stays the order of the local board calling Jackson and places him in the classification of necessary employes. As he is employed in shipbuilding on the Delaware he probably will not be subject to the draft.

BAN ON WOMEN SWIMMERS.

Tour of Australian Stars Is Apparently Abandoned.

That Miss Fanny Durack, Australia's champion amateur woman swimmer and holder of Olympic championship laurels, has probably not letf Australia for this country, was the opinion expressed yesterday by a prominent local official of the A. A. U. This deduction was arrived at from the cablegrams which have passed between the Amateur Athletic Union of this country and the New South Wales Ladies' Amateur Swimming Association, with which organization Miss Durack is registered.

Mrs. Hugh D. McIntosh, President of the Australian association, in her cables requesting an official A. A. U. ban on the proposed swimming tour of Miss Durack and Miss Minna Wylie, has failed to mention whether the swimmers have left Australia for this country. It had been supposed that the women champions were on their way to San Francisco, but yesterday it was learned that the women did not leave Australia on their scheduled sailing date because of the adverse official attention the proposed tour had attracted through alleged defiance of the rules of the N. S. W. L. A. S. A. by Miss Durack and Miss Wylie.

Miss Wylie, the reports had it, was to have accompanied Miss Durack on the voyage for the ostensible purpose of competing with the Austrailain woman champion. Miss Wylie is a prominent swimmer and holds several records.

If the deduction that the women are not on their way to this country proves to be a fact it will forestall a particularly confusing and embarrassing situation for the A. A. U. officials. Following the receipt of assurances from Secretary-Treasurer Frederick W. Rubien of the A. A. U. that the swimmers would be prohibited from competing as amateurs in this country unless their amateur standing in Australia was beyond reproach, a cablegram of thanks was received yesterday from Mrs. McIntosh in which she stated that the Australian association considered it impossible, in the best interests of amateurism, to sanction the appearance of the swimmers, and added that full details were being forwarded by mail. Until this letter arrives no positive reason for the unexpected cancellation of the proposed tour can be had.

OFFICERS IN MILITARY RACE.

Major Stevenson Is Rounding Up Riders for United Hunts Meet.

Commander J. K. L. Ross, owner of the great four-year-old Cudgel, has announced that he will be represented in the international military race at the United Hunts meet next Saturday, and that his nomination will be ridden by Lieutenant Mallet of the French Army. Major Charles L. Stevenson of the regular army, who is stationed at Camp Devens, has been rounding up riders for the event, which is open to all nationalities.

Among those selected and who will be seen in the saddle are Lieut. Col. A. K. Lyman, Eingineers, regular army; First Lieutenant Elliot Holt, 303d F. A. Reserve Corps; Second Lieutenant Robert J. Shanley, Jr., Reserve Corps; Lieutenant D. Kimball, 303d F. A. Reserve Corps; Lieutenant Frank Lee, Cavalry, national army; First Lieutenant Frank E. Browning, Medical Reserve Corps, and Captain Lawrence Ewing, 302d Infantry, N. A.

This event, with the others scheduled, which include the valuable Great United Hunts and the Double Event, is calculated to furnish a day's sport unequaled in American hunt club racing. Outside of the military event 134 entries have been received for the other half dozen races.

SPEEDY MOTOR COP BEATS TURF STARS

Sun Briar Unplaced and Jack Hare, Jr., Third in Stuyvesant Handicap at Jamaica.

Sun Briar, the champion two-year-old of last season, slipped a little further back in the struggle for three-year-old honors when he ran unplaced yesterday in the Stuyvesant Handicap at Jamaica, which was won in impressive manner by A. K. Macomber's Motor Cop.

The defeat by Motor Cop counted for little, as this son of Uncle was in receipt of fifteen pounds from Sun Briar, but the race itself was looked upon with interest because it provided the first meeting this season between the champion of a year ago, and Colonel W. E. Applegate's Jack Hare, Jr., which became a formidable contender for the laurels of the division when he won the Preakness Stakes at Pimlico recently.

The Stuyvesant was by far the most important contest run on a local track this season, and even the cloudy sky did not prevent a larger crowd than usual trooping to the Jamaica course. There had been a heavy shower in the morning, which rendered the track good instead of fast and thus added to the value of the performance of the three-year-olds from a time standpoint. The rain held off until the last race, which was run in a downpour.

Though Henry McDaniel, trainer of Sun Briar, was confident that his charge would redeem himself for the poor race he ran in Kentucky, the public stood firmly by Jack Hare, Jr., and he was always favorite at 8 to 5, while 5 to 2 could be obtained against Sun Briar. The Macomber entry, which included Paddy as well as Motor Cop, was conceded to have a chance to beat the top weights and the stable was held at 5 to 1, while from 12 to 25 to 1 was quoted against the rest of the field of twelve.

At the start of the dash of six furlongs Sun Briar had the rail with his great rival Jack Hare, Jr., next. They were advantageously placed, provided they got a good break and in this Jack Hare, Jr., was favored, for he was on his toes and away with the leaders, while Sun Briar was pinched off. Half a dozen others got just as good a send-off as Jack Hare, Jr., and Peak had to keep the Western crack hustling in the first eighth to avoid being shut in. As it was James Butler's Empress, the lightest weighted filly in the race, outran Jack Hare, Jr., and held the lead for the first quarter of a mile, when Motor Cop came with a world of speed and took command.

Flags, which had suffered interference at the start, recovered quickly, and before the end of the back stretch both he and Matinee Idol had crowded by Jack Hare, Jr., and made the latter's pathway more difficult. Sun Briar was back in fifth place and never was able to seriously threaten the leaders, but Jack Hare, Jr., was fighting hard all around the turn to cut down the lead of three lengths held by Motor Cop, with Flags also to be disposed of. Going through the stretch Jack Hare managed to creep up a little, but his 129 pounds prevented any startling dash, and Loftus had perfect control of the situation so that he crossed the line with Motor Cop a handy winner by a length and a half. Flags just managed to stave off the rush of Jack Hare, Jr., and took the place by a head. There was a gap of five lengths before the others began to trail in with Sun Briar pulling up in sixth place.

The summaries:

GOLFERS DEFY HARD RAIN.

Wood and Barber Lead Whitehall Club at Cherry Valley.

Golfers of the Whitehall Club defied the elements yesterday to play over the links of the Cherry Valley Golf Club, at Garden City, L. I., in the first of a series of four one-day tournaments which will be held by the club this season.

Oakley Wood, teamed with E. J. Barber, won the prize in the best-ball play, the combination return a card of 82, 12¾—69¼. A tie resulted for second prize in this event between C. F. Taylor and D. G. Scott, with 91, 15—76, and C. H. Phelps and L. M. Cowdry, with 94, 18—76.

In the handicap play the Class A prize went to D. G. Scott, whose card for the course showed 92, 16—76. Two strokes behind him in net came E. J. Barber, with 92, 14—78. Class B laurels were accounted for by Oakley Wood, with a card of 89, 20—69, while C. H. Phelps was second, with 98, 24—74.

Twenty-five golfers played over the course, among them Oswald Kirkby, who played at plus 4 strokes. He had an actual net score of 77.

Long-Driving Golfers Matched.

Four of the longest drivers in the golf game are scheduled to play in a four-ball best ball match at the Apawamis Club tomorrow. They are Jim Barnes of Broadmoor, Walter Hagen of Rochester, Tom Kerrigan, first-class seaman at the Pelham Bay Naval Training Station, and Gil Nicholls, formerly of Great Neck. According to the plans Barnes and Hagen will be paired against Kerrigan and Nicholls.

Golf Stars in Red Cross Match.

An exhibition golf match for the benefit of the Red Cross will be played over the course of the Greenwich Country Club on Sunday. Jim Barnes, Walter Hughes, Max Marston, and Jerome Travers will be the contestants.

STARS IN GOLF FOURSOME.

Miss Rosenthal and Evans May Play Mrs. Gavin and Travers.

CHICAGO, May 21.—Miss Elaine Rosenthal, formerly woman Western champion, and Chick Evans, national amateur and open golf champion, today communicated with Jerome Travers, former national champion, and Mrs. W. A. Gavin, an English player, with a view to arranging a series of Red Cross golf contests in both Eastern and mid-West cities. It is expected the matches will be arranged for mid-Summer.

Mrs. Gavin, who came to America three years ago, sprang into prominence at once by finishing runner up in the women's national championship when it was played over the Onwentsia course to Mrs. Clarence Vanderbeck of Philadelphia.

All four golfers are now engaged in a series of Red Cross exhibitions, and the proposed series would differ from these only in that there would be a series of contests between the same pairs.

Boxing Benefit Draws $12,000.

LOS ANGELES, May 21.—The Soldiers' and Sailors' Camp Athletic Fund was increased by $12,000 last night by receipts and voluntary contributions at a boxing benefit, at which Benny Leonard, lightweight champion and athletic instructor at Camp Upton, was the principal attraction. Leonard won the decision over Louis Rees of this city in a four-round bout.

Rodenbach to Teach Soldiers.

Billy Rodenbach, former amateur heavyweight boxing champion, has been appointed boxing instructor at Camp Sevier, Greenville, S. C., according to a report which reached this city yesterday. Originally Rodenbach was assigned to Camp Jackson, Columbia, S. C., but he has been transferred.

You're squarely upagainst it, Mr. Tailor's Man!

There's your neighbor "X. Travagance." You always supposed that he paid magnificent sums to some high priced tailor. Yet, if you only knew it, he's been trading here for goodness knows how long.

Why not?

SPURN APPROBATION OF BERLIN CLERGY

CRIES 'SEDITION!' 'INSULT!'

Unstinted Support Pledged to Our Government in the Prosecution of the War.

BOSTON, May 21.—Cries of "German propaganda," "sedition," and "insult to the flag" marked the annual meeting of the American Unitarian Association today when a resolution was offered calling for recognition of the "spirit of Christian brotherhood" in a declaration adopted by clergymen in Berlin. Following denouncements of the resolution and its sponsor by several speakers, the meeting by an overwhelming vote rejected the proposal and denied it mention in the records.

The resolution, which was introduced by the Rev. Henry W. Pinkham of Melrose, follows:

"That in the declaration of certain Christian ministers and others that has been reported to us from Germany we joyfully recognize the spirit of Christian brotherhood, the spirit that rises above the barriers of nationality and holds in bonds of mutual love all true followers of Jesus Christ, in whom there is neither Jew or Gentile, neither American nor German. In the present dark and sad times of war we welcome such expressions and heartily reciprocate them to our Christian brethren in Germany, seeing in them foregleams of the day for which we long, when the nations shall not make war any more, but shall dwell together in musual goodwill."

The Rev. William S. Jones of Newport, R. I., promptly challenged the resolution.

"I should like to ask the mover of this resolution," he said, "if this body of ministers to whom he refers has gone on record in regard to the war. Has it pronounced the sinking of the Lusitania a massacre? Has it appealed to the German people to repent their wickedness in sackcloth and ashes in the sight of both God and man?

"Until those ministers do make that appeal this is no time to bring here such an ideal and futile resolution. When this war is a matter of life and death for all Christian civilization, how idle to talk about Christian Germany! No doubt there are good Christian people in Germany, but their voices seem to be smothered by Prussian militarism."

The Rev. John W. Day of St. Louis said that he held it to be unworthy of the association to consider a resolution "so ineffably empty."

C. E. Carr of Andover, N. H., a lay member, joined the protest.

"Any man," he said, "who would offer a resolution of that kind may think he has a vision. He is only a night lamp and he ought to disinfect his mind and soul."

The meeting adopted a resolution pledging the association's unstinted support to the Government in "its endeavor to secure a complete victory for the cause of democracy."

Another resolution urged the Senate to pass the Federal sufrage amendment to the end "that the Government be more fully democratic."

DEFEATING THE U-BOAT, SAYS F. D. ROOSEVELT

Assistant Secretary of Navy Declares "Going After Them" Is Proving Effective.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Offensive operations against German submarines are producing good results, said Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy today, and he added that, while it would be too much to say that the submarine situation is under control or that the U-boats are not still to be regarded as a menace, the outlook is hopeful.

Mr. Roosevelt reiterated the opinion held by the department that what has already been accomplished should serve merely to increase the vigor of the campaign and the effort to turn out rapidly additional destroyers and other craft for anti-submarine work.

"Going after them and not waiting for them to come after us is the answer," he said.

Naval opinion here now is that the season of the year makes little difference in the effectiveness of the submarines. Advantages and disadvantages of Winter and Summer offset each other. It is pointed out that, while rough water in Winter impedes the U-boats, the long Winter nights give them opportunity to come to the surface for recharging their batteries and resting the crews, and also to make long trips on the surface at night, increasing their effective area.

Danger from submarines has decreased to such an extent that the Bureau of War Risk Insurance has recommended a reduction from $2.50 to $1.50 per $1,000 as the insurance rate on lives of officers and crews of merchant vessels passing through the war zone. This is in line with the recent lowering of marine insurance rates on vessels and cargoes from 3 to 2 per cent.

FUNSTON TROOPS TO START.

Wood's Division Rushes Preparations for Going Abroad.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMP FUNSTON, Kan., May 21, (Passed by the Censor.)—The Funston boys are going "over there." Where they go from here, and when and how they leave, are points of information that cannot be made public. The men themselves know little about that and care less. Sufficient for them, there is action afoot at last, lots of action, with trains and loading and packing, night and day work, and speed such as has never been seen here before.

Surmises among the men as to what the big step they are about to take means cover a range that includes everything. Headquarters alone knows what is taking place, and headquarters is not telling. There's no lack of enthusiasm, however, as a result of lack of information, for good privates do not question orders from higher up.

Camp Funston has done its share if not a single man should be trained here again. The total number sent from here since the camp was established last September would be astonishing if it might be told. More than enough men to make several complete divisions have learned the rudiments of soldiering here and gone away to join other units for overseas. But the 89th, under General Wood, is the only complete division of national army men turned out as a unit complete in every way to take its place in the trenches of France.

Southern Presbyterians Reject Union

DURANT, Okla., May 21.—Organic union with the Northern Presbyterian Church was rejected by a large majority today by the General Assembly of the Southern Presbyterian Church, in session here, after two days' debate. The southern branch, however, went on record as still being willing to consider a Federal union of all Presbyterian and Reformed churches of the United States. The vote rejecting organic union was 153 to 72.

Announced on the floor by the Chairman of Teams Committees	338,000
Grand total	$4,251,110

The house-to-house division reported collections of $63,635.24. Brooklyn reported a total of $280,339.51; Queens one of $100,101.50; the Bronx $20,679 for Monday, and Richmond $35,000 for Monday. No returns for the two last named boroughs were received yesterday.

Atlantic Division Reports $4,797,607.

The Atlantic Divisions of the Red Cross, which includes New Jersey, Connecticut, and New York State, with the exception of New York City, reported a total last night of $4,797,607. Wallingford, Conn., the home of Raoul Lufberry, whose death on Sunday ended the career of the great American flier, carried the banner for small cities in the Atlantic Division yesterday, having raised $8,412 against a quota of $4,000.

New Haven raised $117,324, against a quota of $300,000; Hartford, $83,493, against a quota of $400,000; Nassau County $67,611, against $200,000; Westchester County, $65,326, against $175,000, and Schenectady, N. Y., $51,383, against $120,000.

Bernardsville led the State of New Jersey yesterday with contributions totaling $35,000, against a quota of $25,000. Newark had raised $262,824, against a quota of $750,000, and Montclair $115,375, against $250,000.

At the dinner at which contributions for New York City were announced John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Chairman of Committee 24, read a letter from Payne Whitney announcing a gift of $250,000 in memory of his uncle, Oliver H. Payne.

Colonel Theodore Roosevelt was received with great enthusiasm at Carnegie Hall yesterday afternoon, where he spoke at the Red Cross concert of Josef Hofmann. After complimenting Mr. Hofmann as a "great musician" and "master melodist," Colonel Roosevelt continued:

"I am here to speak in favor of the Red Cross, in order that we may back up the young men at the front. Admirable though the Red Cross and kindred organizations are, they are admirable because in the second line they back up the men in the first line. The one prime duty of America is to put her well-trained and well-equipped soldiers in the front line by the millions. We are going to win this war, not by saying what a fine nation we are and not by paying compliments to one another. We will do it by realizing how far we have failed in our duty in the past. There is only one set of men who are entitled to the unlimited regard of their fellow-men today, and that is the set wearing the uniform of the army and navy of the United States and fighting for us and for those who come after.

"We have been fooled by the pacifists, by the pacifists of both sexes, so far as you can predicate the sex of pacifists. The pacifists never kept a people out of war. Even a pacifist can be kicked into war. But the trouble with the pacifists is that they first invite the kicking and then prove themselves unable to do the fighting. The blood of the nation will be poured out in streams because of the foolish and short-sighted and timid refusal of the pacifists to permit us to harden our strength. It is the eleventh hour, but, thank heaven, it is not the twelfth hour. We can still back the men at the front, and the way to do it is by doing the thing that is next. The thing that is next this week is to help the Red Cross, which is helping the men at the front and their families behind."

In calling for liberal contributions Colonel Roosevelt said:

"We must deny ourselves that they shall not be denied anything that we can give. I ask you to give till you feel it. The most shameful creature that this war can produce, with the exception of the young man who dodges his duty to serve his country, will be the man whose fortune has increased during this war. No man in America shall have the right to the respect of his fellow-Americans if, at the end of this war, he does not come out a little poorer than he went in. Give to the quick for the Red Cross. I ask you to feel ashamed and humiliated, if you do not give until you feel the effects of your giving. No man has any right to feel pride unless he feels anxiety and the effects of self-denial. Our pride can only be the pride reflected from their souls. If it is not given to us to do heroic deeds, let us do the best we can for the gallant young souls who are giving to the death."

The Program for Today.

12:00 M.	—St. Paul's Chapel; Theodore E. Burton speaker.
12:30 P. M.	—Luncheon and reports of teams and Campaign Committees at Chamber of Commerce.
4:00 P. M.	—Meeting at Union League Club; Captain John A. Little, British Army, speaker.
8:00 P. M.	—Theatre du Vieux Colombier; Elizabeth Tyree and company in "Starting Something."

One of the features at the show at the Hippodrome on Thursday night will be the auctioning of a lump of silver which was formerly the cup given by Kaiser Wilhelm in 1905 to Wilson Marshall, when his yacht, the Atlantic, won the race run for the Kaiser from Sandy Hook to the Lizard Lighthouse in the English Channel.

German propagandists are said to be busy on the east side among Italian residents spreading a fallacious report to the effect that all Italian subscribers to the American Red Cross War Fund will be listed for conscription. The report was immediately communicated to the local committee of the Red Cross War Fund organization in the Woolworth Building who took steps to investigate the alleged activity of east side Germans and report to the Department of Justice.

Italian Premier Sends Message.

I learn with lively satisfaction of resolution in which Presidential Council has expressed its official appreciation of valuable work carried on by the American Red Cross. This action of the committee authoritatively interprets this nation's sentiment, and is a well-deserved recognition of the highly effective, intelligent help that, with true spirit of unity and brotherhood, has been rendered in Italy by this splendid institution.
ORLANDO.

The resolution referred to has been transmitted by Prince Colonna, the Mayor of Rome, and is as follows:

The Communal Council of Rome, in its meeting of April 29 last, has placed on the records with deepest satisfaction a report of the Committee of Civil Organization which, in order to interpret the feeling of the people, [illegible] of the splendid, meritorious work of the American Red Cross. The Communal Council, filled with admiration for the generous organization of the American Red Cross, gave voice to a desire that new ties of fraternal unity inspired by a noble purpose would join our nation indissolubly with the great American nation and thus confirm the welcome in Camp Itodlio, where, with an acclaim that came from the heart, you were received. Today, as on that day, I I am happy to be interpreter of the sentiments of the civic representatives and, in approving fully the action of the Committee of Civil Organization, I wish to express to you how much Rome appreciates the great mercy which the American Red Cross is doing for the common end and through which, on this side of the ocean and the other side of the ocean, arms, minds, and hearts are united with a radiant vision of certain victory. Accept assurance of my highest esteem.
Mayor of Rome, PROSPERO COLONNA.

Ambassador Page has transmitted by cable to the Secretary of State a high tribute to the work of the Red Cross by Colonel M. E. Ireland, Chief Surgeon of the Medical Corps in General Pershing's army.

The Newspaper Division began actively yesterday to collect subscriptions among 165 publications in English and other languages and will canvass 100,000 employes.

Architects Give to Red Cross.

The annual convention of the New York Society of Architects was held yesterday afternoon at the Engineering Societies Building, 29 West Thirty-ninth Street. On account of the war the usual dinner and theatre party were omitted, and a contribution was made from the society's treasury to the Red Cross. Among those who addressed the convention were Albert Kleinert, Superintendent of Buildings of the Borough of Brooklyn; Deputy State Industrial Commissioner John H. Vogt, Edward J. Loth of Troy, and Major John P. Everett. Officers elected included John Riely Gordon, re-elected President; Henry Holder, Jr., Treasurer, and Frederick Zobel, Secretary.

Voice of Our Men in France for Red Cross, Says Baker

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Secretary Baker tonight issued this message to the nation in behalf of the Red Cross War Fund campaign.

"Every battlefield in France speaks eloquent testimony of the merciful work of the Red Cross. If the voice of the American Expeditionary Force could be heard there would be no doubt concerning the responses of the United States to the second war fund campaign. The terrors of battles are decreased and the horrors it entails are minimized by this greatest of relief agencies. No support which the American people give to it will be misconceived or misdirected."

NATION REPORTS 25% OF FUND SUBSCRIBED

Red Cross Drive Meets with Success in All Sections of Country—3 States Exceed Quotas.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Returns from the American Red Cross campaign for a second $100,000,000 war mercy fund received at headquarters here tonight from the eleven divisions over the country show that the drive is meeting with success everywhere. While figures for all districts are far from complete, reports on hand show that more than one-fourth of the fund has been raised. The divisions reporting, their quotas and subscriptions, follow:

Divisions.	Quota.	Subscriptions.
Atlantic (including New York City)	$35,000,000	$13,077,924
New England	6,650,000	885,500
Potomac	3,300,000	728,221
Pennsylvania	12,000,000	1,256,577
Lake	13,000,000	1,810,248
Central	13,000,000	4,250,000
Southern	2,950,000	734,191
Gulf	1,300,000	492,664
Southwestern	7,250,000	3,412,279
Mountain	1,350,000	719,547
Northwestern	1,770,000
Total subscriptions		$27,367,149

Very few tabulated returns came from the Southwestern Division today. The Northwestern Division reported that all cities would exceed their quotas and that favorable reports came from country districts.

Three States—Michigan, South Dakota and Delaware—and many cities have exceeded their quotas and still are driving forward for more funds. No district has yet reached its allotment, but reports from most of them show that they are maintaining the necessary daily average to carry them over the top at the end of the campaign Saturday.

One of the outstanding features of the drive thus far has been the unusually large number of contributions, showing that millions are giving their dollars to care for soldiers wounded fighting the Germans, and for the civilians who have been driven from their homes in the battle areas. In South Dakota, the second State to go over the top, 210,000 persons out of a population of 717,000 subscribed.

Claims from various sections to the honor of being the first to subscribe their allotments to the Red Cross fund were on file here today awaiting decision of the national headquarters in the matter of awards. Word was cabled from Honolulu that Hawaii had oversubscribed its quota of $250,000, while reports of having gone over the top had been received from Peabody, Mass.; Kossuth County, Iowa; Pontotoc County, Okla., and Yolo County, Cal.

The British Red Cross sent a cable message wishing the American Red Cross success in its war fund drive and stating that America's civilian relief "has brought fresh heart to those of our allies whose countries have suffered so severely from the devastation of war."

Buyers of wool clipped from the White House flock of sheep will receive autographed letters from President and Mrs. Wilson along with their purchases. The wool has been done up in two-pound packages and sent to Governors of the States to be auctioned off for the Red Cross. Officials of the Red Cross expect the sales to add many thousands of dollars to Red Cross funds.

The first town of more than 100,000 inhabitants to report being over the top was Dallas, Texas. With a quota of $225,000 the town has raised $401,000 and has set its mark at $525,000.

BOSTON, May 21.—The drive to obtain New England's quota of $7,000,000 for the American Red Cross fund has reached almost $2,000,000 tonight. Tabulations of incomplete returns from the five States for the first day and a half of the campaign received at headquarters here up to noon gave a total of $1,548,334, and Red Cross officials said they were confident that the full returns would show approximately $2,000,000. Connecticut is not included in the campaign district.

Acid "Sets Your Teeth on Edge"

That is Nature's warning of too much acid.

"Acid-Mouth" gives you no warning but a slight excess of acid in the mouth night and day works slowly but surely to cause decay of the teeth, according to many authorities.

This condition may be combated by the regular use of Pebeco Tooth Paste which combines all the properties of a tooth cleanser with the added benefit of neutralizing the excess acid in the mouth.

PEBECO TOOTH PASTE

is made for the purpose of maintaining "dental health." It produces a delightful sense of cleanliness in the mouth and retards decay. The first trial will convince you that your teeth are cleaner than ever before and that its continued use will preserve your teeth.

The price of Pebeco is 50 cents and is sold by druggists everywhere

SEES ALLIES DETERMINED.

Confidence of Victory Increased by Our Troops, Says Davison.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., May 21.—An assertion that there can be no peace so long as Germany is possessed of military power and a plea for liberal support of the Red Cross were included in the address of Henry P. Davison, chief speaker at the night session here of the National Conference of Social Workers. Mr. Davison, Chairman of the War Council of the American Red Cross, said:

"My observations in Italy, France, Belgium, and England have convinced me that all the forces of the Entente, military and civilian, have learned how to get peace, which they so much desire, and that they are all in accord as to how to get it and in their determination that it shall be had. Germany has made it clear to all in the countries of her enemies that there can be no peace so long as Germany is possessed of military power.

"You may be able to visualize our boys in a foreign land, but I really doubt if you can realize the sensation they create as they march along in true American fashion, filling every one with confidence in their courage and determination. Their attitude has been that of modesty and with the spirit of complete and full co-operation in a task the meaning of which they seem to understand."

THE GERMAN REVOLUTION.

It is reported that Chancellor VON HERTLING and Foreign Secretary VON KUEHLMANN have protested against the new alliance between Germany and Austria-Hungary and have "washed "their hands of the entire matter, as "they objected to the methods by "which the military part of the con-"vention was devised over their heads "by the German higher command." General VON LUDENDORFF is said to have insisted that their objections be disregarded and the alliance be "signed at once." The military sections of the alliance compel Austria "to place "all her forces at the disposal of Ger-"many."

This is merely one more document in the piling accumulation of evidence that the civil Government of Germany is passing away; that to it is succeeding an irresponsible military despotism. It is one of the reasons why Germany's word is worthless; for even if a German statesman honestly means to keep a pledge he signs, it can be nullified in a moment if some member of the military ring disapproves of it. Speaking of the military ring and the nominal Government of Germany, the civil Government, Deputy NOSKE said a few days ago before the Main Committee of the Reichstag:

> When an agreement on anything is reached between these two factors, it is only achieved by the Government giving way.

And he added this immeasurably ominous sentence:

> There is no getting away from the impression that Germany is again under absolute rule.

The short-lived constitutional rule of Germany is fading fast away; she is reverting as fast as possible to the despotism of the Middle Ages, a despotism which, unlike the despotisms of other countries, was prolonged almost into our own day. Her period of constitutional rule, a thing of the nineteenth century, may come to be regarded in history as a brief interlude in centuries of despotism, beginning in the Dark Ages, interrupted for a short time in the nineteenth century, and resumed in the twentieth in the midst of the great war.

Though the cases in which the military despots have taken political matters out of the hands of the nominal civil Government have been numerous, the most striking, because the most ruffianly, was that in which General VON EICHHORN overthrew the Ukraine Government, marching soldiers into the session of the Rada and arresting members of the Administration, at the very time when negotiations were going on between the Ukraine Ministry and the German Minister at Kiev. It caused such a shiver of fear in Germany itself that Vice Chancellor VON PAYER was obliged to make explanations, to pretend that VON EICHHORN's action was taken with the knowledge of the German Minister, to do everything he could to make it appear that the civil Government was still functioning.

There has been much talk of a German revolution. It has always been thought of as a democratic revolution, a revolution which would curb the power of autocracy and give the people a larger share in government. That may come; but in the meantime here is an actual German revolution, swiftly enacting itself before our eyes, not a democratic but a despotic revolution. Since most revolutions in recent times have been democratic ones, we are likely to forget that history is full of revolutions of the other kind. This is one, whether it ever leads to a democratic counter-revolution or not.

While, as has been said, the political action of the military ring in the Ukraine was the most shocking and sensational of all, the reported dictation of the Austro-German alliance by the soldiers is much more significant. That was a matter solely for statesmen, a matter with which soldiers could have no possible concern under any theory of government except one of military absolutism. Just as EICHHORN cut the Gordian knot with his soldiers in the Ukraine, so LUDENDORFF cut it in Berlin, hurling the statesmen out of his way and striking his mailed fist down on the table. The two Kaisers, meeting with such parade, were mere scenery to impress the popular imagination; what was to be signed was drawn up and dictated by LUDENDORFF. Austria, as an independent empire, has disappeared; Germany's short life as a constitutional monarchy is ending. These are revolutions indeed.

FILLING THE RED CROSS WAR CHEST.

The response to the appeal of the Red Cross has so far been worthy of New York, but New York can do better. There have been some noble contributions. Fortunes have been poured out for the cause, men and women have given twice and felt better for the second giving. No thought of self entered into the act. What they did was for humanity as well as for America. They could not distinguish.

Well may the sufferers in the stricken countries—their name is legion—thank GOD that America does not count her wealth when the people of a nation are to be saved and society held together by bonds of sympathy and helpfulness. Well may the soldiers of the Allies bless the emblem that comes to them on the ambulance speeding to the firing line, that, on the uniform of the nurse, means so much of gentle ministration and easing of pain. But as the Red Cross relieves and cares for thousands, so does it like to receive donations and the commission to cure and save from the many, from the hard-working and even the kindly poor as well as from those who can give in imposing round numbers.

Four days remain to fill the war chest, to make it run over. Everybody has not given, far from it. The Red Cross wants contributors by the hundreds of thousands as well as it wants millions of dollars. There are many people who are giving more of their possessions than they can afford, considering what their responsibilities are; there are some who could give more than they have done and not feel the pinch at all. And there are still others who have given absolutely nothing, whose understandings and hearts the Red Cross appeal has not touched in the least. Four days remain to know, to feel, and to give. To those who have given nothing and to those who have not given with sympathy and insight are commended these words of Vice President MARSHALL: "Nothing is comparable to the "work of the Red Cross. Nothing "can come into your lives that will "give you so much rest of mind and "peace of soul as to realize that you "have made some sacrifice for the "alleviation of suffering, as to have "made sacrifices for the winning upon "the part of America of this most just "and righteous war."

MISTREATMENT OF "BIG BUSINESS."

For seven years the Shoe Trust has been bitterly pursued upon what the Supreme Court calls the "innuendo" of the Government that it restrained interstate trade. By 4 to 3 the court decides that the Government was wrong in its aspersion as matter of law. As the court was so evenly divided, the defendant trust can hardly be blamed for a course which had never been condemned by authority and which was approved by business practice. The acquittal of the trust is condemnation of its prosecutors because they have so persistently refused to take their law from the courts. One Attorney General has even gone so far as to complain that he alone cannot enforce the law against restraint of trade. He formally expressed his regret that "a "number of Federal Judges have been "and still are apparently reluctant to "enforce the Sherman act." Now the highest court asserts that the Department of Justice prosecutes by insinuation on a mistaken view of the law.

If the case stood alone, it would be an undesirable state of affairs, but it is only one of many cases. Only a short time ago Government representatives sat around the same table with many distinguished defendants, at the suit of the Government on complaints which the Government could not proceed with. Public interest would not allow that seven suits against the biggest of the trusts should be pressed to a conclusion, although the trusts were eager for finality regarding their legal status. Such a condition of affairs indicates nothing less than a reign of terror which should be ended. Is it extreme to take the position that the Attorney General and the trusts alike should take their law from the courts?

Another sugggestion—the trust cases are mostly prosecuted and decided on the law rather than the facts. There have been not a few cases where trusts were attacked on the ground that they restrained trade under the law, although they promoted trade in fact. In the Shoe case there is no question that the manufacture of shoes was enlarged, whatever may have been the fact about the machinery trade. The interest of the public is that the law should be enforced, and restraint of the machinery trade is not to be condoned, if proved. But the public interest is rather in shoes than in shoe machinery, and the effect of the trust's plan is affirmed by the court to be helpful to the small shoemakers, who were able to operate with leased machinery which they could not buy. To prosecute big business which helps the little men in trade cannot be in the public interest. If there were complaint from the public that the making of shoes was obstructed, or made costly, or that other shoemakers were stopped in their trade by the trust, the Department of Justice might have an excuse for its persistence. But the public is not in court, except through the Attorney General. The court explicitly remarks that the victims of the lease system were not in court.

All unobserved, there has grown up a practice oppressive to business which has not been convicted of anything. Within a few days a plea of guilty has been accepted by the Attorney General in what might be called his personal court. He arraigned the trust before him, and the trust accepted his view of the law rather than contend in such an unequal contest. It is natural enough, and yet those trusts which resist such practice are more to be commended. The Department of Justice is empowered to prosecute the guilty, but it is an innovation that the Attorney General should arrange the terms on which business men may engage in interstate commerce without the assistance of the courts. If such trade licenses are to be issued, it should be by authority of law, by some official who has been given the authority which the Attorney General seems to usurp. Between the abdication of the Interstate Commerce Commission and the quasi-usurpation of the Department of Justice, the men of large affairs who wish to obey the law are put in an undeserved quandary. The railways and the trusts have deserved discipline and have been scourged until they have repented. Is it not also time that the Government should recognize that conditions have altered, and that the law has teeth enough of its own, without a false set condemned by the courts and common sense?

DIVIDING THE SWAG.

When the Kaiser KARL met the German Kaiser on "the blessed ground" of German Main Headquarters, two brother sovereigns, King LUDWIG of Bavaria and King FRIEDRICH AUGUST of Saxony, turned up at the conference, unexpected and uninvited. They knew there was going to be a division of the swag, and they couldn't trust WILHELM to "play fair" and be just to his pals. The Munich Neueste Nachrichten said frankly that "Bavaria cannot leave "Prussia to be the sole arbiter of Ger-"man destinies." Therefore had King LUDWIG gone to Headquarters. For the same reason the King of Saxony went thither, though his participation in the negotiations "was not desired in Berlin."

The dear Prussians are so beloved and trusted! 'Twas ever thus. The King of Saxony may have recalled how FREDERICK the Great calmly wrote in 1776 that the acquisition of Saxony was "indispensably necessary" to Prussia; how he invaded Saxony without notice in 1756, had the Dresden archives ransacked, and published the defensive treaties between Austria, Russia, and Saxony as evidence of the conspiracy of which he was the guileless victim.

Besides, east and southeast, thrones and fat territories are awaiting German dynasties. Old-established monarchies like Bavaria and Saxony must not be passed over in the rake-off. "If Prussia is enlarged," wrote Vorwärts, if ironically with entire appreciation of German land-hunger and throne-hunger, "something must also "be found somewhere for Bavaria, "while Saxony, Württemberg, and "other States will also want some-"thing, and there are only six thrones "to distribute among twenty-two dy-"nasties." Which is a shame. Why are dynasties so numerous and eligible thrones so few?

It is good to know, however, that at least one of the old-established Kings is to have a splendid spoil, or have it dangled before him. Today, according to a Berlin dispatch, the Foreign Affairs Committee of the Federal Council will > take up the Alsace-Lorraine and Lithuanian questions. A Saxon-Lithuanian union is now advocated by the Saxon Cabinet, and the King of Saxony has declared his willingness to approve it.

Was there ever a more self-sacrificing sovereign? His Ministers insist on forcing Lithuania on him. All right. Anything to oblige. The Lithuanians don't count. It is none of their business, and their remoteness from Saxony, the uncontiguity of the annexers and the annexed, especially recommends the union. One might suppose, from a glance at the map, that Lithuania would be acceptable to Prussia; but Prussia was ever altruistic. Why should she, why should any of the other States, grudge a little present to Saxony?

So one unwelcome caller on the two Emperors is in a way of being provided for, on paper at least. How about LUDWIG of Bavaria? Does the taking up of the Alsace-Lorraine question, as a question of internal politics and administration, augur that "something is to be done for" Bavaria? The incorporation of Alsace-Lorraine in Bavaria is no new suggestion; and it has often been said that if the two conquered provinces had been divided among the South German States, especially such once easy, democratic, and un-Prussianized States as Baden and Württemberg, the treatment and the feeling of the Alsace-Lorrainers would have been far different. Who knows? Meanwhile, it is enough to hope and believe that the King of Bavaria will get a satisfactory share of the proceeds of the great German robbery. It has yet to be seen if he and his royal and imperial pals can keep what they get, have got, or think they are getting. And what shall it profit the Saxons if they have to live on horse, dog, and menagerie camel meat while their august FRIEDRICH AUGUST tries to swallow Lithuania?

PRIVATES BILL AND NEEDHAM.

Mrs. HENRY JOHNSON—she knows him only as BILL—had faith in the prowess of her husband, if nobody else thought that he was of much account. "BILL ain't big, nor nothing like that," she said, on being informed that he had won the French War Cross on the American front, "but, boy," she went on to the reporter, "he can go some." That must be the conviction of survivors of the German raiding party that tried to wipe out Private HENRY JOHNSON and Private NEEDHAM ROBERTS of the old 15th Regiment of the New York National Guard—it seems but the other day that the proposal to organize the negro regiment was received with tepid enthusiasm.

The Germans were in force; the two colored privates on sentry duty did not appear formidable, or much of an obstacle. It is true that in the rush they were desperately wounded, but the supply of hand grenades happily held out—BILL, as his wife calls him, also brought a bolo knife into play, handier than a razor; and, shot, clubbed, cut, and grenaded, the Germans soon had enough of BILL and NEEDHAM, leaving some dead men and fragments of others on the ground. Twenty-four to two, and the two at last in possession of the field, with three wounds apiece and the glorious feeling of victory.

According to the divisional order of the day, BILL of Albany "gave a "magnificent exhibition of courage "and energy," and NEEDHAM of Little Old New York, "continued to throw "hand grenades, although fallen to "the ground, until the enemy was "forced to flee—a good and brave "soldier." The French Croix de Guerre for both, and for BILL, who slashed in such a timely way with his bolo knife, the "Gold Palm," a much-coveted distinction. It is said that the whole regiment is now clamoring for bolo knives, Private JOHNSON's particular personal weapon having proved so handy. The Germans will have to find as apt a name for the American negro fighters as they have given to the kilted Scots, whom they call "The Ladies from Hell." Something demoniac there certainly was about BILL and NEEDHAM.

It was an excellent thing, after all, to organize the 15th National Guard Regiment of New York. A merger has effaced the name, but the negro soldiers, whom General FOCH speaks of as "very strong and stout-hearted and very rash," fight well under any numerical designation. It is now the 369th Regiment. France regards them, no doubt, as the American Chasseurs d'Afrique. "I am very proud of them," says Colonel WILLIAM HAYWARD; "they are clean, brave men, fearing nothing." Which reminds us of the 24th Regulars in Cuba, a negro infantry regiment. They belonged to that "heroic brigade" of which the other commands were the historic 9th and the brilliant 13th, both white regiments. The brigade lost heavily in the storming of San Juan Ridge. But the bigger thing was to come after. Troops were wanted to police the yellow fever camp at Siboney. General SHAFTER ordered the 24th down from its tented field, where it was catching its breath and "resting up." Then there was this scene and incident: the regiment lined up by Major ALFRED MARKLEY, ranking officer, and a little speech to those tired and battle-stained negro soldiers—"General SHAFTER has select-"ed us to take charge of the fever "camp at Siboney. Those who want "to volunteer, one step to the front." And all that remained of the 24th fit for duty made one stride toward the Major.

If any regiment in Cuba, white or black, made a better record than the Twenty-fourth, for bravery, for humanity, for discipline and duty, will some one speak up? But it is an old story, the gallantry and stanchness of our negro soldiers when the country calls in the hour of her need. New York may well be proud of the 369th Infantry, which was the old 15th.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Why Victors Tell the News.

Civilian students of the war dispatches long ago noticed that the earliest, as well as the most detailed, news about any military operation at the front invariably, or next to invariably, came from the side that was successful. This has been the case whether the subject of report was an assault in which the immediate objective was attained or whether it was the repulse of an attack.

Presumably, all army men have always known the explanation of this phenomenon, and probably it was because they did not think a thing with no mysteries for themselves was worth discussion that they have left the rest of us who noticed it to assume, as we did, that the victors talked and the vanquished kept still simply because the former had something they were glad to tell and the latter didn't feel like saying anything at all for the time being. Both proceedings would be entirely "human," and therefore easily understandable, but General MAURICE, in a dispatch printed yesterday by THE TIMES, declared the civilian theory quite wrong, and he made it clear that the victors gave the news because they could give it, while the vanquished were silent because their ill-fortune seriously interfered with or destroyed their means of communication.

According to the General, therefore, the explanation lay, not in a characteristic shared by all men, but in the conditions that battle creates. Proceeding further along the same lines, General MAURICE wrote of the cases when one side announces the taking of a town or hill, and the other delays the making of any announcement until the occupation is complete and hope of regaining the lost position by an immediate counter-attack has been given up or indefinitely postponed. We also hear at once about the taking of prisoners and only much later about the loss of men by capture. Again the expert explanation is of like tenor—the captors can count their captives at once, while it is long before the opposing force can be sure that the missing soldiers will not make their way back to their own friends.

A Birthday Worth Celebrating.

Sixteen years are not long in the life of a nation, and if not a few nations have died before attaining that age, it is only because infant mortality tends to be high in all sorts of political organizations, just as it is in human beings and animals. But though sixteen years are not many from the historian's point of view, the Government that reaches its sixteenth birthday, as did the Cuban Republic this week, has a right to congratulate itself, and to be congratulated by others, on having safely passed through the most perilous period of its existence—can confront the future with the confidence of vigorous youth.

It can, that is, if its youth really is vigorous. Cuba's youth seems to be fairly so, and perhaps a little better than that. At any rate, her people have confuted a lot of prophets who claimed to know much about the Cubans' constitutional inability to rule themselves according to democratic formulas, to abide by decisions rendered by the ballot box, and to conduct themselves to the satisfaction of their neighbors. It is true that the Cuban Republic has not had to walk through the dangerous years entirely unsupported or entirely unguarded from the Black Things that roam the world, watching for chances to gobble up just such highly edible infants as herself. She has had, too, several rather serious intestinal disorders, as characteristic of national as of individual childhood. Her recoveries, however, have been prompt, and today she is about as safe—about as likely to live long and prosper—as are, in these terrible times, a good many nations larger and older than herself.

That the Cubans have yet developed a passionate, or even a warm, affection for the country that gave her liberty, and still protects her in it, is something less than a certainty, but at any rate they have scorned the German propagandist and his wiles—which is more than can be said for the haughty motherland that used to treat them so ill—and they are keeping vastly better company than she does. For Cuba is in the Great War on the right side, which is vastly better than maintaining a neutrality that ever verges toward the wrong side.

Everything considered, Cuba has much reason to be proud of her record as a republic—and the United States claims some credit for having made possible the display of Cuban virtues.

Collector's Mania Illustrated.

Nobody who in youth had an attack of philatelitis—and who did not?—can pretend not to understand why a large price has been paid for a sheet of our new aerial post stamps that by accident show in a reversed position the airplane which is the issue's distinguishing decoration. But even for a set of stamps as "hard" as that—to use the word of boy collectors—$20,000 does seem too much. And if the giver of that astonishing price had not been a man notable in the financial world for his sound and practical sense of values, the impulse of most of us would be to call him mad.

If it had been a single stamp bearing the tipped-over airplane, his expenditure would be of easier justification, at least under the laws of "business," for then its possessor might well sell it for more, or even get $20,000 worth of satisfaction out of the hopeless envy of other rich collectors. But this "specimen," except as an undivided sheet, is so far from being "unique" that in time every real stamp hunter of high degree will have a like "example." And there's no real glory in having a stamp when there are ninety-nine others like it in existence.

Some critics are sure to opine and remark that at this time there are several better uses for $20,000 than the purchase of a set of stamps which, except for a printer's error, would be worth in the open market just $24. Such critics will not be entirely silenced, either, by the familiar defense of luxury purchases of this kind—that they merely transfer money from one man's pocket to another man's pocket, and that it makes no ultimate difference who puts it to a noble use. There is a strong taint of fallacy in that argument, and reason as well as instinct promptly discovers it.

AN OUTCAST NATION.

Germany Must Suffer an Automatic Boycott.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

One sees in the New York newspapers constant reference to the question of the boycott of the German nation at the close of the present war. It has occurred to me that all nations of slaves have been outcasts until such time as they proved themselves free and worthy of the possession of freedom. Since no nation has ever been a race of slaves to the extent the German nation has revealed itself, and at a time when the influence of the democratic idea is well-nigh universal, it would seem that the boycott of Germany will be automatic.

She is no longer a sister but by her own choice an exile among the nations. We can accept no share in her material or intellectual achievements until she has cast off the habits and the mental outlook of a totally subservient people who have permitted themselves to be drawn into the worst crime in history at the command of their master, the German Kaiser.

A Constant Reader Cables Congratulations.

By Cable to the Editor of THE NEW YORK TIMES.

PARIS, May 21.—I have just received several copies of recent issues of THE NEW YORK TIMES, and after examining them I am moved to congratulate you by cable on your magnificent showing of war news. All the European papers are miles behind you, and people arriving from New York say the same is true of the American papers. C.

IRELAND MUST WAIT.

She Cannot Be Allowed to Weaken the Forces of Freedom.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As an American citizen of Irish birth and ancestry, I have always believed that the Irish people are of right a nation and that they are entitled to enjoy a fully self-determined national life. I have always believed that they themselves are the best judges of the conditions, political, social and economic, upon which such a national life should be founded. I hold these beliefs today as firmly as I have ever held them and, I venture to think, as firmly as any one else holds them.

But we are in a war upon the issue of which depends the liberty, not of one nation alone, but of the civilized world. For America and for the nations ranged with her in the fight against Germany there is now but one business in hand. That business is so to strike down the power that menaces the world's freedom that never again will it lift its arm with like intent.

The cause of the world against Germany is not divisible. There is no penumbra, no twilight zone wherein one may sit and subtly distinguish between America's cause and the cause of her allies in this war. Whoever thinks he can do this is deceiving himself.

I am for Ireland, but while this war lasts I am for England, as for America, against the common enemy and I am against anything—and any one—that directly or indirectly weakens the arm of any one of the nations fighting on our side. And, if it were possible—as it is not—that Ireland could at present achieve her freedom by imperiling the cause of any one of those nations, then, I say, Ireland's freedom should wait until the freedom of the world has been made secure.

How, otherwise, could her freedom be permanent?

I resent as an insult to my intelligence the suggestion that she has anything to hope for from a German triumph. but a barren—a worse than barren—revenge. And I believe that a majority of American citizens of Irish birth and ancestry in their hearts feel the same resentment.

GIVE THEM A LIFT.

A Service Motorists Can Render Soldiers and Sailors.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The daily spectacle of hundreds of automobiles—which the auto dealers are anxious to have us now call "passenger cars"—with empty seats capable of carrying from two to five persons, leads one to realize how beneficial may be the suggestion which the Mayor's Committee has recently made—that automobilists carry a card which constitutes a standing invitation to the soldiers and sailors in the city to "have a lift."

Only ignorance of the joy coming to the driver of a machine who is privileged to have some of these boys as guests can explain the presence of empty seats. It so happens that this Spring I have rarely been out in my car when it was not filled to capacity, but Saturday evening, having occasion to travel alone from Washington Heights to Dyckman Heights in Brooklyn, I picked up on the way downtown a sailor accompanied by a friend, and finding that he was on the way to Coney Island, took him practically all the way down by way of Fourth Avenue and the Shore Road in Brooklyn. The keenness of his enjoyment was more than a reward for the slight service rendered. Moreover, it served as an inspiration on the way home when opportunity presented to take on three more sailors and three soldiers, and as the soldiers proved to be entire strangers in New York who had arrived early in the evening and were due to be leaving early in the morning, a little extra trip through the parkways of the Bronx could not be resisted. The appreciation that those boys showed for the hospitality would have brought tears to the eyes of any motorist. Here were three boys who had only ten or fifteen hours to spend in New York and did not know how to spend their time or where to go. The joy they took in the ride over Riverside and the Grand Concourse, if it could only be brought home to every motorist in New York, would, I feel sure, cause a universal adoption of the "have a lift" habit.

Let every automobile owner who is traveling through the city with room to spare make it a point to invite the boys in the service to have a ride along their way. It is mighty little for us to do and it will do much to keep their spirits up in this big lonely city. J. K. C.

The Allies' Right Wing.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Italians here feel aggrieved by the fact that the Italian flag, as a rule, is not displayed with the French and English flags. Since it has been officially announced that General Foch has been placed in command of the allied armies from the Channel to the Adriatic, it is just that no partiality should be shown. This much we owe to ourselves. Let us leave Caporetto in the rear, whatever the causes, and let us give due credit to the wonderful achievements on the Isonzo, at Gorizia, at Monte Santo, and beyond. The soldiers of Italy need encouragement and moral support as much as the soldiers in France. FRANCESCO VENTRESCA.

THE RED CROSS MARCH.

With measured, rhythmic tread they come,
A red-starred, bannered throng,
To sound of fife and roll of drum
Fifth Avenue along—
A host by one great purpose blent,
Led by the nation's President!

In glory of the Maytime fair
And splendor of the sun,
While cheers of thousands fill the air,
These marchers walk as one.
The Red Cross banners o'er them wave,
Whose mission 'tis to heal and save!

Adown the Avenue,
A living Red Cross heads the march,
Emblem of Mercy true,
While o'er them all, along the line,
The Stars and Stripes in glory shine!

The grace, the beauty, and the bloom
Of girlhood here we see
'Neath banners that their march illume—
Daughters of Liberty!
And with them tread in graver mood
The heroines of womanhood!

And as we look we hear the tramp
Of thousands marching by,
Each seems the "Lady of the Lamp,"
Under Crimean sky,
Who won a glory ne'er to pale
For the name of Florence Nightingale!

These are our country's heroines,
Whose lives are consecrate,
Whose victories fair Mercy wins,
Who on the wounded wait—
And bring new hope 'neath Red Cross tent
Like mothers to the wounded sent!

FOOD EXPORTS INCREASE.

Board Gives Figures on Improved Conditions in Allied Countries.

The Federal Food Board made public yesterday a record of the amount of grain, beef, and pork products shipped to the Allies during the month of April. The Food Board report says that the total exports of beef and pork products from the United States for the month of April, 1918, were 359,058,000 pounds, composed of 285,755,000 pounds of pork products and 73,303,000 pounds of beef products. The previous month, (March, 1918,) the total exports were 395,255,000 pounds, composed of 308,010,000 pounds of pork and 87,245,000 pounds of beef.

"In April, 1917," the report says, "the net exports amounted to 161,000,000 pounds of beef and pork products. In April, 1914, the net exports amounted to 43,700,000 pounds.

"The total exports of meat products in April, 1918, were therefore about 220 per cent. of the same month last year and about 400 per cent. of April, 1914.

"Despite this great increase in exports, our hog population is increasing. These are the measures of the great voluptary efforts of the American people in reduced consumption and increased production.

"Shipments of grain and grain products to the Allies from the United States and Canada for April comprise 836,034 tons, compared with 855,000 tons for March. Of the April shipments, 539,752 tons, equal to 26,027,000 bushels of grain or products therefrom, came from the United States, of which 9,124,412 bushels were wheat or products in terms of wheat, compared to 12,910,659 bushels in March. Approximately 160,000 further tons of cereals were delivered to the ports during April for May shipment. The total exports of wheat and wheat products from July 1 to May 1, in terms of wheat, are 110,000,000 bushels, whereas, the actual exportable surplus from the last harvest, had consumption been normal, was variously estimated at from 10,000,000 to 30,000,000 bushels.

"The improved food situation among the Allies is indicated by the fact that the average number of people standing in 'queues' for ration in London alone decreased from a daily average of 383,232 during the week ended Feb. 23 to 2,835 daily during the week ended April 20, and is now therefore negligible."

Five macaroni dealers were before the Federal Food Board yesterday on charges of violating the rule which forbids the use of flour in the making of spaghetti and macaroni beyond the 70 per cent. allowance. One firm, G. Cutugna of 131 Thompson Street, was ordered to suspend business until the next harvest. Joseph Saculio of 1,427 Second Avenue was ordered to suspend from May 25 to June 1, and Antonio Caltabellotta of 430 West Thirty-ninth Street was ordered to suspend from May 25 to July 10. The other two firms were ordered to submit their books for further inquiry.

BANK MERGERS UNDER FIRE.

Steps to Prevent a Money Trust Recommended in England.

LONDON, May 21.—The Treasury Committee appointed to inquire into the large bank amalgamations, which have caused considerable discussion recently, recommends in a report made public today that legislation be enacted providing that the approval of the Government must be obtained for any future mergers of this character.

The committee also recommends that all proposals for interlocking directorates or for agreements altering the status of banks as regards their separate entities shall be submitted for approval by the Government, and that such approval shall be refused unless amalgamation gives certain advantages to the public.

The committee says that while at present there is nothing resembling a money trust, it is not impossible that circumstances might produce something approaching it at a comparatively early date. Possible dangers from further amalgamation are regarded as material enough to outweigh considerations against Governmental interference.

PAY ALLOTMENTS DELAYED.

Congressmen Receive Many Complaints from Soldiers' Families.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Representative Madden of Illinois, learning from many constituents that the allotment of pay to the dependents of soldiers is not being received regularly, intends to offer a resolution in the House tomorrow requesting the Secretary of the Treasury to inform the House as to alleged failures of the bureau handling this service.

Representative Madden said that he had instances of absolute neglect on the part of the bureau to answer the complaints of dependents who had not received their allotments.

One Congressman said that he had gone to the bureau to make an investigation and was informed by an employee that 6,000 checks placed in "window envelopes" had been returned because the checks had been inserted in such a way as to conceal the addresses.

NEW DRY VOTE IN HOUSE.

Amendment Aimed at Beer and Wine Tentatively Adopted.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Representative Randall of California won the first test in his fight for wartime prohibition in the House today. His amendment prohibiting the manufacture of beer and wine was adopted as a part of the Agricultural Appropriation bill. It directs that no part of the $6,100,000 appropriated therein for increasing food production and eliminating waste and promoting conservation of food shall be available for any purpose until the President shall have issued the proclamation authorized by the Food Control act of Aug. 10, 1917. This proclamation prohibited the use of foods, fruits, food materials, or feeds in the production of malt or vinous liquors for beverage purposes.

This amendment was adopted in Committee of the Whole. Opponents of prohibition say that it will be defeated in the House.

MAY CONFER ON PRISONERS.

United States Asks Germany for a Conference at Berne.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The United States Government, through the Spanish Embassy at Berlin, has suggested to the German Government that a conference be held at Berne to discuss the treatment of prisoners of war held by the two nations. No reply has been received to this proposal, the State Department said today.

The British, French, and Italian Governments have entered into similar conferences with German officials. These meetings have resulted in marked improvement in the treatment of prisoners of war.

It was said here today that no specific reason existed for asking the conference at this time.

GERMANY SEIZES LINEN.

Tablecloths and Napkins to be Used in Bandages for Wounded.

LONDON, May 10, (Associated Press.)—All washable tablecloths and napkins remaining unsold in shops throughout Germany have been commandeered by the Imperial Clothing Office, according to German papers, in order to replenish the army's impoverished supply of material for bandages, bedding and other hospital requirements, the need of which has become increasingly urgent as a result of heavy casualties.

Merchants are permitted to retain only such "linen" as is made of paper fibre or other linen substitutes.

DECLINE TO RELEASE MORE DUTCH SHIPS

Washington Authorities Insist That Holland Must Send for the Grain She Needs.

VESSELS ARE HELD BACK

Netherlands Government Directs That None Shall Sail—Swiss Meat Agreement Causes Surprise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—While supplies of breadstuffs are being accumulated at ports for transshipment to Holland and other neutral nations of Europe in accordance with the agreements entered into by this Government, the War Trade Board has decided not to release three additional ships of the requisitioned fleet, as requested by the Dutch Government, and will insist that Holland send some of the 400,000 tons of vessels now tied up in its ports to get the grain.

The vessels which Holland may send, however, will have free conduct, and will be permitted to return to home waters. The Government is anxious to see that every promise made shall be kept and that the full interests of the neutral nations shall be protected.

The Government has made one concession by permitting three vessels of the requisitioned fleet to sail for Holland with grain in order to meet the immediate needs. Two of them are carrying 8,000 tons of grain across the Atlantic and another, the Hollandia, is en route from Argentina to this country, where she will add 500 tons of grain to her present cargo of 5,500 tons. She will then be permitted to continue her journey.

The War Trade Board does not feel that it can release the additional shipping requested, as this would serve further to reduce the tonnage immediately available for the purposes of this nation. The grain will be ready if Holland decides to send the shipping after it. About 15,000 tons have been moved to embarkation ports, and at least as much more will be on hand by the time the vessels arrive here. The Government has promised Holland 100,000 tons, of which 50,000 tons will be obtained in the United States and 50,000 tons in South America.

Meeting Other Agreements.

Provision also has been made to meet the agreements made with Norway, Switzerland, and Sweden.

News of the proposed agreement between Switzerland and Germany, by which the former country is to supply the Central Powers with from 15,000 to 17,000 head of cattle monthly, in return for coal and other materials, was received here with interest, but no official statement could be obtained.

If the French Government protests, as intimated, however, it seems certain that this Government will back it up. There was nothing today to indicate that there might be serious complications.

There was a good deal of doubt expressed here that Switzerland would be able to supply the Central Powers with the number of cattle mentioned in the proposed agreement, as its herds have been depleted by slaughtering because of the lack of fodder.

The United States has not withdrawn from its policy of refusing to license the export of fodder to the neutral nations of Europe since it first was adopted in July, 1917, and as a result no fodder has been shipped.

Germans Need the Meat.

So far as Germany is concerned, the move to force Switzerland to give even this supply of cattle is seen here as a desperate effort to obtain sufficient meats and fats for its troops and, if possible, to increase the ration of the civilian population, which has now been cut down to about five ounces a week.

The Germans were able to maintain a meat ration up to this time which was sufficient to prevent unrest among the people only by reason of the fact that it was necessary to slaughter large numbers of cattle not only in the neutral nations but in Germany, as a result of the failure of the German fodder crop and the restrictions which have been kept in force by the United States. With this supply depleted and the neutral nations now in possession only of such herds as are needed for home consumption, the outlook for the Central Powers is not a bright one.

One official pointed out today that the 15,000 head of cattle which Germany asked of Switzerland was in fact but a small part of the meats which had been obtained from neutral sources by the Central Powers before the drastic action taken by the United States was made effective. It has been charged that great quantities of meats and fats in various forms had been shipped into Germany.

Pending further developments, however, no official here would comment for publication on the situation which has now been created, and it is not probable that this Government will take any steps to stop the consummation of such an agreement at present. None of the neutral nations will receive fodder, however, while there is the slighest danger that it might be used for the purpose of furthering the cause of the enemy.

THE HAGUE, May 21.—The Dutch Government has prohibited the sailing of all Dutch steamships from Dutch ports. Sailing vessels and coastal fishing craft are excepted from the ruling.

FARRELL DENIES OFFER.

Directorship of Ship Operations Not Tendered to Him, He Says.

James A. Farrell, President of the United States Steel Corporation, denied yesterday that the position of Director of Operations of the Shipping Board had been tendered to him, as reported from Washington.

"I have received no such offer," he said. "I believe there is no intention on the part of the Shipping Board to make it. The Directors of the Emergency Fleet Corporation know that, if the position were tendered to me, I would have to decline it for patriotic reasons, if for no other. My whole time and energy are devoted to the work of assisting to the best of my ability production and delivery of steel for the Emergency Fleet Corporation and for other Government needs. In my opinion, there is nothing at the present time more important to the military necessities of the Government than the production and delivery of steel."

Clubwomen Unite in War Work.

Delegates from many clubs met in the college room of the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon under the auspices of the New York City Federation of Women's Clubs and its Committee on the Reconstruction of Wounded Soldiers. The object of the meeting was to bring together the women of the different clubs interested in this branch of work for the soldiers that it might be done without duplication. Major Casey A. Wood and Captain Samuels spoke. These committees were appointed: Mrs. Axel Ihlseng, to receive needed comforts for the men, including jams, jellies, and games, at 73 West Twenty-third Street; Mrs. Theodore Weston, to look after the work on Ellis Island; Mrs. Alfred Eno, to supply flowers when needed, and Mrs. L. L. Hayman of 286 Fort Washington Avenue, to see that cigarettes are provided. [illegible] Evelyn M. Goldsmith presided.

EXTOLS BENNETT AS DEMOCRACY PROPHET

Rev. Dr. Samuel N. Watson, at Memorial Service, Praises Editor's Services in War.

HUNDREDS IN GRACE CHURCH

Present and Former Employes of The Herald, Publishers, and Representatives of Clubs Pay Tribute.

Hundreds of present and former newspaper men and representatives of many social organizations yesterday afternoon attended a memorial service in honor of James Gordon Bennett, late owner of The New York Herald, The Evening Telegram, and the European edition of The Herald, which was held in Grace Church. The services of the Protestant Episcopal Church were read by the Rev. Dr. Charles L. Slattery, rector of Grace Church, and the eulogy of Mr. Bennett was pronounced by his long-time friend, the Rev. Dr. Samuel N. Watson, Rector Emeritus of the American Episcopal Church of the Holy Trinity in Paris, who had baptized Mr. Bennett and officiated at his wedding.

The services were arranged by a committee of employes of every department of The Herald and Telegram, headed by Hamilton Peltz, and among the men who in spite of the heavy storm attended the ceremonies were many who had ceased their connection with The Herald many years ago and had returned to pay their last respects to their old chief. Special sections of the church had been reserved for Mr. Bennett's present and former employes, and at the opening of the service some 600 of those now employed in the editorial and mechanical departments of The Herald and Telegram filed in to the strains of Chopin's Funeral March and took their seats in the central part of the church.

Committee of Publishers.

Then came a long line of old Herald men, headed by Charles M. Lincoln and Joseph I. C. Clarke, and a committee of the New York Publishers' Association consisting of the following members:

Louis Wiley, THE TIMES; Don C. Seitz, The World; Ervin Wardman, The Sun; Bradford Merrill, The American; G. V. Rogers, The Tribune; Edward P. Call, Journal of Commerce; Victor Ridder, Staats-Zeitung; Joseph Cashman, Wall Street Journal; Victor Polachek, Evening Journal; Jason Rogers, The Globe; Dr. Edward A. Rumeley, The Evening Mail; Emil Scholz, The Evening Post; John Frost, The Brooklyn Citizen; Herbert F. Gunnison, The Brooklyn Daily Eagle; R. F. R. Huntsman, The Brooklyn Standard-Union, and Walter A. Dear, The Jersey City Journal.

Choir, 'cello, and harp gave a musical program and Dr. Slattery read the prayers. Then Dr. Watson, who had come from Virginia to pay his last tribute to his old friend, told of his long friendship with Mr. Bennett and of the latter's fervent intensity of character.

"The reason why he was such a tower of strength to France in her hour of need," said Dr. Watson, "was that he was wholehearted, and so are they. He knew them and was sympathetic with them."

Then Dr. Watson paid a tribute to the American colony which lived in Paris before the war, "people almost all past middle life, who had served their own country well and loyally at home and were doing wonderful work for mutual understanding between two great peoples; a strong, sane, conservative nucleus for Americans in Paris." He told of a dinner of six Americans, including himself, Mr. Bennett, and Ambassador Herrick, at Mr. Bennett's house on the Avenue d'Iena, just after the battle of the Marne.

Mr. Bennett's Prophetic Vision.

"The dinner ended," said Dr. Watson, "Mr. Bennett pushed back his chair and spoke of the meaning of the war. He spoke with a prophet's fervor and a prophet's vision. Remember that the war had just begun; that leaders of the people in many lands hesitated to form a judgment as to what its meaning was; that men who ought to have been qualified to see clearly formulated no clear message to the waiting peoples.

"But the prophecy that came from James Gordon Bennett's clear intelligence that night has never been defaulted by events as they arrived. He spoke of the war as a war of imponderables. He said that men were deceived who looked upon it as a conflict of political aspirations, or as motivated by national greed on one side or the other; the causes went far back in the history of men. On one side was a tendency toward liberty. It was vague, unformed, unorganized, a free spirit seeking a definite embodiment and a more permanent and effective medium of expression, and on the other side was a co-ordinated, linked power of autocracy, whose real purpose, however disguised, was to keep under the peoples and maintain at any cost its master grip on their lives and fortunes. There is no universal empire but the will of the people to govern themselves.

He Feared and Hated Tyranny.

"We talked little that evening before separating, but many times since have we recalled that vision of prophecy, and realized how great a prophet of democracy, how great a champion of the people, was the man who had spoken. He feared and he hated tyranny, and his frankness of criticism was not captiousness, but rather the discharge of a freeman's duty. He knew well that the people's rights and human freedom can only be maintained where the Government is the servant of the people; that any pretension on the part of a Government that criticism is disloyalty is but a reversion to mediaevalism, and the first step in the downfall of a republic.

"And it was on that concept of a freeman's duty that was based the great use which Mr. Bennett made of his power through the press. What a debt of gratitude do we of America owe to our free press for the high conception it has had of its duty in these recent years, and for the unshrinking courage with which it has discharged it. And I appeal to you, members of the editorial profession, let nothing cause you ever to relax in your effort. This war will be won for the right, because the hands of the clock of civilization cannot move backward. But as to when it will be won, that depends on that public opinion which you are the most potent factor in creating; and as to what shall be the aftermath of the winning of it, that depends still more on you.

"Democracy, that liberty of free peoples, has one unvarying characteristic—decentralization. Do not let us forget this, gentlemen of the press. And though today we must be using methods of the most intensive centralization, keep us reminded of the fact that it is only because we are fighting concentrated mediaevalism. And when in the end righteous force shall have utterly crushed unrighteous force, help us to dethrone the pagan ideal of force forever.

"How we shall miss James Gordon Bennett's prophetic vision and his unswerving courage in declaring it in this after struggle which is coming. How he will be missed in France, where he meant so much courage to a people struggling harder even than we have to struggle to maintain the ideals of freedom. He was a great American, and he loved France, too; but what he loved in each was something spiritual, something that belongs to the imponderables."

An anthem followed the address. Then Dr. Slattery read the committal service and prayers and pronounced the benediction.

Representatives of Clubs.

Among those present were representatives of the Union Club, the Racquet and Tennis Club, the Knickerbocker Club, the Jockey Club, the Westminster Kennel Club, and the Aero Club of America; besides Clarence H. Mackay, President, and George G. Ward, Vice President of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company; Henry Clews, Melville E. Stone, General Manager of The Associated Press; Mr. and Mrs. Robert W. Candler, Mrs. William Jay, Mrs. Arthur Iselin, William C. Reick, George F. Pollock, William J. Guard, Rodman Wanamaker, James Speyer, William P. Douglas, Mr. and Mrs. J. Gordon Douglas, Mrs. William Fitzhugh Whitehouse, J. Frederick Tams, Francis Gray Griswold, Mrs. John Erskine Thompson, Isaac Townsend, and Miss Amy Townsend.

PRINTERS MOURN LOST FRIEND

The following resolutions, in commemoration of James Gordon Bennett by New York Typographical Union No. 6, were passed Sunday:

Whereas, In the death of James Gordon Bennett there has been removed from the ranks of American journalism a commanding force, the last of the great personal figures of the newspaper world in New York City and a lifelong friend of Typographical Union No. 6; and,

Whereas, In the early days of No. 6 when its existence was a continued struggle against forces which sought to check its life, James Gordon Bennett was a friend in need. When union printers were barred from other newspaper composing rooms, it was always the boast of The Herald's proprietor that he maintained a strictly union office. Old-time members of No. 6 will remember his celebrated cablegram in the early eighties which turned the tide when the union put into effect its scale: "Pay the union scale, irrespective of what other papers do," were his cheering words, and that has ever since been the guiding principle of the newspaper with which James Gordon Bennett's name will always be linked; therefore be it

Resolved, When James Gordon Bennett passed away from the newspaper world Typographical Union No. 6 in particular and the labor world in general lost a friend for whom every member had a warm personal regard, one who will always be held in grateful remembrance for his loyal faith in union principles and his unswerving friendship for Typographical Union No. 6.

A meeting of the Board of Governors of the Aero Club of America also passed resolutions expressing its appreciation of Mr. Bennett's work in promotion of ballooning and airplane work, for both of which he offered trophies.

RESNATI'S AIRPLANE FLIES AT HIS FUNERAL

GUN CARRIAGE BEARS COFFIN

Body Carried by Officers of the Italian, French, British and American Armies.

To the hum of the propellers of the big Caproni airplane that he had so often piloted the body of Captain Antonio Silvia Resnati of the Italian Flying Corps, who was killed in an airplane accident at Mineola on Friday, was carried up Fifth Avenue yesterday afternoon to St. Patrick's Cathedral where the funeral services were held. As the procession moved slowly along the biplane, clear cut against the leaden sky, dropping flowers in its journey, flew so low that it seemed to skim the housetops. Along the route also thousands paused in the wet to watch the coffin carried past, and about the Cathedral many more thousands stood in the rain as the flag-covered coffin was carried into the church.

The Cathedral was filled to the doors. The absolution service was performed by the Rev. William B. Martin, assisted by the Rev. B. F. McQuade as Deacon, and the Rev. D. Corcoran as Sub-Deacon. The funeral oration was preached by Mgr. Lavelle.

Escorted by 150 men of the 225th Aero Squadron, some of them students under Captain Resnati, the body was brought from Hempstead in the early afternoon. The funeral train reached the Long Island station in the Pennsylvania Terminal at 2 o'clock, where more than 5,000 persons had gathered. There were hundreds of Italian school children who braved the rain to march after the body of Italy's most famous flyer. Also in the throng were representatives of the various Italian societies, each with one or more flags draped with crêpe. Drawn up near by, awaiting the command to fall into line, were the soldiers of America and France. So quiet was the gathering that the hum of the motors of the big biplane came with surprising suddenness as the machine flew from the direction of Long Island.

The pallbearers were representatives of the Allies. They were Colonel Dinda Taneredi and Lieutenant Candoni, for Italy; Major L. G. Thornton and Lieut. Col. Hunter, for Great Britain; Captain G. Lant and Captain S. Toyner, for France; Colonel B. Bridson and Captain Robert Durham, for Canada, and Captain J. F. Doherty of the 225th Aero Squadron, U. S. A., stationed at Mineola.

A detail of mounted policemen led the line and following came the 22d Infantry Band. It required fourteen automobiles to carry the floral tributes. In the first automobile was a great floral design representing the Italian national emblem, the gift of the King of Italy. One conspicuous floral piece was a model of an airplane with a ten-foot spread of wings, a gift of Il Progresso, the Italian language newspaper.

The coffin, borne on a gun carriage, was covered with American and Italian flags, and placed on top of it were the cap, the dress uniform and the sword of Captain Resnati. Then came the representatives of the Allied Governments and the Italian and Allied officers. The members of the Italian Military Mission, headed by Colonel Binda, were in the line. In the second platoon, were the detail from the 225th Aero Squadron, and the various societies, including the Sons of Italy, the Guardia Columbia, Massini Society, the Florence Naval League Association, and others. In the group of civilians were Enrico Caruso and Judge J. J. Freschi.

At the cathedral the band played "Our Illustrious Dead." The body was borne up the aisle and placed upon the bier, half buried in the flowers that had been piled there.

"This weather typifies the feelings of us all congregated here this afternoon," said Mgr. Lavelle. "Our hearts are aching and our tears are streaming even as our hearts are resolute. Captain Antonio Resnati was our friend, our brother, and our comrade, who died that we might live, who sacrificed himself on the altar of patriotism and who rests this day on the bosom of his father and his God.

"We have millions of men in our army and navy, and among them all there is not one more admirable than Resnati was. He was the type of all the virtues that make a true man, a typical soldier, and a true Christian. He was an inspiration to his fellow soldiers. He was a brave man, not a man of reckless bravery, but one who knew all the dangers of bravery, and knowing all this he was ready to sacrifice everything for a great and immortal cause."

As the coffin was carried from the cathedral the organ played "The Star-Spangled Banner." Outside the soldier guard came to attention as the pallbearers carried the body down the rain-covered steps. This time it was placed in a hearse.

Long before the services were ended the airplane had startd back to the aviation field at Mineola. Before departing, however, it circled the spires of the cathedral so low that the pilot had to exercise care to avoid hitting them. The plane contained Major E. L. Canady, commander of the Hazlehurst Aviation Field; Sergeant Tino, Captain Resnati's old instructor in flying; Captain Hugo D'Annunzio, and Captain Picco of the Royal Italian Flying Corps. The flowers with which it was laden were the gifts of the students and of friends of Captain Resnati.

Captain Resnati's body was taken to Calvary Cemetery, where it will remain in a vault until it is sent to Italy. As the coffin was placed in the vault sixteen soldiers of the 225th Aero Squadron fired the last salute.

Austria Forbids Hebrew.

The Austrian authorities have forbidden correspondence in Hebrew characters, and according to the Judische Presse of Berlin, the protests of representative Jewish organizations are without avail. Minor Government officials have on many occasions arbitrarily extended this restriction even in localities where censorship does not apply, the Provisional Executive Committee for General Zionist Affairs announces.

To Bar Jewish Immigrants.

According to the Provisional Executive Committee for General Zionist Affairs, a movement has been launched by the German People's Party to have the Government inaugurate measures for closing the old frontiers of Germany against possible Jewish settlers from Poland, Courland and Lithuania.

NOTED PICTURE FOR FUND.

"After the Battle of the Marne" to be Sold in Aid of War Blind.

"After the Battle of the Marne," Ridgeway Knight's this year's picture in the Paris Salon, the first in Paris for three years, has been presented to the American, British, French, Belgian Permanent Blind Relief Fund, now holding an exhibition and sale of pictures in the Anderson Galleries, Fifty-ninth Street and Park Avenue. The picture is presented by William Nelson Cromwell of New York, but a Paris resident of some years' standing. The news was received yesterday by cable from George A. Kessler, Chairman of the fund's Executive Committee.

The picture has been one of the noted ones of the Salon. It is a companion piece to the artist's "Les Bas de Laine." The picture is to be sold for the benefit of the fund. It shows a French interior and an old peasant, his wife, daughter, and young son pouring over a map of France and her colonies. The artist is a Philadelphian by birth, but has spent much of his life in France.

Mr. Cromwell, in a long letter to Mr. Kessler, in which he expressed appreciation of the man at the cannon's mouth and great sympathy for those blinded in battle, said: "This inhuman warfare strains each and every one of our heart strings to its utmost tension, but no suffering appeals to us with such tenderness and complete surrender as that of him who must grope his way through life in the darkness of visual oblivion. While abroad I have observed with increasing admiration the wonderful and beneficent work which you and Mrs. Kessler are accomplishing. I feel that there is no fund more efficiently administered and no object more worthy of American support, and so it occurred to me that the famous painting of Ridgeway Knight, 'Après La Battaille de la Marne,' now on exhibition in the Salon in Paris, would be an acceptable manifestation of my wish to aid this noble work."

There are distinguished members of different professions, artists of the brush, the stage, and the opera daily at the exhibition, and tea is served.

AUTO VERDICT OF $27,500.

Jury Finds for Husbands of Women Killed by Express Truck.

A jury in Justice Gavegan's part of the Bronx Supreme Court yesterday returned verdicts for $10,000 in favor of Patrick Kehoe of 445 East 137th Street, the Bronx, and for $17,500 in favor of Kehoe's son-in-law, William Grandfield of 598 East 140th Street, the Bronx. Both verdicts were against the American Express Company.

Kehoe's wife, Mary, and his daughter, Mrs. William Grandfield, were run down and instantly killed by an auto truck owned by the express company and operated by Michael McMurray of 210 East Ninetieth Street on Jan. 17 last, while walking along the sidewalk of Willis Avenue between 136th and 137th Streets.

BARONESS TO MARRY AGAIN.

Copyright, 1918, by The New York Times Company.
Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

COLON, May 21.—Two persons are reported to have been killed and about twenty-five injured when a refrigerator car and three second-class coaches of passengers from Panama left the rails near Gamboa Station, about 5:45 o'clock tonight. The killed and injured are mostly colored.

Dr. William Austin Macy.

Dr. William Austin Macy, Medical Superintendent of the Kings Park Hospital, died suddenly from apoplexy yesterday at the hospital. He had been identified with the care of the insane in New York State for thirty-one years, having been first attached to the hospital at Hart's Island. In 1888 he was transferred to Blackwell's Island, serving a year later as Assistant Medical Superintendent at Ward's Island. On Jan. 1, 1897, he was appointed Medical Superintendent of the Willard State Hospital. He had been at Kings Park Hospital since 1904. Dr. Macy was in his fifty-seventh year.

C. Howell Dies During Operation.

Cortlandt Howell, an insurance broker of 149 Broadway and a member of the Publicity Committee of the Liberty Loan Committee of New York, died yesterday at his home, 609 West 114th Street, from a hemorrhage which occurred while he was undergoing an operation on one of his teeth. He died while under the influence of an anaesthetic. Mr. Howell was a special agent of George A. Brinckerhoff & Co.

Bulgarian Ambassador Rizow Dead.

German newspapers just received here report the death in Berlin on April 23 of Dimiter Rizow, Bulgarian Ambassador to Germany, in his fifty-third year. Rizow was a victim of heart disease. He had been in the Bulgarian diplomatic service for more than twenty years, and went to Berlin as the successor of Lieut. Gen. Markow on July 30, 1915. Rizow was a Macedonian by birth.

Alfred G. Belden Drops Dead.

Alfred Goodwin Belden, a merchant, 70 years old, of 109 Eighth Avenue, Brooklyn, dropped dead last night in an apartment house at 147 West Sixty-sixth Street, where he had gone to visit a friend. The friend was not at home at the time. Heart disease was given as the cause. Identification was made through a card found, which bore the name of Mrs. Mary Dodge of the Brooklyn address, Belden's sister-in-law.

Huntington Wolcott Merchant.

Huntington Wolcott Merchant, a lawyer who had been interested in prison reform work and had served as attorney for Thomas Mott Osborne during the latter's difficulties as Warden of Sing Sing Prison, died yesterday at his home in Liberty, N. Y., in his forty-ninth year. Mr. Merchant was a member of the National Committee on Prisons and Prison Labor.

Obituary Notes.

GEORGE WASHINGTON HALL, 83 years old, said to have been the oldest active circus proprietor, is dead at his home in Evansville, Wis. He began his career at the age of 13 and was the first to take an American circus to South America.

GEORGE W. EARLE, a pioneer organ builder, died yesterday at his home in Hempstead, L. I., in his eighty-fourth year. Mr. Earle manufactured the organs used in several churches in this city, at the Cathedral of the Incarnation, Garden City, and St. George's Church in Hempstead, where for many years he was Superintendent of the Sunday school.

Mrs. MARY JANE THURSBY, 85 years old, died in the Methodist Episcopal Hospital on Sunday. Mrs. Thursby was born in Massachusetts and was twice married. Her first husband was Dr. David Myerle of Philadelphia, and her second was Samuel I. Thursby, a rope manufacturer of Brooklyn. She lived at 1,135 Ditmas Avenue, Brooklyn, and left a son, Dr. David Myerle.

The Rev. TREADWELL WALDEN, who retired in 1885 after thirty years of active work as rector of Protestant Episcopal churches in many sections of the country, died yesterday in Boston. He was 68 years old. Mr. Walden went abroad in 1886 for three years and preached occasionally at Westminster Abbey, the Royal Chapel, and other churches in England.

ELISHA R. HOPKINS, a retired manufacturer of numbering machines and a descendant of Stephen Hopkins, one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence, died at his home, 99 Gates Avenue, Brooklyn, on Monday. Mr. Hopkins was born in Newburgh, N. Y., eighty years ago, and for many years was in business in William Street, Manhattan.

JACOB BARTHOLOMEW KORNDORFER, a Director of the People's National Bank of Brooklyn, of which he had been cashier for the last ten years, died in a sanitarium at Brentwood, L. I., on Monday. He was born here fifty-five years ago, and in his youth was a branch manager for the Western Union Telegraph Company, and later entered the employ of the Irving National Bank in Manhattan. His home was at 713 Monroe Street, Brooklyn.

CITY FACES TIEUP OF NEW SUBWAYS

Five Thousand Men Said to be Ready to Quit Unless Higher Pay Is Assured.

ESTIMATE BOARD BLAMED

Has Failed to Make Agreement with Public Service Commission, Contractors Maintain.

Representatives of the contractors on the new subways said yesterday that unless the city immediately agreed to take over the work, and to assume the responsibility of the increased cost of labor, the 5,000 men now employed on the work would quit. If this happens, the entire work will be tied up for the duration of the war because of the scarcity of labor, the city will lose $20,000 a day in carrying charges, and the date when the pooling agreement between the city and the Interborough Rapid Transit Company can go into effect will be indefinitely delayed.

Under the Lockwood law, the Public Service Commission, with the consent of the Board of Estimate, may finish the work at cost by any method adopted, but the board has failed to act, and has even left unanswered a letter from the commission suggesting that the two sets of officials meet through sub-committees and make a plan for continuing the work.

Frederick L. Cranford, President of the General Contractors' Association, tried to see Mayor Hylan a week ago, but was told that he would have to make an appointment. Then Mr. Cranford talked with President Smith of the Board of Alderman, who expressed interest in the matter until after he saw the Mayor, and then advised Mr. Cranford to set forth the situation in a letter. The letter was prepared and sent to the Mayor last Wednesday. That is the last Mr. Cranford has heard of the matter.

Workmen Delay Action.

Talking with a reporter of THE NEW YORK TIMES yesterday, Mr. Cranford recalled the fact that the men working on the subways had demanded an increase of pay not later than May 15. They agreed to wait in order to see whether the city would take over the work and would agree to the increase, but the men had lost patience, Mr. Cranford said, and were ready to go out, leaving the work on many of the important subway lines and extensions only partly completed. The delay had enabled the contractors on the "H" lines to get the work far enough advanced to start them running as soon as the power plants and the signal systems were installed. This work might go on, but the work everywhere else in the city would stop if the men went out. He added:

"If the Board of Estimate names a committee at its meeting on Friday to confer with the Public Service Commission, it is just possible that the necessary agreements may be made to assure the men of the increased pay by June 1, but it will take quick action to accomplish this. The men are entirely independent. Government work at high wages is beckoning to the men, the labor market is practically drained, and if our men leave the work it will be impossible, in my opinion, to fill their places.

"It is certain that the contractors cannot pay more wages. Some of their contracts were made prior to the beginning of the war, when the cost of labor and material was normal, and all of them were made not later than the early part of 1916, more than a year before this country was at war. We have reached the end of our resources, and the city must take over the work or the work will stop."

May Delay City's Profits.

Mr. Cranford pointed out that the pooling arrangement with the Interborough Company would not begin until the tunnels to Brooklyn were completed, and that this work was threatened with a delay that might deprive the city of sharing in the profit of the present subway lines for several years instead of by Jan. 1 next. Among the other important work which the commission is anxious to have finished is the Fourteenth Street-Eastern line, the Seventh Avenue line to South Ferry, the Broadway extension to Queens, and the extensions of the various lines to Brooklyn, Brighton Beach, and on Eastern Parkway.

Mr. Cranford was asked if any arrangement had been made to bring the matter before the Board of Estimate on Friday. He replied:

"I hope somebody will mention it so that the attitude of the board may be publicly known. The Committee on Finance of the board, of which Controller Craig is Chairman, met yesterday, but so far as I have been able to learn the matter was not mentioned."

Public Service Commissioner Whitney expressed the opinion that the commission had made all haste in the matter, and that if the delay resulted in tying up all of the subway work the blame would have to be laid elsewhere.

NEW CABLE RULES ISSUED.

Navy Censor Makes Numerous Alterations in Regulations.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—New cable censorship regulations issued today by the Chief Cable Censor of the Navy Department embrace numerous changes designed to strengthen protection against communication with the enemy. The regulations of primary importance are that the sender must establish his identity and that of the person addressed, the text must be clear language, and there must be no attempt to evade the Trading With the Enemy act.

No telegrams to Germany or to any territory controlled by her will be permitted. Code addresses to neutral European countries or their registration during the war are barred. No information regarding the transmission of cablegams will be allowed. The practice of notifying the sender of the delivery of the message is suspended. Cablegrams that contain only the address and signature with no text will not be allowed, and if there is only one word it must be fully explained to the censor.

Ten different prescribed codes are usable in dispatches going to other than European neutral countries. Telegrams to persons or firms on the enemy trading list cannot be permitted unless with the approval of the War Trade Board.

Specific instructions in regard to dispatches to members of the overseas naval or land forces of the United States are given, and it is explained that, while dispatches may continue to be sent from members of the overseas force to this country containing a registered code word, no new registrations will be made.

GIVES BLACK WALNUT TREES

Guggenheim Asks Others to Supply Wood for Airplane Propellers.

In compliance with an urgent appeal from the Government, William Guggenheim, Chairman of the Army and Navy Committee of the American Defense Society, 44 East Twenty-third Street, yesterday issued a call to all patriotic landowners to offer their black walnut trees for the manufacture of airplane propellers and gunstocks. Mr. Guggenheim has already given all the walnut timber on his estate at Port Washington, L. I., for Governmental purposes, with the suggestion that there are many other places on Long Island which would yield much of the necessary wood.

"Through the experience of the foreign builders of propellers for aircraft we have learned that there is no wood as suitable as black walnut for this purpose," he said. "Wood for propellers must be absolutely straight grained, not too hard or too heavy, and capable of standing the enormous air resistance involved in revolutions running up to 1,500 or more a minute."

HITS COPPER OPERATORS.

Arizona Governor Charges That Their Methods Caused Strikes.

PHOENIX, Ariz., May 21.—In his message to the special "war session" of the Legislature today, Governor G. W. P. Hunt paid his respects to what he termed "profiteering patriots," charging that such men were responsible for industrial unrest in the State, "and such shameful events as the deportations at Bisbee."

"I am certain," the Governor said, "that the I. W. W. was not a determining factor in the strikes that have tied up copper mines during the last four months. These strikes grew out of a long standing struggle between the forces of legitimate organized labor and the forces of organized business dominated by the copper companies. So far as lawlessness is concerned the chief rôle of the I. W. W. has been to serve as camouflage."

COMPANY CUTS ITS PROFITS.

Remits to Government More Than Half of Its Commissions.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The War Department today made public a letter from M. G. Migel, President of the Allied Silk Trading Corporation of 17 Madison Avenue, New York City, disclosing that that company had made a reduction of more than 50 per cent. in the amount of its commissions on cartridge cloth for the Ordnance Department.

The letter says that when the company undertook to assist the Ordnance Department in the manufacture of 7,000,000 yards of cartridge cloth, and formed a corporation of $500,000, cash paid in, for the purpose, there was no desire on its part to undertake the work particularly for profit.

RECEIVERS' SALES.

NOTICE OF SALE.

United States District Court, Southern District of New York.—WILLIAM L. SWEET, Jr., complainant, against All Package Grocery Stores Company, defendant.

Pursuant to the decree of said court, dated May 13, 1918, all the physical assets in New York State consisting of merchandise, fixtures, office furniture, automobiles and equipment of the All Package Grocery Stores Company and of Herbert A. Emerson and H. Snowden Marshall, as its receivers, contained in the chain of 107 stores now conducted by the receivers and in the warehouse and office of the receivers, as of the time of such sale, (excepting, however, cash registers,) together with the good-will of such business, subject to changes occasioned by the conduct of the business or the administration of the estate by the receivers, are hereby offered for sale.

Bids accompanied by cash or certified check for ten per cent. of the amount of the bid will be received by said Court at Room 323, Federal Building, Borough of Manhattan, New York City, at 4:30 P. M. May 22, 1918.

Merchandise in stores	188,548.69
Merchandise in transit	796.66
Equipment and office furniture	155,285.86
(Cash registers inventoried at $7,800.00 should be deducted from this amount.)
Automobiles	31,444.41

Bids may be made for all or any part of the property hereinbefore described and in addition thereto a claim of the receivers against the United States for compensation due to the requisitioning of premises occupied by All Package Grocery Stores Co. in the Bush Terminal, Brooklyn, New York.

Bids will also be received for all or part of the property hereinbefore described including the claim against the United States of America and also including the property of the All Package Grocery Stores Company and the ancillary receivers located in Chicago, Illinois, subject to such action as the District Court of the Northern District of Illinois, Eastern Division, may take with reference to such Chicago assets.

PUTS DATA BEFORE WILSON.

McAdoo, However, Will Present Final Tax Conclusions Later.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Reasons why the Treasury urges revenue legislation at this session of Congress were laid before President Wilson today by Secretary McAdoo, who is to confer later this week with Congressional leaders in an effort to overcome their strong objections to the plan.

Mr. McAdoo is understood to have told the President that, unless Congress remains in session this Summer to enact a new tax law, the Treasury will have great difficulty in financing the huge war needs expected in the six months ending next Jan. 1. The determined objection of Congressional leaders to the program calling for legislation this Summer has prompted Mr. McAdoo to consider every angle of the Government financial situation, however, and he has called for reports from Treasury advisers, to be submitted tomorrow. After these are digested, he may again consult the President, to convey the Treasury's final recommendation.

Expenditures so far this month indicate that the total will be about $1,500,000,000, a new high record, about $300,000,000 more than last month, and officials estimate that the war's cost will grow at the rate of $100,000,000 a month until January. This would make expenses for the six months, starting with the new fiscal year July 1, nearly $11,000,000,000, to be met almost entirely in that time from sale of Liberty bonds and the temporary expedient provided by certificates of indebtedness.

Little of this year's revenue will remain as a working balance in the new fiscal year, and the Treasury probably will have to start in August, or earlier, issuance of certificates in anticipation of receipts from the Fourth Liberty Loan, planned for October or November.

ANOTHER OUTBREAK AT YALE

NEW HAVEN, Conn., May 21.—A disturbance by students in the Sheffield School of Yale, following the riotous outbreak of last night, was promptly quieted tonight by the appearance of a detail of police, and later Major E. B. Reed of the Faculty, at whose suggestion the men scatter to their rooms was heeded.

Sometime before there had been considerable revolver firing from dormitory windows, it is said, and hurling of bottles to the street. More than 100 students were congregated when the police, sent in response to a hurry call by a patrolman, appeared.

President Hadley returned to the city late today. He declined to comment on last night's outbreak. It was pointed out tonight that the students arrested last night, although wearing the army or navy uniforms, are not enlisted men, and therefore subject to civil instead of military law.

"French soldiers," says a statement from the British Ministry of Information just received here, "reaching base hospitals are loud in praise of the fighting quality of the British troops, and the early French civilian inclination to criticism of the British is wholly removed by the realization that two British armies were faced by seventy-five German divisions, and at one point forty-eight German divisions were opposed by only fourteen British.

"During the last few days the range of the German gas shelling has been greatly lengthened, gas shells now falling at a distance of twelve miles from the front, thereby endangering a large number of innocent civilians."

The Ministry of Information is also authority for the statement that the casualties of the 31st German Division in the recent fighting around Kemmel were not less than 40 per cent. of its total infantry strength. Before the Germans delivered the assault their guns inflicted heavy losses on their own men by firing short.

It is further stated that documentary evidence shows that twenty-two German regimental commanders, corresponding in rank to British Brigadier Generals, have been killed in action.

As evidence that the British have obtained mastery of the air in France, a cablegram from the Ministry of Information says that 90 per cent. of combats in which British airplanes are now engaged take place entirely over the German line. "It is very exceptional," the message adds, "for any British aviator to be brought down over British lines since March 21."

SEAPLANE'S LONG FLIGHT.

New Machine Has Two Liberty Motors and Carries Five Persons.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Acting Secretary Roosevelt of the Navy this afternoon announced that a large seaplane recently completed at the Naval Aircraft Factory, Philadelphia, flew from Philadelphia to Hampton Roads, Va., in three hours and fifteen minutes.

The plane is equipped with two Liberty motors. On the flight to Hampton Roads it carried five persons, including the pilot.

Ex-Vice President's Condition Shows Little Change.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., May 21.—There was little change during the day in the condition of former Vice President Charles W. Fairbanks, who is critically ill at his home here. His physician, Dr. J. A. MacDonald, stated tonight that Mr. Fairbanks was resting comfortably, and although he did not pass so good a day as yesterday, he still had hopes of his recovery.

Cotton Goods Prices Advanced.

New prices on several varieties of cottons, showing advances of 2 cents a yard over the figures recently current, were made yesterday by Taylor, Clapp & Beall of this city. The goods and the new prices follow: Lonsdale and Blackstone 4-4 bleached muslins, each 25 cents; Hope 4-4 bleached muslin, 24 cents; Forget-met-not 4-4 bleached muslin, 23 cents; Lonsdale cambric and Lonsdale nainsook, each 28 cents. Thirty-six-inch Berkeley cambrics were quoted this way: Coronet, 27c; No. 60, 28c; No. 100, 31c; Extra, 32c; No. 150, 34¼c; No. 180, 36¾c, and No. 300, 37¾c. These prices were made on Berkeley English longcloths: No. 500, 27¼c; No. 1,000, 28¼c; No. 2,000, 29¼c; No. 2,500, 31¼c; No. 3,000, 32¼c; No. 4,000, 34½c; No. 5,000, 37c, and No. 6,000, 38c. All of the above prices are subject to further advances without notice.

Fall Pile Fabrics Well Sold.

Local sellers of pile fabrics report that Fall business already placed is sufficient in many instances to keep the mills going well up through the balance of the year. The various cutting trades are said to have ordered in particularly good volume, as it is expected that velvets, velveteens, and corduroys will be among the leading fabrics for women's garments this coming Fall and Winter. There is reported to be a noticeable tendency in Fall buying toward the darker shades and more subdued designs. It is not yet so strong, however, as to have caused the light shades to be seriously neglected.

Busy Season a Month Earlier.

"I expect to see our Fall business in coats and suits practically finished by Sept. 1," said a prominent manufacturer of this city yesterday. "Of course, there are a lot of retailers who have not yet started to think about Fall, but they all will before long. Instead of doing our big business during July, August and September as in normal years, this year we will do most of it in June, July and August. It is not a case of what we want or of what the retailer may want. Present conditions simply compel earlier preparations for Fall."

Brassieres Are Much Wanted.

Little fault is to be found with the present call for brassieres here. One of the interesting things about the demand for them is that it is most active on two rather widely separated types of goods—"stouts" and bandeaus. Clever manufacturing this season has given the heavy woman the comfort of a brassiere that is at once useful and good-looking, and the large sales of this class of goods is attributed in no small part to this fact. Camouflaged inserts of elastic are popular in the bandeau types to give the necessary retention to the figure, but in at least one case this need has been filled by the use of small bronze springs. Silk brassieres are well liked, especially wash satins, crêpes, &c., which are often seen in combination with cluny, torchon, and other of the heavier cotton laces. Tricot and strong net are also much used.

Pajamas vs. Nightgowns.

Just at present the demand for pajamas for women is giving way somewhat to a call for nightgowns, according to reports from several local manufacturers. This is thought, however, to be due more to the fact that nightgowns are a trifle cooler for Summer, than to any lasting decrease in the popularity of women's pajamas. Where Fall business is being done, pajamas are said to be as much in evidence as they ever were, and in many cases even more so. They seem to be more generally sought in the West and the Middle West than they are in the East.

Lace Outlook Very Good.

While it is slower in manifesting itself than many local houses care to see it, the demand for laces is gradually increasing and promises to swell to very large proportions by the time the Fall season is at hand. Many of the leading costume manufacturers, both in this country and France, are using the more expensive laces lavishly, and by Fall the demand is expected to spread to the "bread and butter" varieties. This always means good business. At present the leaders appear to be real filet and fine black Chantilly laces, though the demand for fine Irish is said rapidly to be outstripping the supply. Venises, "Vals," and fine shadow laces also are well thought of. The more staple ones seem slower to develop for dress purposes.

Sports Corsets in Favor.

With the coming of warmer weather there has been a marked improvement locally in the demand for corsets especially designed for golf, tennis, and other sports wear. Corsets of this type are also proving popular with "farmerettes" and with women who are employed in war industries. Most models are cut very low in the bust, and make use of elastic inserts to give the desired freedom of action. In some types of corsets this insert is wide at the bottom, in order to insure a free movement at the hips, but narrows down toward the top to give support to the figure where it is needed. Tricot is the most favored material in these corsets, and tricot corsets generally are well liked. "Stout" models are well up in current sales, and in general both the front and back lace types of corsets are good sellers.

No Money in Custom Shoes.

"There is no money in custom made shoes nowadays," said the head of one of Fifth Avenue's most exclusive shoe shops yesterday. "Labor, materials and overhead expenses all tend to make it a losing proposition. If you were to come into my store and offer to buy either a $25 pair of shoes or a $10 pair I would choose the latter offer. The $25 purchase, if you made it, would be a custom made job. About the only value of business of this sort is in the advertising it gets and in maintaining the prestige of the establishment. As a matter of fact, people do not have their shoes made to order these days unless there is something the matter with their feet.

Gray Goods Trading Lags.

Buyers were none too active in the local gray goods market yesterday, but the scarcity of goods kept prices steady in spite of the lack of trading. The feature of the day apparently was the selling of some Northern spots of 38½-inch 64-60s at 19 cents. For Southern goods of this construction buyers were said to be bidding, unsuccessfully, 18½ cents for this and next month's shipments. June and July deliveries of 39-inch 68-72s were sold at 20½ cents, and May-June business was done on 56-44s in that width at 15 cents. Aside from this the market did not produce much of special interest. Mill prices on spot printcloths closed this way:

39-inch, 72-76s	....22½c	38½-inch, 64-56s	..18c
39-inch, 68-72s	....20½c	38½-inch, 60-52s	..16½c
39-inch, 56-44s	....15c	38½-inch, 60-48s	..16c
38½-inch, 64-64s	..19c	27-inch, 64-60s	....13¼c

BUSINESS NOTES.

C. A. Gould, who is well known to the retail dry goods trade, has become associated with C. G. Gunther's Sons of this city as Vice President and General Manager. He will continue, however, to be Vice President of the Associated Dry Goods Corporation.

These officers of the United Waist League of America have been elected: Samuel A. Lerner, President; Leo Kriegsman, First Vice President; Samuel Krohnberg, Second Vice President; Alfred Stern, Third Vice President; L. N. Gross of Cleveland, Fourth Vice President; Eugene Solomon, Treasurer, and M. Mosessohn, Executive Director. A large Board of Directors has also been elected.

LUCKENBACH CO. EXPANDS.

Steamship Line Increases Its Capital to $25,000,000.

The Luckenbach Steamship Company filed a certificate of capitalization in the office of the Secretary of State at Dover, Del., yesterday, increasing its capital from $10,000 to $25,000,000. The company, it was said, had plans for expansion and for the building of a large fleet of cargo vessels.

Edgar F. Luckenbach, President of the company, said last night at his home at Sea Gate that the plans included the construction of twelve twin-screw cargo vessels of 12,000 tons. Four of these have already been turned over to the company and are in the Government service. The others will be completed within a few months. The total tonnage to be made available almost immediately will be about 250,000.

The new ships will replace the Jacob Luckenbach and other vessels sunk and destroyed during the war, and will be put into Government use as soon as constructed.

"Tailored" Neckwear Active.

Waistcoats, vestees, collar and cuff sets, and other "tailored" neckwear are very much in the spotlight these days, many styles of the first two being deprived of at least a part of their mannishness by the use of real and imitation filet, "Val," and Irish laces in the form of edgings, insertions, and other attractive ways. Venise is also much used, and cluny is used on not a few. The favored materials at the moment include piques, pongees, organdies, linen-finished lawns, and, in the higher-priced goods, fine, sheer linen. All-white and solid color effects lead, the two having been largely divorced from their early season combinations. "Soft" colors predominate. Pleating is much in vogue, and in one form or another runs through practically the whole list of neckwear styles. Pleated cuffs are in vogue also. With the coming of warmer weather a dropping off in the call for stocks is reported.

FINANCIAL MARKETS

Possibly because of the reopening of the disturbing question of new tax legislation the stock market quieted down yesterday and only about 50 per cent. of the volume of business maintained each day for the last fortnight was done. Traders did not turn bearish but they showed a disposition to leave the market alone for a time and the result was a more orderly movement in the issues which have been attracting attention by their erratic fluctuations in recent sessions. Prices in general moved slightly upward with only a few issues showing any signs of the speculative fever which ran so high throughout last week. United Cigar Stores, St. Paul preferred, Marine preferred, Air Brake, and Tobacco Products were conspicuously strong. Steel was fairly active, supplying about 20 per cent. of the total business, but moved through a narrow range and closed only fractionally higher. The copper issues were firmer on the eve of the meeting at Washington which may result in an upward readjustment of the Government's price for the metal.

The contraction in activity is a natural forerunner of the preparations which must be made soon for the payment of income and excess profits taxes. It will materially relieve the banking position if speculative activity remains normal while these payments and the completion of Liberty Loan payments are in progress. In some brokerage circles it is felt that while the market has not touched a level that makes prices susceptible to waning interest on the part of the public, conditions support the view that a resumption of the movement so vigorously prosecuted for two weeks cannot be looked for until about the 1st of July. By that time the crop situation should be much clearer and the heavy financing necessitated by the Government's tax requirements and bond sales will have been taken care of.

The Liberty bonds reflected selling for the release of funds for the approaching tax payments and the expectation that the war program as now shaped will call for a new offering in a few months. The 4¼s made a new low price yesterday by selling down to 97.50, a depreciation of a full 2½ per cent. from the subscription price. The new offering of Farm Loan bonds, yielding a little less than 5 per cent., has met with such support as to prove that the war loans have by no means exhausted present investment funds. Mercantile Marine 6s moved up on the expectation that yesterday's special meeting might result in an announcement that the sale of the British companies had been consumated, a development which is still dependent upon the completion of a number of vexatious details. Call money loaned for the most part at 4½ per cent.

CHEERFUL TONE IN LONDON.

Chief Strength Is Displayed in Investment Stocks.

LONDON, May 21.—The stock market reopened cheerfully today with the chief strength in investment stocks, investors finding difficulty to obtain supplies. Grand Trunk stocks were strong on a revival of nationalization proposals.

Greek and Brazilian bonds were leading features in the foreign sections. Shipping shares were firm, but speculative issues were neglected.

Trading Active on Paris Bourse.

PARIS, May 21.—Trading on the Bourse was active today. Five per cent. rentes were quoted at 59 francs 25 centimes for cash. Exchange on London, 27 francs 15½ centimes. Five per cent. loan, 87 francs 75 centimes.

MONEY AND EXCHANGE.

Call Loans Renewed at 4½%, but Rate Moves Up to 6%.

The money market yesterday showed a firmer tendency, and while some call loans were renewed at 4½ per cent., new borrowings commanded 6 per cent. The time money market was quiet, maturities of sixty days being quoted at 5¾ per cent. and those of ninety days at 6 per cent.

The Denver & Rio Grande.

People interested in the Denver & Rio Grande's affairs heard from Washington yesterday that Receiver Baldwin had obtained the advance of $1,500,000 from the Railroad Administration, which is necessary to complete the recent arrangement for clearing up the floating indebtedness of the road, up to the Equitable Trust Company's judgment for $36,000,000. The securities and cash from the treasury of the road, under attachment, needed to carry out the other provisions, can be released and turned over immediately.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

$2,000,000 Gold from Canada.

Gold to the amount of $2,000,000 was received here yesterday from Canada, the shipment having been made by the Bank of Montreal. Last week it was announced that $1,000,000 would be forwarded to New York, but although the movement was delayed a few days, the amount was doubled. The gold importation helped to improve the situation in respect to Canadian exchange. Yesterday morning the premium on New York exchange at Montreal was 1¼ per cent., while later in the day it was 1 per cent. bid and 1 3-16 per cent. asked. Not long ago the premium was 1½ per cent., and at one time it moved up to as high as 2 per cent. The exchange situation has been a matter of much concern to Canadian bankers and they have had frequent conferences with the Earl of Reading and United States Treasury officials. Lord Reading was in Ottawa on Saturday.

Bank to Double Its Capital.

A special meeting of stockholders of the Fifth Avenue Bank of New York has been called for next Monday to act on the proposal to increase the bank's capital stock from $100,000 to $200,000. The par value of the bank's stock is $100, but the market quotations are $3,400 bid and $3,700, asked—the highest price of any bank or trust company stock quoted. Stockholders have been receiving dividends at the rate of 100 per cent. per annum. The Fifth Avenue Bank was established in 1875. Its surplus and undivided profits amount to $2,332,000 and its deposits total about $18,000,000. The bank has made it a policy not to pay interest on deposits, and is probably the only institution in the city which has not deviated from it. The bank has declined to accept Government deposits because of its unwillingness to pay interest. It is not a member of the Federal Reserve System.

American Telephone and Telegraph Dividend.

Declaration of the usual quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. by the American Telephone and Telegraph Company yesterday appeared to check a declining movement in the stock. Closing at 97⅝ on Monday afternoon, the quotation receded to 96 before news of the Directors' action arrived in the Street, thereafter moving upward a point. The dividend will be paid July 15 to stockholders of record June 20.

Comparative Dullness in Stocks.

The recoveries scored by numerous stocks which had displayed weakness on Monday occurred in a market not much more than half as active. Gossip in commission houses indicated that traders were inclined to act cautiously in the absence of news developments at home and abroad of a character to base commitments upon. It looked in the morning as though buying of the copper stocks was getting under way, when Utah rose nearly 2 points and Anaconda more than a point, but the advance failed to attract a following, and prices eased off somewhat before the close.

The Buying of New Haven Shares.

The buying of New Haven in the last ten days has attracted more attention, probably, than developments in any other stocks outside of Baldwin and Marine preferred. The Street has received no information of favorable developments for the company apart from the news affecting the carriers generally, but the ticker has recorded what appeared to be fairly steady accumulation. Yesterday's gross gain of 2¼ points carried the price to a new high record for the year at 43⅞. The net gain for the day made the total rise from Monday morning of last week 9 full points.

Copper Conference Today.

The copper trade is awaiting the result of today's meeting at Washington between producers and representatives of the War Industries Board with more interest, perhaps, than the outcome of any conference since those which brought about the establishment of a fixed price. The high-cost producers are hoping for an increase of the quotation from 23½ cents to at least 24 or 25 cents a pound, to be effective after June 1. The producers whose costs are lower have been silent in respect to the meeting, although it may be said that they would like to see an increase which would neutralize the advance of expenses since the price was first fixed. The big companies which operate refineries for their own metal and custom business are hoping for an arrangement which will permit them to derive more of a profit during the war period on refining operations.

Liberty 4¼s Make New Low Record.

The 4¼ per cent. bonds of the Third Liberty Loan made a new low record yesterday when they sold at 97.50, or $975 per $1,000, the previous low point having been 97.52. Yesterday's transactions in these bonds on the Stock Exchange totaled $2,227,000 and the closing quotation was 97.54.

Large Sales of Farm Loan Bonds.

It was reported yesterday that more than $16,000,000 of the Federal Farm Loan 5 per cent. bonds had been sold. Bond dealers are surprised at the excellent showing made for the first two days of the offering. The distributing syndicate contracted with the Federal Farm Loan Board to sell $15,000,000 with an option on another block of $15,000,000. Judging from the dispatch with which the bonds have been placed with investors it is believed that the entire $30,000,000 will be sold within another few days. The bonds are being offered at 101 and interest netting 4¾ per cent. to the redeemable date (1928) and 5 per cent. thereafter up to redemption or maturity.

The Marine Deal.

There was a meeting of the Finance Committee of the International Mercantile Marine Company yesterday, but the only reply made by President Franklin to the throng of reporters seeking news of the sale of the British properties was that there were no developments. The big deal is still a live topic of conversation, and Marine issues were traded in briskly yesterday, the preferred selling up to 105½ at one time with a net gain of 1⅝, while the common advanced half a point.

Rumors in Cotton.

The Board of Managers of the New York Cotton Exchange yesterday passed a resolution similar to that adopted not long ago by the New York Stock Exchange, providing that "the circulation of rumors of a sensational character * * * will be deemed an act detrimental to the interest and welfare of the Exchange." There has been a number of rumors abroad lately regarding the auction sale by the Alien Property Custodian, today, of 5,391 bales of German-owned cotton, mostly concerning alleged restrictions upon the sale to be imposed by the Government.

Factors in the Market.

The cotton market yesterday gave a striking example of the fact that, when the market is poised in a state of unstable equilibrium, a very small factor is sufficient to tumble it over. The market was at the top of its upward swing yesterday afternoon, and though there had been little save speculative support in sight, the bulls were jubilant. Then two spot quotations from the South were posted; Savannah 30 cents, off 2½; and Norfolk 27 cents, off 3 cents. It did not matter that the quotations thus superseded had been carried ever since before the big drop in prices of last month, that they represented only the stubbornness of the farmers; that no sales had been made in weeks at such prices, and that even at the new quotations the sellers weren't able to get a nibble. Everybody started selling futures at once, and the local market catapulted down faster than it had come up, finishing just about where it started—where, incidentally, it has been in a fairly stable condition for the past week.

ANALYSIS OF LIBERTY LOAN SUBSCRIPTIONS

THESE WERE 47 PER CENT.

Subscriptions in $200,000 Class on First Loan Were 62 Per Cent. and 35 Per Cent. on the Third.

In the New York District 3,343,123 subscriptions were received to the Third Liberty Loan, according to a statement given out yesterday by James Freeman Curtis, Deputy Governor and General Counsel of the Federal Reserve Bank. This total for subscriptions compares with 2,182,017 for the Second Loan, and 978,959 for the First Loan. Although the subscriptions for the Third Loan, totaling $1,114,930,700, were the smallest of the three loans, the distribution was by far the broadest.

The table divides the subscriptions into five classes: First, up to $10,000; second, from $10,050 to $50,000; third, from $50,050 to $100,000; fourth, from $100,050 to $200,000, and fifth, those more than $200,000. For all three loans the number of subscribers in the fourth class was smaller than the number for the fifth class.

An analysis of the accompanying table shows that in each succeeding loan, small subscriptions played a more important part, and correspondingly the very large applications were a smaller factor. Thus in the First Loan, subscriptions of $10,000 and less amounted to 23 per cent. of the total, while for the Second Loan they amounted to 29 per cent., and for the Third Loan to 47 per cent. Subscriptions of $200,000 and more amounted to 62 per cent. in the First Loan, to 54 per cent. in the Second Loan, and only 35 per cent. in the Third Loan.

The detailed comparative statement follows:

COMPARATIVE STATEMENT OF SUBSCRIPTIONS.

	1st Liberty Loan.		2d Liberty Loan.		3d Liberty Loan.
	No. of Subscriptions.	Amount.	No. of Subscriptions.	Amount.	No. of Subscriptions.	Amount.

Total	978,959	$1,186,788,400	2,182,017	$1,550,453,450	*3,343,123	$1,114,930,700

It will be noted that the table refers to number of "subscriptions" and not to the number of "subscribers," the latter being considerably smaller than the former for the reason that a great many persons filed two or more subscriptions, frequently placing the same through different channels.

DANIELS PROMISES SHIPS FOR MILLIONS

They Will Be Ready Before Another Summer, He Tells Rutgers Alumni.

DESTROYERS IN PLENTY

Never Again, He Declares, Must Our Commerce Be Carried in Foreign Bottoms.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., May 21.—The United States is ready to draft men from 18 to 60 years old, if that is necessary to win the war, declared Secretary of War Daniels in a speech this afternoon at the alumni dinner of Rutgers College in Ballantine Gymnasium. His declaration was loudly cheered. He predicted "before another Summer we will have enough ships to carry not only a million, but millions, to France, and enough destroyers to carry them there in safety." This brought another outburst from the 600 men listening to him.

Every reference to increased shipping to get men to France was cheered and applauded. There was a demonstration when Secretary Daniels said American soldiers and sailors will own the country when they come back and that Americans would give it to them gladly.

The honorary degree of Doctor of Laws was conferred upon Mr. Daniels by President W. H. S. Demarest. At the 152d annual commencement of Rutgers this morning, forty-seven men were graduated. Mrs. Mary Mitchell Moore, of Bryn Mawr College, was given the degree of Doctor of Philosophy. This is the first time in the history of the college that a women has received a degree. In addressing the alumni, Secretary Daniels said in part:

"I am happy to come to this city which has given to the American Navy in its hour of supreme need a commander whose name makes his deeds compare with the stars. I refer, of course, to Commander Arthur S. Carpender of the Fanning, an officer typical of the navy, the story of whose judgment, valor, and courage will be, when we come to write the story of these days of strife, one of the most illuminating and inspiring pages. In all our wars our navy has played a glorious part from the time of John Paul Jones until Carpender captured the first Germans taken by Americans and went out after more, and he will capture more before this war is over.

"Almost every day in my official capacity I am now called upon to give a name to a ship, and we are going to get them out faster. We are going to get out the greatest naval ships produced, the destroyers on which men do not sleep for days and do not eat except standing up. I have knowledge of one destroyer which convoyed 177 ships safely. Admiral Sims, when he came upon this particular destroyer in a harbor, expecting to find the boys tired of their duty, found them fresh and asking no questions except 'Admiral, where do we go next?'

"There are 300,000 men in the navy now and there will be 400,000 soon. They are enlisting so fast we have to ask them to stay at home for a few days until we can build new ships for them. We have no common seamen any more—they are all common heroes. Since the war began 1,500 men have been promoted to be officers, and to see them you would believe they had come up through Annapolis. The young men of today have shown that they will enlist, sacrifice, win victories, and give their lives for their country's sake. The first men to enlist when the call came were college men. They were supposed to be soft, and high brows, but every time I go aboard a ship and see those stalwart young men I am impressed with the astounding manner in which they have proven they have the stuff.

"Our men are receiving commendatory remarks from every side, from the French, the British, and the Italians. The only obstacle in the way of America's participation in this war is tonnage. If we had had the vision, years ago, to have a merchant marine, we would not have been so handicapped at the outbreak of war. Out of this war we must learn that our commerce must never again be carried in foreign bottoms.

"The great drive of the Prussians a month ago was made because the German Emperor well knows that when America gets enough ships to carry over her forces, the end has come. We are building ships, but we cannot build them in a day. When this war began, we had only a handful, so long had we depended on the construction on foreign shores. But America can do anything, and before another Summer we will have enough ships to carry not only a million but millions to France, and enough destroyers to carry them there in safety.

"One of these days, not this year perhaps or the next year or the year after, but one of these days these millions are coming back home, and the most of them are coming back; those who do not come back will lie in graves in the sacred soil of France, and we will love that country with a love unequaled except by that love of Lafayette for this country. And when they come back they'll own America and we will give it to them gladly and proudly.

"The President of the United States, the foremost statesman of the world and the spokesman for humanity—and all the world thanks New Jersey for giving him to us—and the Congress of the United States have called men to the colors from 21 to 31 years of age. Young men in college from 18 to 21 should stay in college until they reach the latter age. The day may come when, if necessary, Congress may change the age limit because men from 21 to 31 cannot win the war. Then we will call on the men from 18 to 60.

"No man ought to surrender his independence in politics, but I do not believe in mockery in religion and politics. There isn't a man in America today who will get a following with the people unless he puts America above party.

"We shall have many anxious moments before victory comes, but never for a moment should we be in doubt. We have no business to listen to pessimism. What cowardice is to the soldier, pessimism is to the civilian. We have no more right to doubt the result of the war than that God rules the heavens."

Great Western Power Earnings.

The Great Western Power system reports operating income amounting to $342,207 in April, an increase of $15,135 over the same month last year. Operating expenses declined somewhat and the net income from all sources was $229,562, a gain of $16,055. The surplus for the four months ended April 30, after paying interest, was $301,713, a gain of $27,694 over the same period in 1917.

WAR FINANCE BOARD TO OFFER QUICK AID

Urgent Pleas for Assistance Expected to be Met Within the Next Two Weeks.

DIRECTORS HOLD MEETING

Begin Task of Considering Applications for Financial Aid to War Manufacturers.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Directors of the War Finance Corporation, meeting today for the first time, began the immense task of considering applications for financial aid to activities essential to the conduct of the war. Apparently under the belief that the War Finance Corporation is a source of easy money for all kinds of development projects, scores of persons have applied for advances to aid them in promoting new enterprises which they assert will contribute to the war's success.

Applications were classified today, and the Directors set about the work of getting full information on cases which appeared meritorious. Applicants who did not present sufficient claims to justify immediate consideration will be told to examine their cases in the light of the War Finance Corporation act, and to refile them if further evidence can be presented.

A few cases seem urgent, and loans may be made on them within the next two weeks. Some of these are from concerns which have been unable to obtain from banks loans with which to expand plants making war materials. Applications have been made by a number of public utilities which have been hit hard by the rising costs of materials and supplies and the difficulty of increasing service rates proportionately.

Some applications on file reflect an apparent unwillingness of banks to extend credit to institutions which they have financed in the past without advance assurance from the War Finance Corporation that the loans will be covered from the Government fund.

The Capital Issues Committee of the Federal Reserve Board, which went out of existence on May 17 with the organization of the War Finance Corporation, issued today a final report of its activities during the four months of its organization. The committee passed on applications for the investment of capital to the amount of $478,458,386, and of this amount for new enterprises it permitted the investment of $154,102,224. For refunding purposes the committee approved the investment of $258,664,496, the total amount of approved investments therefore being $412,766,721. The net curtailment was $65,691,665.

Of applications considered, 192 were from municipalities, 52 from public utilities corporations, and 107 from industrial concerns. Of these the committee gave its approval to 140 municipal, 60 public utility, and 78 industrial corporations. Thirty-four municipal applications were disapproved and 18 curtailed, 24 industrial applications were disapproved and 5 curtailed. By securing postponement for the period of the war, the committee saved from investment $19,865,000.

The statement of operations under the direction of the committee follows:

MEXICO ANNULS ORDER AGAINST MINE OWNERS

Companies Will Return 25 Per Cent. of Value of Silver as Heretofore, Instead of 50 Per Cent.

The American Smelting and Refining Company received word from its representatives in Mexico yesterday that the Mexican Government has rescinded a recent decree which, if permitted to stand, would have seriously affected the operations of American mining concerns south of the border. The statute prescribed that gold to the full value of the precious metal taken from Mexican lands be returned to that country together with 50 per cent., in gold, of the value of the silver mined. Previously, 25 per cent. of the value of the silver had to be returned, and now the Government has returned to this basis.

When the 50 per cent. rule was put into operation the Smelting and Refining Company applied to the Federal Reserve Board for permission to increase its exports of gold bullion to Mexico above the $500,000 which had been going out monthly. The permission was refused. The company informed the Mexican officials of the attitude of the United States Government.

The gold sent back to Mexico is minted into coins and turned over to the mining companies to be used in paying for labor, supplies and taxes. In expanding its efforts to increase the circulation of gold coin, the Mexican Government has ordered that American gold money be legal tender on the basis of two Mexican dollars for one American dollar. The Mexican gold dollar is valued at 49.6 cents, compared with 100 cents for the American dollar, and the arrangement gives Mexican coinage some advantage on the basis mentioned.

AIRPLANE MAIL PILOTS BATTLE WITH STORMS

Lieut. Bonsal Compelled to Put Back to Belmont Park—Hail 10,000 Feet Up.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Airplane mail pilots today had their first battles against storms. Soon after leaving Belmont Field, Long Island, Lieutenant Bonsal ran into an electrical disturbance, accompanied by wind and rain, and was forced to return, the mail being forwarded by train.

Lieutenant Edgerton left Philadelphia for Washington in heavy clouds, and encountered an electrical, wind, hail, and rain storm near Baltimore at an altitude of 10,000 feet. He fought through, and arrived here in two hours and thirty-four minutes, with the propeller of his plane slightly damaged.

Lieutenant Miller missed the storm, completing the trip from Washington to Philadelphia in one hour and fifty-two minutes.

The Post Office Department announced today that two of the powerful Liberty motors probably would be installed in mail planes before the end of the week, enabling them better to fight through bad weather.

CANADA TO PAY 980 MILLION.

A. K. McLean Estimates Dominion's Expenditures for Year.

The financial burden brought upon Canada by the continuance of the war will expand in extraordinary fashion in the next fiscal year, the Canadian Bank of Commerce points out in its May letter.

"The Hon. A. K. McLean, who has been Acting Minister of Finance during the absence of Sir Thomas White through ill-health, estimates the expenditures for the next fiscal year at $980,000,000," says the letter, "and the receipts from all sources at $700,000,000, as contrasted with expenditures of $548,000,000 and receipts of $258,000,000 last year. Of this amount the ordinary expenditure for the fiscal year for all purposes apart from war is estimated at $230,000,000, as compared with $203,000,000 last year and $161,000,000 for 1913-14, the last fiscal year before the war.

"The war expenditure will amount to $425,000,000 for the coming year, compared with $345,000,000 last year. The balance consists of $325,000,000 to be advanced to the Imperial Government for the purpose of financing a part of our export trade to Great Britain. As an offset Great Britain is to make advances estimated at $300,000,000 for the maintenance of the Canadian troops overseas.

"The task of obtaining this large sum of money at home by a loan to be issued in the Autumn has been made more difficult by the heavy taxation already in force, which is impressing the effects of the war upon the business and the home of the individual Canadian in a way hitherto little felt. It is possible that the financial arrangements referred to by the Finance Minister (in a recent budget speech) as being under discussion with the United States may, to a limited extent, aid in solving the problem, but it is unlikely that much assistance will be derived from this quarter, and it will devolve upon the Canadians to find most, if not all, of the money at home."

M. T. Stevens & Sons Company Buys an Interest in the Firm.

Special to The New York Times.

PROVIDENCE, R. I., May 21.—Owing to the death of Messrs. R. G. Hazard and F. R. Hazard, a rearrangement of some of the affairs of the owners of the Peacedale Manufacturing Company became desirable. Accordingly the sale of an interest in the company to the Stevens interests has been consummated.

At a meeting of the Board of Directors of the Peacedale Manufacturing Company held today the following officers were elected: President, J. P. Stevens; Secretary Treasurer, Rowland Hazard; Assistant Treasurer, H. D. Mann. John R. Hinchliffe, who has been superintendent of the Peacedale Company for many years, has purchased the Carolina Mill, which formerly was owned by the Peacedale Manufacturing Company, and has resigned to take up his new interests.

M. T. Stevens & Sons Company was appointed to manage the Peacedale Manufacturing Company. The business at the mills will continue as heretofore with Robert M. Gwynne as superintendent.

When the Civil War Was Over

When the Civil War, a conflict that had shaken the Union, was over, a period of uncharted possibilities lay ahead.

The years passed, and the country on the wreckage of war built up a new structure of prosperity. Its growth in economic strength and breadth of opportunity was rapid.

A half century's experience—identification with the country's financial and economic life in Brooklyn throughout this period of progress—strengthens this Company's faith that a greater, more prosperous future for the United States will also arise out of this present era of destruction—a future built on new foundations of patriotism, of self-sacrifice, of thrift, developed in the furnace of war.

Reorganized Railroads

AMONG THE underlying issues of the country's reorganized railroads there exist many Investment Opportunities.

The railroad administration has just approved an expenditure of nearly a billion dollars for railroad betterments and equipment.

① —Government Control.

This is a most opportune time to investigate the possibilities in Bonds of reorganized railroads.

THE COTTON MARKET

Efforts to Start a Bull Movement Meet Comparatively Little Success.

Efforts to upset the equilibrium of the local cotton market and start a bull movement met with comparatively little success yesterday. Prices had been bid up, in a rather narrow market, by short covering and speculative long purchases, nearly 50 net points, when the market became topheavy and fell with a crash on reports of an easier spot situation and lower spot quotations in the South, dropping back below Monday's close. There was enough bargain-hunting and short covering at the bottom to restore the situation, leaving the close very steady, prices ranging from 5 points up to 18 points off.

The weather report was extremely good, but it became clear in the early trading that the market was rather heavily overbought. First prices were up from 14 to 21 points, with a number of buying orders from Liverpool in hand, and the Liverpool market closing rather firm. Another factor was the appearance on the floor of a number of mill buyers, all of whom had come to town to attend today's austion sale of 5,391 bales of German-owned cotton by the Alien Property Custodian.

This is reported to be of excellent quality white cotton, grading strict to good middling, and it was freely predicted by spot dealers yesterday that bids on it would go several hundred points above the market, because of the exceptional demand for cotton of this quality, out of line with the normal price differences.

These buyers, however, bought no cotton on the floor yesterday, so far as could be ascertained, and early in the afternoon the market, over-extended, became very wabbly. At this juncture Savannah's spot quotation was reported at 30, off 2½ cents, and though this was only a belated change in parity with recent declines, the effect was to cause a selling wave that more than wiped out the advance.

Exports yesterday were 5,000 bales, making 3,429,840 for the current season. Southern spot markets, aside from Norfolk and Savannah, which showed the largest readjustments, showed a generally lower tendency.

Yesterday's quotations follow:

BUTTER AND EGG MARKET.

BUTTER.—Receipts yesterday, 11,606 packages. A slight undercurrent of weakness with a little shading of values in some cases. Not so much stock available as operators expected, owing to the slow delivery of many of the shipments. More weakness in the undergrades than finer qualities. Creamery, higher than extras, a pound, 45½@46c; extras, (92-score,) 44½@45c; firsts, (88 to 91 score,) 42@44c; seconds, (83 to 87 score,) 37½@41½c; thirds, 35@37c; creamery, unsalted, higher than extras, 47½c; extras, 46½@47c; firsts, 43½@46c; seconds, 40@43c; State dairy, tubs, finest, 44½c; good to prime, 42@44c; common to fair, 35@41c; renovated, extras, 38½@39c; firsts, 37@38c; lower grades, 33@35c; imitation creamery, firsts, 34@35c; ladles, current make, firsts, 32@33c; seconds, 31c; lower grades, 29@30½c; packing stock, current make, No. 1, 31c; No. 2, 30c; lower grades, 27@29½c.

EGGS.—27,800 cases. The market continues generally dull, weak, and irregular. Offerings of average prime and lower qualities are excessive in comparison with the limited demand. There is only a limited offering of strictly fancy full, strong-bodied, Northern stock, and some buyers of very fastidious ideas say that they have difficulty in finding such, but the best goods generally obtainable are freely offered at quotations and meeting but a slow outlet and the medium and lower grades are being shaded further in the effort to force business. Nearby white eggs are still moving slowly and the accumulations are reducing only gradually. Current receipts are moderate and the proportion of extra fancy goods is comparatively small. Fine qualities, however, are generally selling at 38@39c, only exceptionally fancy goods bringing higher prices, and some fair lots are cleaning up as low as 36@37c. Fresh gathered extras, a dozen, 36@37c; storage packed firsts, 34½@35½c; regular packed extra firsts, 34½@35c; regular packed firsts, 32½@34c; seconds and poorer, 29@32c; fresh gathered dirties, No. 1 storage packed, 30½@31c; regular packed, No. 1, 29@30c; No. 2 and poorer, 27@28½c; fresh gathered checks, good to choice, dry, 28@29c; under grades, 22@27c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby Western hennery whites, fine to fancy, 38@40c; ordinary to prime, 36@37c; gathered whites, ordinary to fine, 35@38c; Western and Southern, gathered whites, 35@37c; State, Pennsylvania, and nearby hennery browns, 37@38c; gathered brown and mixed colors, 32½@35c; duck eggs, 29@42c.

COMMODITIES MARKETS

WHEAT.

Despite the very small visible supply of wheat, a prominent Western trade publication estimates that on May 1 there were 54,000,000 bushels of wheat still in the country for export and carry over into the next season. If these figures are correct, the wheat is apparently largely on the farms or in the hands of mills and country elevators, and should provide for quite a liberal export movement during the balance of the season and keep the mills fairly well occupied.

The Spring wheat crop is getting a splendid start, but has yet to pass through its most critical period of drought and blight.

RYE.

CORN.

The corn market was again very feverish and price changes were due more to technical conditions and the nature of operations than to any new development in connection with the present prospective supply and demand. Early prices showed a strong upward tendency, but subsequently declined, and at the close the July position in the West was 1¾c net lower. In the local cash market prices were barely steady; kiln dried No. 3 yellow quoted at $1.50; No. 4 yellow, $1.40, cost and freight, New York.

OATS.

The Western oats market was again disturbed by the action of the May position, which sold up to 79¾c, an advance of 1¾c from the previous close. Toward the close there was a reaction throughout the list, and final quotations were irregular, ranging from ¾c advance to ¼c net decline. In the local cash market standard was quoted at 85@85½c; No. 2 white, 86c asked; No. 3 white, 84@85c; No. 4 white, 83@84c; fancy clipped white, 86½@89½c; ordinary clipped white, 85@86½c, all elevator.

PROVISIONS.

An easier tone prevailed in the provision market and prices closed at about the low. Hog receipts were only moderate, and the hog market was firm, but the cash position was quiet, and there was a disposition to favor the selling side. Receipts of hogs at Chicago were 20,000, estimated for today 18,000; Kansas City received 12,000 and Omaha 15,000 hogs.

COFFEE.

There was more business in the market for coffee futures yesterday, but price changes were extremely narrow, with the opening unchanged to 1 point higher, and the close net unchanged to 1 point lower. The business reported came from trade sources, probably reflecting the placing or undoing of hedges, except for switches from September to March at 35 points. No improvement was reported in the spot market generally, with quotations unchanged on the basis of 8½c for Rio 7s and 10⅛c for Santos 4s. Range of prices:

SUGAR.

There were no purchases reported by the International Sugar Committee yesterday, although thus far this month they have been quite heavy and promise to exceed earlier estimates of 300,000 tons. In fact, already purchases for that amount have been made, and it is now said that shipments during May would reach over 350,000 tons. Prices remain unchanged at the fixed level of 4.985c for Cubas, cost and freight, equal to 6.005c for centrifugal and 7.45c for fine granulated.

CONSOLIDATED EXCHANGE

The market yesterday on the Consolidated Stock Exchange closed steady with a majority of the issues showing net advances from a fraction to more than a point. Prices, however, were substantially below the high levels of the day, and the course of the market in the afternoon and at the close was irregular, with a rather weak tendency. Profit taking on an extended scale in the final hour checked a spirited advance and in the reaction prices declined sharply, nullifying the major portion of the gains.

TELLS OF SHIP PRODUCTION.

John Trix of Detroit told of rapid progress in the manufacture of Liberty motors at the convention of the National Association of Manufacturers yesterday and decried the criticism of the nation's efforts to promote the war program. Equally gratifying to the assembled manufacturers was the statement of Charles S. Page of the United States Shipping Board, Washington, that earlier obstacles having been overcome, the output of ships would shortly be "at a pace that will startle the world."

Mr. Trix said that the magnitude of the airplane and engine plants, which had grown up almost overnight, was almost inconceivable. He said there would be no check or delay in the construction of Liberty motors.

After tracing the work of the Shipping Board from its formation in 1916 up to the present time, Mr. Page said, that the story of the recent progress in shipbuilding read like a romance. He added:

"As our military and naval program has advanced it has been necessary to withdraw more and more tonnage from export merchant marine service and allocate it to military and naval uses. Such a condition is likely to continue for a considerable period to come. The necessary effect of this has been to reduce the tonnage for export and import trade purposes by the withdrawal of vessels heretofore trading to the Orient, Australia, the South Seas, the east and west coasts of South and Central America, and to European countries."

Charles F. Beach, an American resident of Paris, told of France and her industrial needs, and recommended that the National Association of Manufacturers form a commission at the present convention to study and advise on the economic and industrial problems that will confront France at the end of the war.

George S. Boudinot, Secretary of the association, made a plea for the restoration of the crippled soldier to industry, asserting that a careful investigation had shown that in every factory there are many jobs that could be handled by disabled soldiers.

Resolutions dealing with economic and industrial conditions were adopted by the convention, one of them urging employers to re-employ workers when honorably discharged from the military service of the United States, and another asking the Government to make an investigation of the workings of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust laws with a view to determining whether they should be modified to meet the new conditions to prevail in this country following the war.

The convention ends today.

DISSOLUTION NOTICES.

NOTICE IS HEREBY GIVEN that at a meeting of the stockholders of the Duluth, Superior & Western Terminal Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia, held at St. Paul, Minnesota, on the 27th day of April, 1918, the following resolutions were adopted:

RESOLVED, first, That the Duluth, Superior and Western Terminal Company, a corporation created and organized under the laws of the State of West Virginia, shall and hereby it does discontinue business as a corporation and shall surrender to said State its Charter and corporate franchises; and that the Directors and proper officers for and on behalf of the Company be and hereby they are authorized and directed to do whatever may be necessary or proper to carry out the purpose and intent hereof.

RESOLVED, second, That the President of this corporation cause notice of the adoption of the foregoing resolution to be published in some newspaper of general circulation published in New York City once a week for four consecutive weeks; and that he certify these resolutions to the Secretary of State of the State of West Virginia, and deliver to him a certificate showing the publication of said notice as provided by law.

Given under my hand this 27th day of April, 1918.

[Corporate Seal.] RALPH BUDD,
President of Duluth, Superior & Western Terminal Company.
Attest: L. E. KATZENBACH, Secretary.

REAL ESTATE FIELD

Receivers of American Real Estate Company Sell Bronx Taxpayers.

Lawrence McGuire and Walter C. Noyes, as receivers of the American Real Estate Company sold two valuable Bronx taxpayers, yesterday, to Frederick Brown, the operator, in a cash transaction.

The properties in the deal include the two-story building at the southeast corner of Third Avenue and 180th Street, on a plot 96 by 126 by irregular, containing seven stores on the grade floor and also the adjoining property on East 180th Street, a one-story building, on a plot 78 by 144, containing eleven stores. The combined parcels were held at $160,000. The S. Brener Company negotiated the transaction.

Railroad Ticket Offices Consolidated.

A consolidation of mid-town railroad ticket offices was effected yesterday through the lease of the entire ground floor in the Builders Exchange Building at 29 to 35 West Thirty-second Street. The companies to occupy this space include the Pennsylvania, New York Central, Lackawanna, Baltimore & Ohio, the Lehigh Valley and the Erie Railroads.

The floor is now occupied by the Brunswick - Balke - Callender Company, which recently renewed its lease, but consented to give up the space for the use of the Government. This company has leased for a term the ground floor at 39 West Thirty-second Street.

Edmond J. Loughran negotiated both transactions. The same broker leased the entire ground floor in the Manhattan Life Building 64 Broadway to the railroads for their downtown offices in the financial district. Jardine, Hill & Murdock, Architects, have charge of alterations at both locations.

First Sale Since 1861.

The five-story building at 71 and 73 Front Street, covering a plot 38 by 55, adjoining the corner of Old Slip, was sold yesterday for the first time since 1861. The Markham Realty Corporation, Clarence W. Eckhardt, President, bought the property from Caroline S. Fellowes. Cammann, Voorhees & Floyd negotiated the sale, Anderson, Iselin & Anderson representing the seller as attorneys.

Bronx Hospital Buys Home.

The Bronx Hospital has purchased for a home the old John Eichlen mansion, on the southwest corner of 169th Street and Fulton Avenue. The structure is a modern one of brick and brownstone construction, occupying a plot 218 by 150 feet. Alexander Selkin and Richard Dickson were the brokers in the deal.

The buildings will be remodeled to accommodate 100 patients, in addition to providing room for the dispensary. It is expected that the hospital will be opened early in September. The Bronx Hospital and Dispensary was founded in 1911 and is now conducting a dispensary at 1,385 Fulton Avenue.

Resale of Greenwich Street Corner.

John Ruffer purchased from Gross & Herbener, 322 Greenwich Street, a three-story building occupying a lot 20 by 50 front on the northwest corner of Duane Street. The property was recently taken in trade by the sellers. Byrne and Baumann negotiated the sale of the property, which is leased for a term of years at a net rental of $3,500.

Operator Acquires Dwelling.

James H. Cruikshank purchased from Anna E. Wooster the four-story dwelling at 247 West Seventy-sixth Street, on a lot 19 by 102, between Broadway and West End Avenue. The house is assessed by the city at $26,500. This is the first sale of this property in more than twenty years. William R. Ware was the broker.

East Side Tenement Buyer.

Harry Tincorn has purchased for investment from the Bachs estate the six story tenement at 257 Monroe Street, on a lot 25 by 93.

Home Buyer Near Bronx Park.

Gottlob Brenzinger has purchased from Charles A. Schrag the residence at 2,135 Southern Boulevard, on a plot 66 by 150, which is directly opposite Bronx Park. Louis Schrag was the broker in the deal.

Buying in the Bronx.

The Jaysil Realty Company sold to Frederick Brown, operator, 491, 493 and 495 East 140th Street, two five-story tenements on a plot 37.6 by 100. H. J. Rogers and Phelps & Damiane negotiated the sale.

Brooklyn.

Charles E. Rickerson sold for the Realty Association, 864 Sterling Place, a three-story dwelling, between Vanderbilt and Underhill Avenues. The buyer will occupy.

Staten Island.

Moffatt & Schwab sold for a client to Mrs. Leah Simon, for investment, the property at 226-228 Broadway, West New Brighton, extending through to 7-9 State Street. The State Street frontage is covered by a dwelling, and the Broadway property by two stores with flats.

Long Island.

Emma Cooley Easton sold to Grattan T. Stamford a Colonial residence at Great Neck, located near the links of the Great Neck Golf Club, for $35,000. Baker Crowell negotiated the sale.

Westchester County.

Federal Shipbuilding Purchase.

Title was passed yesterday whereby the Federal Shipbuilding Company acquired from the Jersey City authorities a tract of twenty acres on the west side of the Morris Canal, extending to the Hackensack River, in the West Bergen section of Jersey City, and directly opposite its shipbuilding plant, which is located on the west shore of the Hackensack. The company also purchased a tract adjoining, 419 by 420, from George F. Gantz of New York for $36,000. Options have been secured on the remaining eighty acres lying northerly of the above parcels, which were obtained from Mrs. R. Louise Flaacke, the Vredenburgh estate, the Standard Oil Company, and the Robert Davis estate. When these titles are closed the Shipbuilding Company will have 100 acres, comprising all the lands lying between the Newark and New York Railroad on the south, extending northerly to the Lincoln Highway and from the west bank of the Morris Canal to the Hackensack River, together with the land under water.

Plan Jersey City Police Headquarters.

The Jersey City authorities are to purchase from George R. Lawrence 296 Fairmount Avenue, 50 by 125; 12 Boland Street, 25 by 90, from the Vanderbeek estate; 16 Boland Street, 50 by 105, from Frank Paige; 769 Montgomery Street, 75 by 92, from the Wheelihan estate, and 763 Montgomery Street from Patrick Fitzpatrick. The entire plot has a frontage of 100 feet on Montgomery Street, 300 feet along Boland Street, and 50 feet on Fairmount Avenue. As soon as title is acquired the buildings will be razed and a police headquarters building erected on the site.

New Jersey.

S. S. Walstrum-Gordon & Forman sold for Mrs. Daisy R. Bonham her residence at 80 West End Avenue, Kathawood Park, Ridgewood, N. J., to Mrs. Edith M. Pittinger.

Charles P. Kraemer has sold for the National Concrete Block Company of New Jersey to the Pierce-Butler & Pierce Manufacturing Corporation the vacant lot on the east side of Colt Street, 150 feet south of Cottage Street, Newark. This plot has a frontage of 50 feet and a depth of 250 feet, upon which the new owner will erect a one-story concrete block factory building.

Harry Adler, in conjunction with Charles F. Kraemer, sold for the Indemnity Building and Loan Association to Herbert E. Henderson of Bloomfield the residence at 43 Lawrence Street, Newark, for occupancy.

Bowles & Co. sold the Colonial stone residence on Highway Avenue, near Grand Avenue, Leonia, N. J., to Miss Mary E. Calhoun, Principal of the Jacob School, New York City.

Commercial Leases.

The Duross Company leased for Edward F. Jackman of Pittsburgh, Penn., the five-story building, 324, 326 and 328 Pearl Street, near Beekman Street, to the Champion Coated Paper Company of Hamilton, Ohio, for a term of ten years. After extensive alterations, the lessee will occupy for a warehouse.

The Gross & Brown Company leased the entire building at 208 West Seventy-seventh Street to Frank Barber for a term of years, and also entire building at 155 Duane Street to Bernard D. Meyer.

A Recent Buyer.

Realty Notes.

William A. White & Sons have obtained a first mortgage of $300,000 at 5 per cent. for five years for the Commodore-Biltmore Company on 322 to 332 East Forty-fifth Street through to 323 to 333 East Forty-fourth Street, which is to be improved with a five-story garage, 150 by 200.

Bryan L. Kennelly will sell at auction today, in the Exchange Salesroom, a number of Manhattan and Long Island properties, among them holdings of the estate of Frances M. O'Connor.

Education Notes.

The following officers have been elected by a unanimous vote by the Directors of the Public Schools Athletic League: General George W. Wingate, President; Colonel Theodore Roosevelt, Honorary Vice President; Gustavus T. Kirby, First Vice President; Dr. John Huston Finley, Second Vice President; Edgerton L. Winthrop, Jr., Third Vice President; Mgr. M. J. Lavelle, Fourth Vice President; S. R. Guggenheim, Treasurer; C. L. Myers, Assistant Treasurer, and Dr. C. Ward Crampton, Secretary.

The Board of Education has approved plans for the organization of opportunity classes this Summer and for the Fall season of the evening elementary schools.

There has been reported to the Committee on Salaries a recommendation that the compensation of evening elementary school teachers be increased from $3 a night to $3 a night for the first two years of service, $3.50 for the next two years, and $4 for the fifth and succeeding years.

Funds have been provided for continuing two classes in camouflage during the Summer evening session.

A request from the Teachers' Council that absence refunds be paid more promptly has been referred to the City Superintendent of Schools for investigation.

The first of the annual park fetes by the girls' branch of the Public Schools Athletic League has been postponed to May 23.

Herman C. Pross of P. S. 64, Manhattan, and Frederick Hildenbrand of P. S. 5, Brooklyn, have been appointed teachers of electrical installation and practice.

The Brooklyn Teachers' Association has re-elected Miss Isabel A. Ennis President.

THE WEATHER.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—The Western disturbance of Monday has been forced to the northward and is slowly dissipating over Manitoba. There was a decided fall in pressure during Tuesday over the upper lake region, while in the West it has risen considerably and remains high in the East.

Showers fell in the Northwest and thundershowers in the Lower Missouri and Upper Mississippi Valleys, New England, the Middle Atlantic States, the Ohio Valley, and the mountain districts of Virginia, North Carolina, and Tennessee. Elsewhere the weather was fair.

Temperatures are high except in the Northwest and extreme West, where they are quite low, with freezing temperatures Tuesday morning over interior northern districts west of the Rocky Mountains. Frost also occurred Tuesday morning in Northern Michigan. There will be showers Wednesday in the lower lake region and also in Southern Virginia and interior North Carolina, followed by fair weather Thursday. Elsewhere east of the Mississippi River the weather will be generally fair Wednesday and Thursday.

Temperature changes will not be of consequence.

Winds for Wednesday and Thursday along the North Atlantic Coast will be moderate, variable, with showers. Middle Atlantic Coast—Moderate, mostly south, showers Wednesday, fair Thursday. South Atlantic Coast—Gentle to moderate southeast except east off the Florida coast; fair.

FORECAST TODAY AND THURSDAY.

Eastern New York and Eastern Pennsylvania—Partly cloudy Wednesday and Thursday.

Southern New England—Fair Wednesday, preceded by showers near the coast; Thursday fair.

New Jersey—Partly cloudy Wednesday; Thursday fair.

Western New York—Fair Wednesday and probably Thursday.

Northern New England—Fair Wednesday and probably Thursday; cooler Thursday on the coast.

The temperature record for the twenty-four hours ended at 11 P. M., taken from the thermometer at the local office of the United States Weather Bureau, is as follows:

3 A. M.	55	65	4 P. M.	70	67
6 A. M.	52	64	6 P. M.	66	65
9 A. M.	55	66	9 P. M.	58	64
12 M.	63	70	11 P. M.	57	64

This thermometer is 414 feet above the street level. The average temperature yesterday was 70; for the corresponding date last year it was 61; average on the corresponding date for the last thirty-three years, 61.

The temperature at 8 A. M. yesterday was 67; at 8 P. M. it was 66. Maximum temperature, 76 degrees at 1:30 P. M.; minimum, 61 degrees at 9 P. M. Humidity, 67 per cent. at 8 A. M.; 92 per cent. at 8 P. M.

The barometer at 8 A. M. yesterday registered 30.23 inches; at 8 P. M. it stood at 20.26 inches.

JUNE REGISTRATION WILL YIELD 750,000

Officials Estimate Army Will Get That Number of Men Just Past 21.

ALL OF AGE MUST ENROLL

Crowder Emphasizes That Divinity and Medical Students' Must Report to Boards.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Major Gen. Crowder, Provost Marshal General, today emphasized the fact that medical and divinity students would be required to register on June 5, along with all other citizens or aliens reaching the age of 21 since June 5 of last year, and that the only exceptions to the law providing for this registration were men actually in the military or naval service.

General Crowder said he estimated that probably 750,000 men would be added to the army in the making by the June 5 registration. His estimate takes into consideration the fact that almost 10,000,000 registered on June 5 last. This number included all who were then between 21 and 31. Statistics collected by General Crowder's office show that a little more than 10 per cent. of the men were 21 years old. On that basis, it is estimated by draft officials working under the Provost Marshal General that this year's registration will exceed 1,000,000.

Of this number, General Crowder estimates that three-quarters, or about 750,000, will be available for military service. This makes allowances for physical defects, exemptions because of dependents, and other bars to military service.

Under President Wilson's proclamation, all male persons, citizens or aliens, must register. The only persons excepted are officers and enlisted men of the regular army, navy and Marine Corps, and the National Guard and Naval Militia while in Federal service, and officers of the Officers' Reserve Corps and enlisted men in the enlisted Reserve Corps while in active service.

General Crowder plans to have the local boards keep their offices open for registration between 7 A. M. and 9 P. M. on June 5. Between these hours, all young men who were born between June 5, 1896, and June 5, 1897, must register. These men are subject to the provisions of the selected service under which the first registration was held.

To clear up misunderstanding caused by the publication of reports that medical and divinity students need not register, General Crowder issued this statement:

"Divinity students and students of medicine must register. Under the terms of the law signed by President Wilson on Monday, students who were preparing for the ministry in recognized theological or divinity schools and students who were preparing for the practice of medicine and surgery in recognized medical schools on May 20, 1918, are exempt from the draft.

"The law does not relieve such students from the duty of registering on Wednesday, June 5. Registration comes first, exemption afterward. It is absolutely necessary that these students register.

"The only young men not affected by the new law are those now actually in military or naval service. All male persons, citizens, or aliens, born between June 6, 1896, and June 5, 1897, inclusive, except officers and enlisted men of the Regular Army, Navy, and Marine Corps, and the National Guard and Naval Militia, while in Federal service, and officers in the Officers' Reserve Corps and enlisted men in the Enlisted Reserve Corps while in active service, must register."

General Crowder has sent copies of the regulations covering this point to the Governors of the States and to the local boards.

SHIELDED FROM DRAFT BY GOVERNMENT JOBS

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Congressmen who have been investigating the subject charge that thousands of men of draft age are enjoying freedom from military duty through exemptions obtained for them by executives of Federal departments. This situation was uncovered during the discussion on the Food Production bill, when it was shown that the Secretary of Agriculture had 2,000 men exempted from military service. It was asserted that if the same proportion of exemptions prevailed in other Government departments more than 10,000 so-called "Government slackers" would be found in Washington.

To prevent further abuse of executive exemptions from military service the House amended the Food Production bill so as to prohibit the Secretary of Agriculture employing any of the 11,000 men authorized by the bill for field service who are within the draft age. There was some opposition to the amendment, especially by Representative Candler of Mississippi, in charge of the measure, until Representative Claude Kitchin, leader of the House, insisted that he should agree to it as a patriotic duty.

May Deny Fuel Oil to Yachts.

WASHINGTON, May 21.—Prohibition of the use of fuel oil for private yachts for the duration of the war is under consideration by the Fuel Administration. Officials say probably 300 steam-driven yachts and 1,000 gasoline-propelled boats operated as pleasure craft would be affected by such a prohibition.

SAYS MAYOR DECLINES TO BAR GERMAN PAPERS

Mrs. Field Asserts Hylan's Attitude Will Not Cause Her to Relax Her Efforts.

Mrs. Oliver Cromwell Field, Chairman of the American Defense Society's Committee for Suppressing All Things German, said yesterday that after a long conference with Mayor Hylan recently she had been unable to persuade him to take the initiative in New York and bar all German newspapers from the news stands. She said the Mayor told her and Mrs. Walter A. Scott that it was a matter entirely for the Federal Government to handle, but had promised her all the aid in his power just as soon as the Federal authorities took action.

"Out in North Dakota," said Mrs. Field, "I learn that the German speaking people are asking why the United States is in the war. Governor Frazier of the State recently said that the German press had not told them the truth about the war, and he urged at a State convention that the foreign language press be compelled to carry, translated for the information of their readers, documents showing what forced the country into war. A state of affairs like this is incredible and immediate action should be taken against the German papers."

Mayor Hylan refused yesterday to discuss the visit of Mrs. Field.

A petition praying that the name of Germania Avenue be changed to Liberty Avenue was received yesterday afternoon by the Jersey City Commissioners and was referred to James J. Gannon of the Department of Streets and Public Improvements. The petition is signed by every resident of that avenue with the exception of one.

CITES HYLAN AS SPEEDER.

Policeman Stops Mayor Twice and Gets Summons for Third Offense.

Mayor Hylan has twice been stopped for speeding by one policeman in Nassau County, and a summons has been drawn for service on his chauffeur if the third offense takes place.

Policeman O. W. Payne of Baldwin yesterday showed the summons which he had thought fit to draw for this special case. Policeman Payne said yesterday that the first offense was on May 4, when he stopped the Mayor and a party of friends making thirty-three miles an hour on the Merrick Road, where the speed limit is fifteen miles an hour. The second offense was on May 13, when, according to the policeman, the Mayor and some women were making forty miles an hour on the Merrick Road. After stopping the car the second time, Policeman Payne said to the Mayor:

"I think it is imposing on my good nature for you to do this so often."

Then he told the chauffeur that he would serve a summons on him if he repeated the offense. Controller Craig's chauffeur is under summons to appear at the Jamaica Court on Thursday of next week to answer a charge of speeding with the Controller. Controller Craig has promised to be a witness at this hearing.

TORNADOES KILL 16 IN KANSAS AND IOWA

Scores of Persons Injured and Loss of Property, Live Stock, and Crops Is Heavy.

HAYS, Kan., May 21.—Ten persons were killed, two probably fatally injured, and dozens of others less seriously injured in a tornado which swept across northern Ellis and southern Rooks Counties early today. At the little town of Codell, in Rooke County, all the churches, schools, and larger business houses and homes were demolished by the tornado and the débris was swept away.

The tornado started fifteen miles northwest of Hays and swept a strip a mile wide in a northwesterly direction for thirty-five miles. Only meagre reports have been received, and the death list may be augmented when full details of the devastation are learned.

Hundreds of horses and cattle were killed and much damage was caused to growing crops by hail, which came after the wind had passed.

DES MOINES, Iowa, May 21.—Tornadoes which swept the central parts of Iowa this afternoon resulted in the death of at least six persons and the injury of scores of others, according to reports reaching here tonight. Property damage estimated at more than a million dollars was wrought by the storm. According to reports, three of the dead were killed at Boone, forty miles north of here, and two others at Newton, thirty-five miles to the east.

Reports from Boone said the tornado swept across the entire county from southwest to northwest, leveling farm buildings, killing live stock and inflicting heavy damage on growing crops. In the city of Boone, fifty houses were razed and the Iowa division shops of the Chicago & Northwestern Railroad virtually demolished. The victims met death, for the most part, in the ruins of their homes.

Calls for aid were sent out by railroad officials to virtually all towns in Iowa east and west on the main line of the Northwestern, and physicians and nurses are en route here from nearby towns.

Estimates of the damage in the city of Boone tonight varied from $200,000 to $500,000, while fragmentary reports from rural districts placed the damage there at close to $1,000,000.

At Newton two persons were killed and half a dozen injured when the storm wrecked a factory. Trees were uprooted, buildings unroofed, and in rural districts crops were ruined and livestock was killed. Estimates of the damage run into five figures.

One man was killed and two were severely injured near Denison, in the west central portion of the State, according to reports from there.

LIGHTNING STRIKES A TRAIN.

Girl Struck Unconscious—Heavy Rainfall in Town.

As a Pennsylvania Railroad train from Philadelphia approached New Brunswick, N. J., about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, lightning hit one of the coaches. Miss M. Altgelt of Bridgeport, Conn., was rendered unconscious. She was revived by a physician who was on the train and continued her journey. The Rev. Dr. J. Henry Smythe, Chancellor of American University, was slightly shocked.

A heavy downpour of rain deluged this city. In the early afternoon, when the storm was at its worse, it became so dark that in many office buildings it was found necessary to turn on lights so that work could be continued. The rain was accompanied by thunder and lightning. The rain fall was 1.3 inches.

In the course of the storm the southeast tower of the American Museum of Natural History was struck by lightning. The stone ornamentation of the tower was damaged

Economize—Wear Good Clothes

Yesterday, if a man felt he could afford the doubtful luxury of cheap clothes it was his business—he paid.

But, when he fools himself on a price tag today, it's different—it's unpatriotic.

He is wasting labor and materials that are needful in war work. He is hurting the country; he is delaying the game; he is wronging you and us.

So, it's worth remembering that Hart Schaffner & Marx Clothes are economical. You know it, because you know they are good, all-wool clothes.

This Type of Motor Is Self-Preserving And Improves With Use

And this is the most beautiful car we have ever built.
